

The greatest university is Oxford. It has twenty-one colleges and five halls.

The farmers' alliance of Iowa and Nebraska have adopted resolutions against the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

They call it "pepper sauce" now when they try to ship whisky into South Carolina on the blind side of the eagle eye of Governor Tillman.

It might be proper to again suggest the propriety of cleaning the mud from the business streets. It is now in a condition to shovel easily.

Henry Ward Beecher once mentioned a man who did much harm in his life because he carried about with him "a great big ignorant conscience."

An astronomer in the Lick observatory announces a discovery by which the diameter of one star can be determined. Up to the present time the size of the stars has been a matter of conjecture.

Governor Penneyer remitted the greater portion of the fines against the Portland prize fighters. The moral effect however, is such that the brutal pastime will not again soon be indulged in in Oregon.

The Chinese are well pleased over the prospects of being granted further time in which to register. If the McCreary bill becomes a law, and it probably will, no Chinamen will be found hanging back.

The Portland Telegram is of the opinion that the banks should do a more general loan business because they receive deposits. The banks are keeping on the safe side, therefore depositors are willing to risk their money.

George Washington, who was first in peace, first in war, and first in the hearts of his countrymen, died on the last day of the week, the last hour of the day, the last month of the year and the last year of the last century.

There is promise of great activity in hop culture. Land suitable for hops is in demand. It pays to get the best as it costs no more to cultivate land that will grow two thousand pounds to the acre than that will produce but one thousand pounds.

From every side come complaints of bad roads. Only a few have obtained their winter supplies, flour, etc., and many will have to get through the mud as best they may. A few days of sunshine, and the indications are favorable for a term of good weather, will be of great benefit to the roads.

Congressman Bryan, of Nebraska, scouts the tales of his withdrawal from the democratic party. He says he expects to remain with the democratic party until funeral services mark his last public appearance. Mr. Bryan is one of the ablest men in congress.

The tramps are becoming aggressive. Not content with brake-beams and platform a crowd of about sixty took possession of a coach out south and it was only after considerable trouble they were ejected. Conductors and brakemen in addition to other duties have to perform pugilistic service.

We complain of the unusual rains but are apt to forget that except for hating they have been of great benefit. The ground will be in excellent condition for the plow after a few fair days, and grass will get a start that will make good range for stock during the winter. It is exasperating, but we believe the weather clerk knows his business.

The Hoag is the largest steamer ever brought to Eugene. She is too large for the upper river, but the fact that she arrived here easily on less than five feet of water demonstrates that a boat of moderate capacity could successfully ply on the river the greater portion of the year.

Sheriff Noland collected delinquent taxes promptly thereby enabling the county to pay off its indebtedness and stop interest payments. The law allows him fees for the work and as it was an unpleasant and unpopular job, and entailed heavy expenses on his office, he did not propose to forego his rights to the lawful compensation. The tax roll is cleaned up, the county has paid its debts, and a low rate of taxation for this year will be the result. It is not the men who pay their taxes promptly that are making all this noise, but those who would drag along without settling year after year. If Sheriff Noland had not performed his duty there would now be a delinquent tax list of forty or fifty thousand dollars. The persecution to which he is being subjected on this account, together with Judge Fisk and Commissioner Parker, will only strengthen the belief of the people in their honor and probity.

The visit of the Russian fleet to Toulon is a reminder to the other nations of Europe that in case of war France and Russia will be found acting as allies.

The manifesto issued by the national liberal federation of Great Britain to the people contains these words: "If the house of lords is faithful to its traditions and practice it will capitulate. If not, we of the Liberal party will enter on a fight of which we shall not be afraid."

It is said that the tramps infesting the Pacific coast are not the native product, that bums north and south according to the season, but are from the east. They have visited the Chicago fair, and now propose to camp at San Francisco and help conduct the mid-winter fair.

THINK THE END IS NEAR.

Voorhees Says Debate Will Close This Week.

Senate Will Sit Every Night.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Voorhees said today he would make an effort to continue for the present the recess system inaugurated last evening. His plan is to have the senate sit each day from 10 to 6. He is of the opinion this will prove the best plan of turning out work and getting rid of long speeches. He expresses the opinion that the end of the long debate is near, and intimates the present week may close it.

In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—On reconvening this morning the senate listened to Morgan of Alabama on the motion of Dolph of Oregon to amend Monday's journal so as to show the presence of Allen at 6:30 p. m. of that day, Allen having failed to answer when his name was called. Morgan devoted most of his remarks to a reply to Hill's speech of yesterday, taking occasion to characterize the latter as an astute politician rather than a fair-minded lawyer in twisting the decision of the supreme court to serve his purpose, and adding it took an easy conscience to follow the supreme court in all its decisions.

Morgan continued at great length, touching on his part in the rebellion, of which he said he was not ashamed, and said the clock had struck at the White House and the cuckoo in the senate put their heads out of the box and responded, and informed us of the time of day. At the conclusion of Morgan's speech, Voorhees moved to lay on the table the motion of Dolph to amend the journal; agreed to; Yeas, 45; nays, 3.

Teller moved to amend the journal so that it would show his presence on a certain roll-call when he did not respond to his name. Speaking by his motion Teller resented the interference of the president and Secretary Carlisle with legislation in the senate and said that the senate was not to be brought into disrepute by the conduct of one or a dozen senators, but it would be if it allowed the executive or members of the cabinet to usurp legislative functions, or allowed itself to be stamped upon by boards of trade and the like.

FOUGHT WITH KNIVES.

Fierce Battle Between Poles and Italians.

One Killed, Twenty Others Cut.

