The result of the investigation by the government inspectors of the recent collision between the steamers state of California and Whitestone is made public. The inspectors find Captain Lieleg of the Whitestone went below on the night of the accident, leaving the second mate, an unlicensed officer, in charge, and it was due to his want of knowledge that the collision took place. Captain Lieleg is found culpable for having placed such an officer in charge, and his license as a master and pilot is suspended for thirty days. Captain Ackley of the state of California is exonerated from all blame.

David Starr Jordan has resigned the Presidency of the Leland Stanford Jr. University. The resignation is said to have been made to Senator Stanford personally and supplemented by a written communication, which is the founder of the institution has accepted. It is understood that at the end of the scholastic year President Jordan's connection with the college will cease. The reason given for the resignation is that Senator Stanford has for some time been rather dissatisfied with the manner in which Jordan has managed the university affairs. When he returned from abroad six weeks ago he summoned the President to a conference at his Palo Alto residence. He indicated the change he desired, but Jordan resented the senatorial interference with the ultimate result as stated.

CHICAGO EXPOSITION.

At the entrance of the Colorado building at the World's Fair is a flagstone of red sandstone 25x8 feet and ten inches thick.

It is reported that Count Tolstoi intends to visit the World's Fair and bring over with him a party of young Russian nobles, who are to investigate American agricultural methods and the systems of irrigation in use in the West.

A number of foreign commissioners who, when dissatisfied with the awards placed, withdrew their exhibits from the fair, have announced that they have returned them as the result of the settlement of the much-disputed question.

Henry C. Ives, head of the art department of the World's Fair, has had a cloth placed over Anderson's picture of "Woman Taken in Adultery," which the committee had refused permission to exhibit, but which the French exhibitors gave representation to in their collection of pictures.

Herr Werthmuth, the Imperial German Commissioner, said the other day, referring to the report in late dispatches that Emperor William had finally decided to come to the fair, that he had no official advice to that effect, but would not be surprised if it came to pass, as the Emperor was a great traveler and had taken a deep interest in the fair.

Director Charles H. Schwab of the World's Fair says that the exposition has cleared $299,000 on May, and as a result of a general reduction of fares to favor visitors, the receipts are confidently anticipated for the month of June. Mr. Schwab took a review of the financial success of the World's Fair is already assured. He says the running expenses of the fair will be but $100,000 in addition to the present $1,000,000, which when the forces are reduced, as cannot now be afforded by the officials. Mr. Schwab says the receipts of the month of May averaged $24,000 daily.

It is now positively known that the far-famed Oriental monarch, the Sultan of Johore, is coming to the World's Fair. His Majesty called the fact of his intended visit to Deputy Commissioner V. W. Lake, and directed Mr. Lake to meet him in Carlisle, Germany, to accompany him to Chicago. Mr. Lake at once left for New York, where he will sail for Europe on the Campania. He expects to return to Chicago before the end of the present month. The Sultan is famous for his great wealth, and is said to possess the finest collection of diamonds and rubies and pearls in the world. He is expected to bring with him a number of his two English physicians, whom he carries with him to look after his health.

The formal opening of the electricity building, which has been so long deferred, took place one night last week. The feature of the display was the unveiling and lighting of the big Edison lamp erected by the General Electric Company. This shaft is situated in the exact center of the building, and represents the highest achievement of the incandescent lamp. It extends into the grand arch formed by the intersection of the nave and transept, reaching a height of about 110 feet. The method used in construction has resulted in showing a perfect column as though the entire shaft were hewn from one massive block of stone. It springs from the roof of a colonnade surrounding the base, and the entire interior is strewn with thousands of incandescent lamps as numerous as the Western stars. The colors are arranged by mechanical methods, capable of being flashed in harmony with the strains of music. The column is crowned with a well-proportioned replica of an Edison incandescent lamp, formed from a single piece of glass. The shaft is surrounded by 30,000 of these beautiful jewels are strung on a frame, and are all lighted from the interior by a large number of incandescent lamps. The effect produced is marvellous, and can only be appreciated when seen.

Montana's famous silver statue of "Justice" and "Industry" in the building of the building is the other day. It is the statue for which the actress, Ada Rehan, stood as a model, and by so doing created much contention among her sisters of the profession. The unveiling of the statue was the event of the day at the White City, and the great building which the statue stands on was thronged with people eager to see the magnificent work of art. While the crowd was assembling, the Cincinnati band played national airs. The opening address was by Major Martin McVinnis of Montana, who spoke in glowing terms of the brilliant future of the State, of her untold wealth, of the enterprise of her citizens and her wonderful natural resources. When he finished, Mrs. Richards of Montana stepped forward, and taking up a small silver coin, gave it a gentle pull, and a brilliant rainbow of light flashed the silver image of "Justice" fell away and exposed the statue for the first time to public gaze. The crowd gave vent to wild cheers, while the band played "America." When the applause died away, Hon. L. M. Quinn, editor of the Butte Miner, made the closing address. He spoke of the statue as a work of art, of how it came to be made, and how it represented the wealth, enterprise and artistic taste of the citizens of that State. At the close of the exercises the Montana Commissioners entertained the friends and a large number of executive officers and the representatives of foreign nations at luncheon.

June 1 closed the first month of the exposition. Although the weather and the general impression that the fair is not finished have affected the attendance, the average has not been as high as the governing officers of the fair expected before President Cleveland pressed the button May 1. There is no longer any question of the department of the fair is pressed for money, although the banks, which are represented in the local corporation, stand ready to advance money at any time to tide the exposition over; but money is owing to the contractors and employees, and the former find much difficulty in getting quick and full payment of their claims. Treasurer Zuehlke is compelled to resort to all kinds of expedients for putting the contractors off, but some have been waiting two months after the contracts have been completed and their vouchers cashed. There will be a severe policy of retrenchment in all departments of the fair beginning next month. The discharge of 2,000 employees is contemplated, and even Major Handy, who deals with the press representatives of the world, is now preparing a detailed statement of cases given with a view to a heavy reduction in the list. Ex-President Baker of the exposition, who is of the special committee investigating the press matter, thinks that the press in the country has done more harm than good in this fair and should not be treated liberally. Before the opening of the fair the committee connected with the fair talked about an average daily attendance of 100,000; but that number has only been reached twice—the opening day and Memorial day. Special features are being made attractions from the next few months, but the European patronage is not being relied on to any great extent in figuring up prospective receipts. For the month of May it can only be said that the fair has not made more than paid the opening expenses.
