Mitchell and Corbett have finally signed articles for a prize fight. The only regret is that only one of them can get licked.

Washington towns are having bad luck with their treasurers. Seattle, Whatcom and Anacortes have suffered from defalcations.

The late dynamite outrage in San Francisco calls for the most earnest efforts of the police to apprehend the perpetrators. It is a disgrace and a blot on the fair name of the Golden Gate city.

The value of the product derived from our forest resources amounts to more than $1,000,000,- million pensioners with over seven hundred thousand pending claims. There has evidently been great abuses committed in this branch of the government.

Washington, whose forestry riches are second only to those of Oregon, spent several hundred thousand dollars at the world's fair and didn't secure so much as even a mention in the awards in the forestry department.