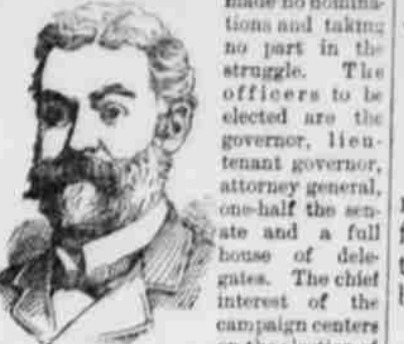

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—One dead man, two dying and 10 others variously cut and carved, lie in the station house at Whiting, Ind., this morning, the result of a Polish dance held last night. The Poles had taken possession of the town hall for the purpose of holding their merry-making. To the dance came an unbidden party of Italians. A battle between the two nations broke out and knives and dirks were the weapons used. The floor ran with blood. John Poshanski, a Pole, was literally scalped alive and will die. Another Pole had his jugular severed. The noise of the fray roused the citizens and attracted the few officers of the town. The riot could not be quelled and not until 13 were disabled and 20 more received slighter wounds did the war abate. Many were arrested. Over 100 were engaged.

THE MOST STUBBORN Skin and Scalp Diseases, the worst forms of Scrofula, all blood-taints and poisons of every name and nature, are utterly rooted out by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. For every disease caused by a torpid liver or impure blood, it is the only remedy so certain and effective that it can be guaranteed. If it fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back. Eczema, Tetter, Salt-rheum, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Enlarged Glands, Tumors, and Swellings, and every kindred ailment, are completely and permanently cured by it. A THREE CORNERED CAMPAIGN.

Interesting Aspects of the Campaign in Virginia.

The political campaign in Virginia this year is a triangular fight between the Democrats, the Populists and the Prohibitionists, the Republicans having made no nominations and taking no part in the struggle. The officers to be elected are the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, one-half the senate and a full house of delegates. The chief interest of the campaign centers on the election of the legislature, which is this year to choose 2 United States senators, 5 members of the supreme court, 100 county judges and all the circuit judges in the state. Speculation about who will secure the United States senatorship is indulged in all over the state, and discussion waxing warm over the question whether legislative nominees are favorable to one or the other of the aspirants for the toga. The most prominent candidates for the senatorship are ex-Governor Fitzhugh Lee, Governor McKinney, Thomas Martin of Albemarle and General Epps Huntton, who is at present serving in the senate by appointment of the governor to fill the place of Senator Barbour, who died last year. One of the new senators will be elected to fill out Barbour's term, which expires March 3, 1895. As to the personality of the candidates for the governorship little need be said. Captain Edmund Randolph Cooke of Cumberland, the Populist nominee, is connected with some of the most prominent families in the state. He is about 55 years of age and has extensive plantations in Cumberland. He was graduated from the University of Virginia just before the war and entered the Confederate army as a private, achieving the rank of captain by promotion for meritorious service. Colonel O'Ferrall, the Democratic nominee, has a reputation in Virginia and beyond the state's borders for his long service in congress, while Colonel J. R. Miller, the Prohibition candidate, is well enough known not to need any introduction to those who will give him their suffrages.

A WELL SPENT LIFE.

The Distinguished Literary Achievements of Francis Parkman, the Historian. Not the least interesting circumstance in the life of Francis Parkman, the historian, is the fact that he recently completed his seventieth year apparently in better health than he had known through many years of suffering and hard labor. The germs of disease were implanted in his system during the years of his early manhood, which he spent among the Indians.

Francis Parkman, of the then unknown far west, suffering untold hardships and living the life of the savages that he might study their habits and traditions. "For 37 years," he recently said, "I have been tied by the leg, and the secluded life which I have led so long was adopted less from choice than necessity."

During all these years he has been a constant victim of rheumatism and insomnia, and his eyes have been so affected that he was able to read but little, while most of his writing has been done by an amanuensis. Yet his perseverance was sufficient to carry him through trials that would have appalled most men, and his work bears no trace of his sufferings, for the books he has written under such circumstances have been commended by eminent critics as those of the best historian of a generation that numbered Prescott, Motley and Bancroft among its writers.

It was in his youth, while a student at Harvard, that Parkman conceived the idea of writing the history of the French settlements in North America, and the annals of mankind contain few instances of such devotion to a youthful idea. All his life has been dedicated to that one purpose, and his travels at home and abroad have been undertaken with a view to its fulfillment. The archives of Europe and America have been ransacked for material, and the library of the Massachusetts Historical society has been enriched by 70 manuscript volumes of records copied for his use.

The first book that he published was "The Oregon Trail," a record of his experiences on the western journey above mentioned. This was followed by "The Conspiracy of Pontiac," the first of his historical works, though it properly takes its place at the end of the series that followed it. These were "Pioneers of France in the New World," "La Salle and the Great West," "The Old Regime in Canada," "Count Frontenac and New France," "A Half Century of Conflict" and "Montcalm and Wolfe." In the intervals of historical work he also published a novel and his "Book of Hours." Mr. Parkman was born in Boston and has lived there all his life. It is idle perhaps but seems to wish that he may continue to live there many years yet.

Efforts for a compromise. WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The democratic senators have again put the steering committee at work upon the silver problem with the understanding that the committee is also to make recommendations as to whether a democratic conference shall be called upon the subject. The committee is making an effort to agree upon a compromise measure which the repeal democrats will accept for submission to the proposed conference in case it is called. Opinions differ as to whether there will be a formal conference or compromise submitted to the individual democratic members of the senate for endorsement. The preponderance of opinion is favorably to the conference plan.
