The Poultry World says: Yes, keep your fowls tame, for you will find you are a gainer thereby. There are far too many who do not make it a point to keep their fowls so tame that they will readily take food from the hand, and consider such a thing a useless expenditure of time; but it is not, for tame birds will be more contented, will lay on flesh and fat faster, and will lav more eggs than those which are kept constantly in a semi-wild state. Kindness is never lost on anything, no matter how small the object may be. Look at the stock breeder who is noted for the big quality of his stock, and you will never see him harsh with his animals, but at all times kind and considerate of their comfort and well-being. He never beats them or speaks harshly to them, for he well knows that such a course is very detrimental to their well-being. is with larger animals so is it relatively true of lowls; if you at all times exercise kindness toward them, they

HOW TO KEEP PUMPRINS.

A writer in an exchange thinks to keep pumpkins in a fresh state for ten months or a year is a very simple mat-ter. A person has only to select those that are sound and well ripened. Han-dle them carefully so as not to bruise the flesh: wash and wipe dry, and then store them in a dry warm room. Let each pumpkin have a separate rest; that is, do not pile one on top of another. Keep the temperature of the room as even as possible at all times, and sound, plump pumpkins can be had in June just as well as in fall or early part of winter. For the past two years he has kept his in the upper hallway leading from the dining room. A portiere hangs at the open-BEANS-Small white, No. 1, 234c; No. 234c; large white, 234c; pea beans, 34c; pink, 234c; bayou, 234c; butter,

If a person has a roomy pantry, well se-cured from frost or dampness, the upper shelf would answer nicely for a storing place. Or a clothes closet, secured from cold or dampness, would answer the purpose as well; Winter squashes can also preserved in like manner. Dampness and frosted air soon put this line of vegetables on the road to decay if left long under its influence.

DON'TS FOR THE FATHERS. Don't expect the boy to keep up with Don't lean down too hard when the boy is turning the grindstone ; this is one of the causes of boys leaving the farm.

Professional to the Last.

Alexius Erkel, the leader of the orchestra at the Buda-Pesth Volks theater, died on the 10th of June. Shortly before the end came a Jesuit father urged upon the dying musician the desirability of his accepting the consolations of the church. Erkel listened, apparently with great interest, to the exhortations of his clerical adviser, and when he had done remarked in a tone of the deepest conviction:
