Ira Millard left for New London, Wis., Tuesday; expecting to return next spring.

J. B. McGee has been appointed receiver of the Inter-national Nickel Mining Co.

Miss Carrie Burton returned to her home at Springfield Friday, accompanied by her sister Mrs. M. C. Bond.

Carpenters are engaged moving the warehouse at Latham, so the S. P. Railroad company can put in another side track. Preparations are being made to operate the plant expected to return there about the first of January, for putting ties through the new process which will cause them to last for a great many years.

Says the Sun Sabes.

Pendleton E. O: The Eugene Broadaxe-Tribune said hold-over democratic members would vote for Mr. Dolph, and the Portland Sun replied:

"The sun has no information whatever about how hold-over democratic senators will vote, but it will venture the prediction, here and now, that not one of them will vote for Mr. Dolph. It is within the range of possibilities that they might vote for some other republican, though we presume that will not occur. They happen to be above the ordinary calibre as legislators, and are men who, though few in number, cannot be bought, bribed or bullied. Think of such men as Raley of Umatilla, Smith of Sherman, Hustin, of Washington, Beckley of Douglas and Osgewell of Lake voting for Mr. Dolph."

Senator Raley was shown the above by a reporter and the question asked: "Does the Sun Sabe?"

"You bet," was the response.

A NEW WAY.—Grant's Pass Courier: Major Newell launched his gold-hunting raft into the waters of Rogue river last week, a short distance below the power house. He has fitted the vessel with an engine and boiler and set of sluice boxes to wash the nuggets from the sand after his steam pump has sucked them up from the bed of the river through a three-inch hose. Although the project is purely an experiment Mr. Newell is sanguine of success, as he thinks the bed of Rogue river has long acted as a huge sluice box for an immense water-shed abounding in gold. He has not yet concluded as to where he will insert the nozzle of his hose and go to rooting out the precious gravel, but thinks some still water below a falls or rapids will be selected.

OVERLAND TRAINS.—The northbound over-land train due here at 2:45 this morning, arrived at 11:50 a. m., and was a good-sized train. One of the large-sized engines that have recently been put on the mountain division, was hauling the train. She is a monster. There was some snow still on the cars when the train reached here, showing what she had passed through. The train came straight through and was only delayed 9 hours. If no more snow storms occur in the Siskiyous the overland tomorrow will probably be through on time. The first train through since Friday came in last night about 8 o'clock.

FIVE DAYS.—The old man who was arrested yesterday morning for prowling around town at unseemly hours and who created the disturbance at the First National bank was given an examination before Recorder Dorris yesterday afternoon and given five days in the city bastile. He is apparently a traveling musician who plays in the saloons for drinks. He is about 60 years of age and is almost a complete wreck.

The Box and Basket Factory.

Daily Guard, December 26.

A gentleman from Tacoma is here representing the company who propose to erect the box and basket factory. He has examined the proposed site in Fairmount and finds the mill race too small and shallow for the successful storage of logs without interfering with the water power; so it has been decided to either abandon the site or erect the mill on the bank of the river about two hundred feet from the original site. In order to make a strong place for logs it will be necessary to begin at the bank of the river and extend a stout breakwater into the river down stream at an angle of about 45 degrees with the bank for 100 feet and sufficiently high to be above all overflow. This will force an eddy below sufficient to hold at least a million feet of logs at any stage of water. The stone for the breakwater and over four hundred days work have been donated by the people of Fairmount to complete this jetty. Now it is a fortunate coincidence that the location of this jetty is at the same point where the people of Eugene had proposed to erect a jetty for the purpose of turning the channel of the river from the new opening back into the old river bed. Now if the people can unite with this company in the completion of this breakwater they can secure the location of this important industry, which guarantees to give employment to at least fifty hands and at the same time protect the property along the new channel from the encroachments of the river, save the water power and other valuable property. It is hoped no time will be lost in guaranteeing these people whatever assistance they ask in providing a site for this mill as other places are endeavoring to secure them. The company is very anxious to get a location and begin work so they can get their factories up and have goods on sale for the business season of 1895. When the committee from the Board of Trade calls on you give them every assistance possible and let us secure the enterprise, more especially since by doing so we can get the river securely confined to its proper channel and save the valuable property recently threatened. The cost of the proposed breakwater is estimated at fifteen hundred dollars in addition to the stone donated.

Some Christmas Gifts.

Albany Democrat: "We wish every body a merry Christmas, particularly if they deserve it. If they do not deserve it let them put themselves in the right condition. We would like to present the following presents:

To Uncle Sam, an antidote for hard times.

To Oregon, a reliable immigration, better prices for cereals, more confidence, and more business.

To Portland, her long sought government building.

To Salem, another state building and a cure for lying.

To Corvallis, a sure rule for winning at foot ball.

To Eugene, another chair for her University.

To Roseburg, a bill for an extension to her Soldiers Home.

To the Santiam mines, a live mining excitement with a big plant in operation and millions of gold in sight.

To the Oregon Pacific, a rushing extension into Eastern Oregon.

To Newport, some big summer resort hotels and thousands of visitors.

To the farmers, 75 cents for their wheat.

To Albany, active business, broad faces, a railroad to Astoria, more factories, more self-supporting people, fewer growlers and kickers, and less moss.

PROOF POSITIVE OFFERED.—Oregonian: By some mysterious dispensation, it has become a recognized custom among railroad corporations to extend the courtesy of a half-fare rate to all ministers, and the number of clergymen apparently always on the move is remarkable. On Saturday afternoon one of the ministerial brothers introduced himself at a local ticket agency, and asked for a ticket to some eastern city. Some doubt was expressed as to whether the applicant came within the rule, and he was called upon to furnish the proper credentials. He did the best he could, and after telling who he was, when he was converted, his age and how long he had preached, wound up his certificate of character by informing the agent if "that was not enough he would preach one of his sermons for the benefit of those in the office." That was enough; the agent furnished the desired ticket and extended the half-rate in preference to hearing any more proof as to the man being a sure-enough "gospel sharp."

A GOOD THING.—The Pendleton E. O. has this: "There is talk of giving Pendleton the benefit of university extension, and an effort is being made to secure a sufficient number of patrons to bear the expense. There are no definite plans, but the probability exists that a university extension course of lectures will be given in Pendleton before spring." Pendleton has always been known as one of the most enterprising towns in Eastern Oregon, and we predict she will assist this new educational movement to the extent of her ability.

Ed. N. White has been elected to the city council at Prineville. He will make an excelent officer. Lane county boys are always coming to the front.

Hugh Thompson, of Salem, the genial chief clerk at the penitentiary, after spending Christmas in this city, returned to his home on this morning's local train. Mrs. Thompson will visit with her parents in this city for several days yet.

Quite a number of educational workers went to Portland this morning to attend the meeting of the state teachers institute. Among others were: President Chapman, Profs. J. B. Hawthorne, D. V. S. Reid, E. E. Orton, Miss Anna Whiteaker and County School Superintendent Stevenson.

A stranger, quite sick, giving his name as James Martin and saying he hailed from Palouse, Wash., made application to Marshal Eastland Sunday for the privilege of occupying quarters in the city jail. This was granted, and growing worse, County Judge Fisk sent the man to the poor farm this morning to be cared for.

La Grande Chronicle: "Eight of La Grande's young men have provided themselves with a "recherche" outfit consisting of a big sleigh and six horse team, and are ready to go calling during the holidays. They are now seeking for information as to what La Grande ladies intend to do receiving." The boys here would like to have a chance to go calling in sleighs, but the weather is too mild for that.

A Springfield correspondent writes that, "The 'mill' at the Baptist church and tree at the M. E. church were both well attended, where onts both pres useful and ornamental were given away by old Santa Claus. The exercises at both places before the distribution of presents were fine and showed much careful drill by the superintendent and teachers. The 'mill' at the Baptist church represented an old time windmill, where the presents were ground out by old Santa, and distributed by the brownies.

Getting Close.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company in Oregon, has heretofore issued passes to business men, heavy shippers, politicians and railroad employes lavishly. The opposite view of the matter will be taken after the first of the year, so we are reliably informed, and the man who will receive a pass will be a subject for a dime museum. Employes of the road will hereafter be charged one cent a mile while riding for pleasure or on their own private business, and their wives, sisters and near relatives will be charged full fare. Shippers and merchants will be compelled to pay the same as any ordinary passenger. The conductors now are taking up passes. A heavy shipper went to Portland from one of the valley points Monday, and his pass was taken up and he was compelled to pay his fare home. Of course, naturally he was wrathy, but that did not avail him anything. The greatest wonder of all is that the order provides that no passes will be issued to the members of the legislature, which convenes next month. We are not informed whether the order includes the transportation so freely issued to supreme and circuit judges. It ought to.

We publish the above especially for the benefit of our Lane county friends, so that they will be prepared hereafter to pay 4 cents per mile.

OFF FOR SALT LAKE.

Constable Linton Leaves for Utah to Bring Back A. C. Brown.

Daily Guard, December 26.

Constable Linton left on this morning's train for Salt Lake City, Utah, to bring back here A. C. Brown, who is charged with the crime of larceny, on account of his tearing up notes the property of Gray & Son, of this city. The requisition paper has been signed by Governor Pennoyer, and it is likely that in a few days Brown will be here to answer to the serious charge. The authorities in Utah accepted a bond from Brown and he is at liberty.

