Speaking of the Soda Valley appropriation the Salem Independent says: The worst feature is that there is no law to warrant an expenditure of any kind.

The law has never been signed by a president of the senate as the constitution provides. It is, therefore, no law at all.

The boom of the Eugene sawmill company extends from the old water pumping station to the right bank of the river a short distance above the bridge.

The formation of a bar below the bridge materially abridges booming space. The logs are nearly all in the boom and will be by the last of the week.

The superstitious people of Indiana are greatly exercised over the fact that entire fields of oats have the letter "P" perfectly outlined on each blade.

The credulous think that it means blood, as the same phenomenon occurred a year before the war of 1812, the Mexican war and the war of the Rebellion.

The superstitious Hoosiers seem to overlook the fact that the letter "P" stands for other words than blood. It may mean bread, beans or booze, and should it appear in some localities it would undoubtedly refer to booze.

The clothing has a good deal to do with the man. William Whitely, who worked for a man a year in Umattilla county without receiving a cent left in rags towards Pendleton, seeking a job, but no one wanted him, in fact would hardly give him a crust of bread.

He met an old Eastern friend near Pendleton who gave him $25 and told him to dress up. He did so, retraced his steps over the same road, and refused one offer because the reliability of the farmer was uncertain, and accepted a good position of another.

Farmers are busily harvesting now. The county and city jails are empty.

No marriage licenses this hot weather. Business is quiet around the court house these days.

The steamer Eugene left Portland yesterday morning for Harrisburg.

Many wagons pass through Eugene daily loaded with people bound for the mountains.

There are now 44 inmates of the soldiers home, and it is probable the legislature will ask for an appropriation for an addition to it.

Three-year-old steers are being sold for $50 to $85 a head in Klamath county to wholesale butchers from the dry districts of California.

The Albany men that went to Ashland to work were at once informed by the strikers that they had not been discharged and that they had better not work, and they have not yet.

Advices reach Eugene from the Oregon Pacific headquarters to the effect that the steamer Homer needs some repairs, and will not sail from Frisco until Saturday the 21st, and will not leave Yaquina until the 28th inst.

Ashland Tidings: Walter Jackson, a well known commercial traveler of Portland, was among the passengers who were caught on the delayed train at Red Bluff on route northward.

He waited in vain for a break in the blockade and finally reached Ashland Friday by team, glad to get to a place where "the cars" are running.

Three full carloads of vehicles to select from. Can satisfy all in, either in quality or price.

William Stevens, who was injured in a runaway accident last week, died yesterday evening at 10:30 o'clock.

The injuries which proved fatal were the internal bruise on the right side of his chest, the right lung being so badly affected that hemorrhage could not be allayed.

For a time it was thought he would recover but several striking spells following in close succession, his vitality soon became exhausted.

Stevens was born in Nova Scotia, July 25, 1820. When about 20 years of age he removed to Maine, where he engaged in the lumbering industry.

In 1850, he came west to Minnesota, where he continued lumbering, in addition to which he conducted a mercantile business. In 1865 he engaged in farming on a large ranch near Brooklyn, in the same state, and afterwards entered mercantile life again, this time in Minneapolis. In the summer of 1889 he removed to Oregon with his family and they have since resided in this city.

He was married on May 20, 1865, and his wife survives him. Of the children born to them four are still living: William W., Robert M., Ella and Gertrude L. The eldest daughter, Miss Ella, has been absent several weeks on a visit with relatives at her former home in Minneapolis, but was to start on her return home today.

News of the accident will scarcely reach her before the sad announcement of her father's death. Since their residence in Eugene the family have made many warm friends here. The deceased husband and father although he led a quiet life, was highly respected by all who formed his acquaintance and the bereaved family will receive the condolence of a large portion of the community.

The funeral services will take place tomorrow, Friday, afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to the Masonic cemetery. Rev. W. S. Gilbert will conduct the services.

A Through Train.

The first overland train from California arrived this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, meeting the south-bound local here. The train was made up of two mail cars and a box car filled with mail, two baggage cars, the train was one tourist sleeper and two Pullman cars. It started from Sacramento on schedule time Tuesday evening but was delayed eight hours by the work of repairing the burned bridge between Dunsmuir and Mott.

At Edgewood, a station near Pleasanton, the train was fired upon while standing on the track and lacking in the yard. The detachment of soldiers from the regular army which accompanied the train, returned the fire. About a dozen shots were exchanged but so far as known no one was injured.

The guard accompanied the train as far as Ashland but the run over the mountain was made very carefully, and consequently the train was 11 hours and 46 minutes late here. The train was in charge of the genial conductor Dave Houston, who from Roseburg north and carried a heavy load of through passengers, some of whom had been detained two weeks along the route.

Institute Notes.

Misses Fannie Hammit and Rena E. Spores, of Mohawk, Miss Millie Howard, of Halo, W. H. Westerton, of Florence, and Miss Susie Gibbs, of Eugene, are the teachers who have joined the Institute since our last report.

Miss Lucile Eaves, who lately graduated from the Stanford University, delivered a lecture before the teachers this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Her subject was, "The Advantages of Physical Training in our Public Schools," and she discussed the topic broadly and in an interesting manner. The lady seemed much in earnest and no doubt imparted enthusiasm to many of her hearers.
