N. W. White, while cutting hay with a machine Saturday, on his ranch a few miles from town, came near being killed. One horse that was wild, commenced running around the other, a gentle one, until the machine, turning over frightened it too. Both started to run and Mr. White was thrown under the machine in such a manner that he was caught under it and dragged until his clothes were torn off and there was scarcely a place the size of a man's hand that was not cut or bruised. He at last succeeded in getting himself loose and went to the house. A physician was called who sewed up some of the cuts and in a few days he expects to be all right again.

Reform School Mismanagement.

The Salem Journal gives the following Reform School item to show how it is run: On the 25th of April, Johnny McNamara, who is said to be a very bright boy, was asked by an officer in whose charge he was placed, if Superintendent Hendricks had honored a report given by her, the lady officer, on the previous day. Little McNamara answered truthfully, and in compliance to the above rule, that it was not.

For this simple and well-attended obedience, Mr. Hendricks said on the following evening to the boys: "McNamara will get a good strapping tonight for telling an officer what happened in my charge." And Bryant added: "Not only that, but we'll whip him for telling a falsehood."

And the boy was taken out and given a strapping. On the following morning this boy appealed to Superintendent Hendricks, claiming that he had been unjustly punished and that Mr. Bryant wrongfully accused him. In reply to this, Mr. Hendricks said, "Dry up or you'll get another strapping." Little McNamara then appealed to other officers, each of whom went to the record book and found the boy's words to be true; that the report given by the lady was not recorded and Hendricks afterward acknowledged to a subordinate officer that it was wrong to have punished the boy.

Look Out For Fraud.

Grants Pass Courier: "Some parties hailing from San Francisco, have been selling an inferior quality of groceries in Grants Pass, at so-called wholesale prices. When those whom they have duped take the goods home they find the stuff either badly damaged or of far inferior quality to the groceries sold by our home merchants, who are our own citizens, helping pay our taxes, support our schools, town government, etc."

Of course people are justified in getting goods wherever they can do the best, but samples of the articles furnished by the "Consumers' House" will not bear comparison with those sold at home. Look out for humbugs."

The same parties will likely visit Eugene. Watch out for them.

Asking for Pardons.

Mr. Fitzhugh has returned and is fully impressed with the hope that the governor is favorable to the prayers of the petitioners. The governor, it is said, has written to the district attorney for further information, and if satisfactory the pardons are expected.

English Sparrows.

Spokane Review: The little bird now on Olympia's streets is the English sparrow which made its appearance there two years ago, with large increase at this time. A traveling shirt and clothing man was in town today soliciting orders. People should let this class alone. Their goods are seldom satisfactory, besides the Eugene merchants, who deal in clothing and furnishing goods, are reliable and can supply customers cheaper than Portland or San Francisco houses that pay big rents and are under heavy expense keeping an agent on the road.

The figures of the census for 22 states which have been published complete, show that out of every 100 farms 47 are occupied and tilled by the owners, free of incumbrance, and only 21 are occupied by owners under mortgage. The other 32 are hired. Mortgage and tenanted farms are on the increase, which is one of the evidences of a gradual monopolization of the land by a comparative few.

The following named pupils in district 126 have not been absent from school during the month of June: Bertha Peabody, Frances Beam, Ervin Kennerly, Eddie Beam, Clarence Johnson, Delmer Hayden, Roy Johnson, Ralph Johnson and Herman Nelson. Those not absent nor tardy: Ralph Johnson, Ervin Kennerly and Delmer Hayden. Leaburg, June 28, 1894. Mrs. M. J. INMAN, Teacher.

Pastor Scudder, of Jersey City says: "The bicycle is a thoroughly Christian machine, for it improves the temper, discourages dissipation, makes a man look on the bright side of things and puts vivacity into his religion. When I feel stupid, or cross, or blue, I get on my 25-pounder and take a lively spin. In 10 minutes the world looks different, I begin to feel like an angel. I feel as if I had wings, and I act more like an angel, my wife tells me the next day."

A man who buys the votes of others directly or indirectly, will sell his own directly or indirectly, whenever he can get his price. This is a general truth which applies as forcibly to United States senators as it does to others.

When the British museum catalogue is completed, says Dr. Garnett, the librarian, it will be positively the largest book in the world. During the thirteen years which it has been in preparation, one million four hundred thousand distinct titles and entries have been printed in all sorts of languages, and presenting all sorts of difficulties.

In some villages in Japan robbers are tried and convicted by ballot. Whenever a robbery is committed the ruler of the hamlet summons the entire population and requests them to write on a slip of paper the name of the person they suspect as having committed the crime. The one receiving the largest number of ballots is declared duly elected and is accordingly hanged.

An Arkansas Breckinridge, who has been in congress many years, will not represent his district when that body meets again. He was elected on a free silver platform, but betrayed the trust reposed in him. When the convention met recently his treachery was remembered. His name was not mentioned, although he was a candidate, and an uncompromising free silver man was nominated.

When the roll of states was called at the national republican league meeting at Denver Wednesday, an Oregon delegate with more enthusiasm than brains answered for his state: "Here with 16,000 majority." Oregon has no republican majority. The democratic and populist parties are in unison on many of the vital issues confronting this nation and irreconcilably antagonize republican legislation of the past. The Oregon vote showed the republicans in a minority of at least 5,000.

Senator Morrill is the veteran of the upper house of congress in age and in service. He is 84 years old on the 14th of last April. He is a well preserved fine-looking old gentleman. While Senator Morrill was celebrating the anniversary of his birthday, Senator Vance, his junior 20 years, died, not two blocks distant. Senator Sherman is 71 years old. He is gray, bent in form, and looks every day of his age. Senator Harris is 77. He is bald, vigorous and active. He can stand more hardship in the way of night and constant work than any senator of the lot. Secretaries Gresham and Morton are the most approachable of all the president's cabinet. Secretary Gresham spends much of his time in the room where visitors to him are received. He has a desk in there, and no matter how busy he may be, he is frank and pleasant to the visitor, whether he be a stranger or acquaintance. Secretary Morton is always ready for friend or foe.

Geo. Pullman has built up an immense fortune reaching far into the millions through the patent on the Pullman sleeping and dining cars which are found on every considerable line of travel. He has sought to further increase his wealth by reducing the wages of workmen in his shops and the result is a strike, and a boycott by railroad operatives of all trains that haul Pullman coaches. The men belonging to the American Railway Union, a powerful labor organization, are willing to move any train to which none of the Pullman's are attached. The result is a tie up of many of the most important railroads in the country, as the railroads make handsome profits from hauling these coaches, besides are under contract with the Pullman company, therefore will endeavor to force their employes into subjection. From present appearances the Union seems to have the best of the contest just inaugurated.

"REDEEMED ISRAEL." Albany Herald.—Rev. Valin Millard, of Eugene, Oregon, who represents a new church called "Redeemed Israel," is holding a series of meetings at the Fairmount grange hall, on the other side of the river, and creating quite an interest and drawing audiences. He will continue the meetings this evening at the same place, and will hold services in the Universalist church of this city, in a short time. His teachings combine an exposition of the bible in connection with modern astronomy; and he devotes much of his time to lectures upon astronomy.

After July 1st all fees for recording in the County Clerk's office will have to be paid in advance, under the new salary law. These fees go to the county and cash must accompany every instrument sent in for recording. This should be borne in mind by those who expect to have any of this kind of work and it may save them annoyance and delay.

Corvallis is going to have a new paper, the Daily Evening Reformer.