Receiver Appointed.

PORTLAND, Dec. 24.—In the United States district court today O. F. Paxton was appointed receiver for the Portland Consolidated Railway Co. on the application of the bondholders. The company operates about twenty miles of street railway in this city and suburbs, and controls property valued at nearly two millions of dollars.

GAME LAW MATTERS.

Opinions and Recommendations of Eastern Oregon Sportsmen.

The following from the La Grande Chronicle gives the Eastern Oregon sportsman's ideas concerning new game laws, and we are requested to publish the same: The Chronicle is told that the Oregon State Sportsmen Association will present our next legislature a bill, increasing the allowance of the game and fish protector to $3500, and giving the warden power to appoint two deputies one in Southern and one in Eastern Oregon. The deputy warden must be a resident of that part of the state for which he is appointed, and will receive a salary of $750 annually.

The salary is made small in order that no politician in search of a "snap" will be jumping for the office. What the sportsmen desire is to get a person who has at heart the protection of the game and fish, and a resident man can afford to devote a considerable part of his time to the duties of the office for the salary of $750. The association thinks this will have much better results than the present system.

The sportsmens' association numbers 1000 and about 22 Oregon towns are represented. Portland has two clubs, with active, wide-awake members. Salem has a big membership, and La Grande has two live gun clubs.

Eastern Oregon sportmen endorse W. A. Storey, of Portland, for the position of warden. He was president of the association last year, is a good sport and, it is stated, will make an excellent warden. What they want for this office is a man that will do some "rustling" and knows a quail from a blackbird. Then with a good deputy in Southern Oregon and one in Eastern Oregon, our game and fish ought to be pretty well protected.

The present game laws ought to be amended again, and fixed right this time. It is heard that some La Grande attorneys have offered to wager $50 that they can beat any one of the game laws on a test case, and the boys with the shotguns and fishing rods want a law that can't be beaten.

The long talked of change in the run of engines and engineers occurred on Thursday. The run is now from Portland to Roseburg. The freight run has not been changed yet. There is a good deal of grumbling among the engineers and firemen but they will submit to the inevitable.

Junction City Lodge No. 58, A. F. & A. M. elected the following officers for the ensuing Masonic year: F. A. Saylor, W. M.; W. C. Washburn, S. W.; G. F. Blanton, J. W.; Frank Moorhead, Secretary; T. A. Milliorn, Treasurer; J. H. Day, S. D.; N. J. Moffit, S. S.; Jos. Sternberg, J. S.; O. M. Kirk, Tyler.

The religious debate during the past week attracted large audiences each night and occasionally standing room was at a premium. A good deal of ill feeling has been stirred up and rather unbecoming words were used by both gentlemen. We do not say this as a reflection as each perhaps was justified in his sharp retort. It is our humble opinion that the cause has not been benefitted to any great extent, that is from a public standpoint. The meetings were commenced in the Christian church, but owing to the increased crowds adjournment was taken to the M. E. church.

EDITOR WAGNER.—Fred D. Wagner a former student of the State University here, and who has for the past twelve years been connected almost continuously with the Ashland Tidings, has purchased an interest in that paper. Fred is well known over the state as one of the rising young newspaper men, and much of the success of the Tidings is due to his ability. We wish him the best of success. His partner, W. N. Leeds, is our next state printer.

BENNINGTON FROM TACOMA.

An Account of his Former Troubles From Forgery.

When J. M. Bennington was captured and charged with the crime of forgery, the other day, there were many who freely expressed the opinion that this was not his first work in this line. The correctness of that view is fully established by the following dispatch from Tacoma:

Joseph M. Bennington, who was arrested Saturday at Eugene, Or., charged with forgery, is a Tacoma boy. His parents reside near Puyallup. December 15, 1891, Bennington was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for forgery committed in Tacoma. April 5, of this year he was pardoned by Governor McGraw for good conduct. While in the penitentiary he was one of Warden Coblentz's "trusties." It was thought he had entirely reformed. While here, soon after his release, he professed the deepest penitence for his crime and solemnly announced that he intended to be a better man. In the summer of 1891 he placed a draft for $3000, drawn on a Los Angeles house, in the First National bank of Puyallup for collection. He succeeded in persuading the bank to let him check out $400 on the draft, which subsequently proved to be a forgery. Chief of Police Smith, then a detective, traced the crime to Bennington, but his friends settled and he was not prosecuted.

