The Siberian Steamer Line-Plans of the Russian-American Company Outlined -Vladivostock to San Diego.

SAN DIEGO, CAL.-Count L. J. Teleky, a young Austro-Hungarian, who is financially interested in the scheme to establish a steamship line between the Siberian port of Viadivostock and San Diego and San Francisco, has been in the city for several days for the purpose of recu-perating his health. The Count has been living incognito here. He gave further particulars of the plans of his company, which were published some weeks ago.
"The plan to establish a steamship line between Viadivostock and American ports has long been the desire of Sibira-kov, the great Russian financier and capitalist, said Count Teleky. "He is the Rothschild of Russia and principal stockholder in the Siberian Transconti nental railroad, which is to connect Vladivostock and St. Petersburg, a distance of 10,000 miles. Three thousand miles of this road is at present in operation across Siberia from Vladivostock, other sections have been built between the inland terminus and St. Petersburg, and the whole line will be finished in 1895 according to the terms of the contract. Sibirtakow and Szeweloff, his principal associates, are determined to inaugurate the projected steamship line to San Diego and San Francisco with as little delay as possible. An expenditure of $5,000,000 at this port for docks and warehouses is contemplated, San Diego having been selected as the principal port at this end of the line.

Until this arrives the effect of the deci sion cannot be definitely known. The question involved is one which has never been brought up in the courts of this country before, and the decision is one of great importance. The Haytian Re-public was seized at Seattle for singgling opium, and was reseased on bonds This view was sustained by the Court E. D. Simmons' law office in the here and by the Circuit Court of Appeals, and the case was appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States, which, as is now understood by government officials here, decided that the steamer could be libeled for any unlawful acts not struck by drift on Main street and carcommitted before or after. The acts for which the steamer was libeled here were committed before those for which she was libeled at Seattle. Of course the government will have to prove the facts alleged as to the smuggling acts com- bridge 200 feet long across Sprague river

BREAKING COLTS

TUBERCULOSIS PRECAUTIONS.

Stock Owners Can Extirpate This Disease From Their Herds and Keep

tion to animal industry and public health Dr. James Law of Cornell University. Ithaca, N. Y., makes the following suggestions as to preventive measures for adoption by the stock owner. If he will, the stock owner can extirpate this disease from his herd and thereafter keep the herd pure from such contamination. The following are the main precautions necessary to the end:

1. Board up the partitions of the stalls at the front so that no two cows can feed from the same manger nor lick each stall and manger. 3. When any animal is suspected don't let it use a drinking trough nor bucket in common with other animals. 4. Avoid old mileh cows and untherly ones, or keep them secluded from the rest of the herd.

5. The following conformation usually indicates a weakness of constitution and a susceptibility to tuberculosis: Head narrow between the horns, sunken eyes, depth of cavity (temporal) back of th eyes, thin, narrow, ewe neck, chest small, facking in both breadth and depth; hollow flank and tendency to pot belly, a general lack of muscle, so that the limbs eem loosely attached to the body in breeds that show a variety of colors, animals of lighter shades of brown and yellow. If, however, such animals are of high value for the dairy and can be kept free from infection, they need not be rejected. The finest conformations of Sborthorns, Devons, Holsteins, black or red polled, furnish no protection in the presence of the germ.

6. Pon't purchase from a herd in which tuberculosis has appeared, or in which cattle have died or been killed within a year or two. Resort first to the tubercuiin test.

7. Don't take a cow with a busky or rattling cough, wheezing, hurried breath-ing, discharge from nose, feetid breath, hard bunches under the skin, diseased udder, swollen bones or joints, unthriftness or a tendency to scour or bloat 8. Don't purchase from city, suburban

 Don't add newly-purchased cattle to your herd until you have tested them with tuberculin, especially if they have been the product of inbreeding. 10. Don't admit strange cattle to house. field nor yard with your own; keep them apart until tested with tuberculin.

11. In case of disease or unthriftiness in your herd put the animal apart and have it examined by a skilled veterina-12. If after this there remains any loubt as to the real nature of the disease, have the animal tested with the uberculin in the hands of a practitioner thoroughly acquainted with cattle and their diseases. If the result is not quite dear, keep the animal by itself and repeat the test in four weeks. 13. In case one animal in a herd shows tuberculosis, test the whole herd with

14. Test in the same manner all aninals on the farm swine, goats, sheep, orses, rabbits, cats, dogs, fowls) that cohabit with the cattle. 15. Kill all tuberculous animals, and oil, burn, di solve in acid

y in a place to which no animals have 16. Disinfect premises thoroughly; also all products of the diseased animals and all articles used about them.

17. Let no consumptive person attend on cattle or other live stock, nor prepare 18. Virmin (rats, mice, sparrows) in a building where tuberculosis animals have been should be exterminated.

Do Not Overwork. The season is at hand in which the farmer will put in twelve or fifteen hours a day at work and see that every hand on the farm does the same, says Colman's Rural World. He will hardly stop dur-ing that time long enough to eat his foot properly and take no time to either read or think. Is this good policy? either wise, prudent or profitable? women in the house will be compelled to work hours longer than the men outside. Will that pay? Some of these are mothers, and have duties and responsibilities as such, which, if found in any kind of stock, would justify a relief rom work. Surely the farmer will not verwork his wife more than he would his stock, or himself to a point where thinking is out of the question and planning impossible. The average farmer, however, will aim at nothing short of $1.75; bags, 3 crown, 4\(\)ato per pound; 4 crown, 5\(\)ato 5\(\)c. Seedless Sultanas, boxes, $1.75\(\)22.00; bags, 6\(\)8c per getting the work done, no matter how or what the consequences, so long as it is done. It is a foolhardy policy. It will not pay either in money or health. Let us take time to think, to read, to plan and to live. There are duties in these regards that we owe to ourselves, our Occasionally I see directions for breaking colts, says B. J. G. in Orange Judd Farmer, but think my way the best. When quite young I went out where it was standing, caught and held it until it eased trying to get away. I handled it very carefully so as not to frighten or part it. I not only brushed the creature gently from head to foot with my hand, but talked to it as though it were a creature of intelligence. This I did nearly every day until it seemed pleased with my visits. When a few weeks old I put on a stout halter, and after, as I thought t had become sufficiently used to this sitched it in the stable by the side of the dam. Before the colt was two years old put on a harness, letting it stand in he stable until accustomed to the new conditions. After a little I led the colt round with the harness on, and soon drew the road cart alongside of her with one hand. A few weeks before she was two years old we hitched her before the cart, and I took a ride after her. performed better than I expected. It is not often that she sees anything by the roadside so frightful that I cannot coax her to go up to it. I think the younger the colt is when training begins the more tractable it will be and the more it will respect its master.

Fertilizer for Small Fruits Nitrate of soda is a valuable fertilizer for these crops, especially strawberries and raspberries. It should be applied with phosphate of lime to produce its best effects. This application to strawberries will not only onble, but succeimes treble the yield. The berries are larger in size, handsomer in color and of these flavor.
