A Grand Reception.

At the Methodist church last night a large crowd gathered to tender a farewell reception to their retiring pastor, D. N. McInturf, D. D., who left today for his new field of labor at Spokane, Wash.

Dr. McInturf has done a great work in Eugene. Very large crowds have attended his meetings and 355 have been converted in Eugene, with as many more in the surrounding country.

This is the season when the Casada sulky and Gang plows show their great superiority—they stay in the ground and as they have no landside the draft is much lighter.

Ashland Tidings: Will Bowdoin has sold his interest in the Klamath Star to his partner, P. J. Connelly, better known as Peter the Post. The Star announces no change in its political creed, but it seems to have had a tendency toward populist principles since the recent election gave most of the county offices of Klamath county, including the sheriff, to members of the new party, and it is understood that the Star, under Peter's sole control, is to gradually climb over the fence into the populist garden while the Express is to temper its bourbon editorials a little and to feed in more neutral pastures.

Will Kemery, of Goshen, claims to have been held up last evening about 6:30 o'clock, just north of the Day block, near Willamette street, and robbed of two five cent gold watches and between $20 and $30 in silver.

He says the man made a paper sack for his face for a mask and was quite tall. The officers had very little confidence in the story, as it would seem impossible for such an occurrence to happen at such a public place and at such an early hour in the evening, when the slightest outcry would attract a crowd of people. The getting along was somewhat under the influence of liquor.

The Meadow Accident.

MEADOW, Sept. 25, 1894.

EDITOR GUARD.—I wish to correct a statement in your paper of last week in regard to the shooting accident at Meadow.

The ball was not removed until a week after the accident. Dr. Mahon removed it Monday, Sept. 24th.

To BOND.—Albany Democrat: On Monday, October 8, our citizens will vote on the matter of bonding the city to pay off the floating debt of about that amount. The sentiment is almost universally in favor of the move, for while the debt remains the same, and is not increased, the interest will be decreased and there will be an actual saving of $400 to $600 a year. There should be an affirmative vote also on the other questions, the first of which is necessary in order to effect a good sale of the bonds.

TWO TRAVELERS.—Albany Democrat: A tramp printing was the city today on a trip around the United States. He said he proposed to make the circuit of the whole country, traveling on nothing, which he finds plenty, and sometimes decidedly rocky picking. He told of two relatives, near or at Lebanon, well-to-do people; but said he had to desire to call on them in his present ragged condition. Last night two of them rode on one brakeman, and it was very tough work.

Lane County Evidently Not to Be Outdone in Tinn Accidents.

Daily Guard, September 27.

The regular semi-monthly average of gun accidents for Lane county is likely to be maintained for some time yet. Nearly two weeks had passed since the last one was reported, and many were fearful lest the climate, topography or soil elements, whichever the hidden cause, would fall in its effect and Lane county lose the reputation of which it is the sole and only claimant.

But the "never fail" idea which is an inherent virtue in this county acts in this case also, for yesterday afternoon another gun accident happened.

Wm. Naylor, who resides at Coburg, was visiting at the residence of Mr. A. Wilson, on the Mohawk, about 12 miles above this city. He was out large enough to make a dome, and he shot yesterday about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. He discharged one barrel at some game and set the gun on the ground. While arranging something about the piece, he has not a very distinct remembrance of just what it was, the other barrel discharged striking him in the breast. The shot struck him near the lower end of the sternum and plowed along through the muscles of the chest across over the heart and lodged in the muscles in front of the left shoulder. Luckily no shot penetrated the cavity of the chest.

The injured man went to the house a short distance away and a messenger was dispatched for surgical aid. Dr. T. W. Harris, of this city, was in the vicinity and was soon overtaken. He found an ugly flesh wound almost large enough to hold a man's head into lengthwise. The charge of shot, the two gun wads and considerable powder was extracted from the muscles and the wound dressed.

Mr. Naylor will require careful nursing for sometime, but he is exceedingly fortunate not to have been more seriously hurt.

Probable Suicide.

Daily Guard, September 26.

Last evening's Albany Democrat has the following additional particulars about the man found dead in that city Monday night:

Mr. Burnham came from Portland on Friday and registered at the St. Charles. He had formerly boarded with Mr. Giblin at Corvallis. There is some talk in the city that the man was murdered, and the other that he committed suicide. The latter is probably the correct one. Burnham had been dependent and had remarked in the morning that he was about broke and didn't know what he should do. Last year he worked in Chicago on the fair buildings, and had contracted rheumatism, which was troubling him, as well as a chronic case of neuralgia.

Several circumstances indicated that he contemplated suicide, and it is a peculiar fact that just before he was notified Mr. Giblin had dreamed that he had done the act, the man's conduct evidently having made the impression on his mind. His position when found showed there had been no struggle, the revolver had evidently been thrown over his head as he fell back on the ground, and he probably cried out as if for help. He probably had not been carrying a watch. The weight of evidence is decidedly on the side of suicide, and in fact there is little doubt on the subject.

Burnham was nearly 50 years of age. He was single, and is well spoken of by Corvallis men who knew him in that city.

IT WAS SUICIDE.

The coroner's jury, in the case of the death of C. H. Burnham, whose body was found, found that the deceased came to his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by his hands, September 24, between 10 and 11 o'clock.

List of the Appointment of Ministers for the Next Year.

SATURDAY EVENING—SUNDAY.

Saturday evening the revival meeting was an immense success—many were converted and others received the fullness of the spirit.

Promptly at 9 o'clock Sunday morning Dr. Keen commenced the Conference Lovefest, and it was a delightful occasion, probably two hundred or more people participating by testimony.

After this came a sermon from the Bishop. The church was crowded. Hardly a single one could refrain from weeping and laughing and ejaculating. Prayers were made by the Bishop, life, suffering, death, burial and resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ; and when he reached the ascension it was simply overwhelming.

Speaking of riches and poverty he said God took poverty and made a whip of it, and struck the greatest men with it and whipped them to the top of the mountain right up into the clouds.

When Jesus Christ rose from the dead He opened up a world of truth and gave it to the world to supply its brain power with it. He said that the words of the Bible are not to be drawn out of their context. All our resources are gone. When the Incarnate died on the cross He opened up a way by which every human being this side of hell might get back to God. At the close many persons expressed a desire to become Christians.

Then the Bishop ordained the following to Deacon's orders: F. L. Moore, O. A. White and Charles H. Lea.