In the fall of 1891 several forgeries were reported to the police. One of these checks, for $125, came to the Tacoma National bank from Gig harbor, the name of Attorney L. A. Bronson being signed to it. The money was to be remitted by mail, as in the Eugene case. A decoy letter was sent to Gig harbor and the next day Smith arrested Bennington, who confessed and made a statement endeavoring to implicate his brother-in-law, now a merchant here. A long trial resulted in Bennington's conviction and sentence and the acquittal of the brother-in-law.

In going through Bennington's effects, it was found that he had forged the name of R. M. Smith, of Boulder, Col., to a certificate of deposit for $330 on the First National bank of Eugene. He probably intended to cash the same when short of money. S. R. Williams, the real estate agent had deposited the $330 and mailed the certificate of deposit to Mr. Smith. Bennington got the letter out of the postoffice and kept it.

He had desk room at Williams' office and was supposed by many to be connected with him in a business way. When he went to the postoffice and stated they had made a mistake in mailing some letters and asked for this one, it was recalled and given to him and nothing thought of it. This is how he secured the certificate of deposit that Mr. Williams supposed was in its rightful owners possession.

No blame can be attached to the postoffice officials as there are very few business men who do not frequently after mailing letters have occasion for recalling them. Knowing that he was soon to be released from custody at Walla Walla he had written several letters from Walla Walla and other points in Washington to Eugene and came here immediately after his release. The large number of small keys that he had with him when arrested are supposed to belong to postoffices elsewhere.

The Revival at Irving.

The revival services now in progress at Irving are atended with splended results. The whole community is deeply stired. Up to Saturday December 22nd, there had been forty or more converted and thirty-seven accessions to the church. Homes heretofore by the shadow of sin are now rejoicing in the light. What a glad happy Christmas for the people of Irving! Rev. Snyder will begin a revival service in Eugene on the first Sunday in January.

COR.

WILL WEIGH MORE.—It was stated in the GUARD the other day that the Fisher & Watkins Christmas beef would weigh about 1100 pounds. This was based on the general rule that beef loses an average of one half in dressing, but we are informed that stall fed beef, like the one in question, will not lose so much, therefore it will weigh considerably more. We make this statement so that persons guessing at the weight will not be misled by the item as that itself was only a guess, no weighing except for gross weight, having took place.

A year ago Monday Arrington was taken to Salem to serve a three years sentence for embezzlement of Douglas county funds to the amount of about $30,000, and on Dec. 24, 1892 Jones was taken there to serve a life sentence for killing Abraham Hansbrough a brother of Senator Hansbrough of Dakota.

The case has been adjourned until this evening, on account of the absence of an important witness.

CHRISTMAS DAY IN EUGENE.

It was Celebrated in an Unusually Quiet Manner.

Daily Guard, December 26.

Christmas came in clear and cold—not too cold, but cold enough to make a person quicken their walk, make their cheeks red and add to the happy, contented smiles on every face. Early in the morning a good many people were astir, and the markets and stores were kept busy until the middle of the day.

Excepting at the hotels and restaurants no public dinner was served in the city, but from every side came evidences of the elegant private dinners served by our townspeople. From that view, therefore, the day was observed pretty much in the usual manner.

Nearly all the churches held special services yesterday morning, and all were well attended, and those present paid sincere devotion in memory of Him whose day of birth was celebrated.

But the town soon lapsed back into its unusually quiet state, most of the stores were closed and but few people were seen on the streets despite the fact that the sky was clear and the weather comparatively warm.

When the Eugene Band came out and played a few selections on the street everything was lively for a short time, but the streets soon had again the quiet, deserted appearance that they had shown all day.

In the evening entertainments at two or three of the churches and by the I. O. G. T. lodge furnished amusement for a large number of people. No other gatherings of any kind were held except a few private receptions.

As no dance was given here a large number of Eugene people were in attendance at dances at Junction and Springfield and elsewhere, and they report having had most enjoyable times.

That this was one of the most quiet Christmas days' ever celebrated here, every body will agree on, but at the same time it has been one of the most pleasant, too.

A Christmas tree at the Minnesota hotel proved to be a most pleasing event. We can hardly tell of all the presents or of the funny incidents that happened, but suffice to say a pleasant evening was spent and a most enjoyable time had by those present.

At the Presbyterian church in the morning a good crowd was present. An excellent program was carried out, most prominent among which were Miss Ida Goodale's vocal solo and Miss Leone Paine's organ selection. Chimney building was indulged in, and the usual merry Xmas time was had.

Santa Claus was at the M. E. church last night and distributed the presents to the little ones. They had an excellent program also, and the male quartet deserves especial mention. It was composed of Judge J. J. Walton, Rev. M. C. Wire, Hon. J. H. McClung and Dr. Wm. Kuykendall. Their song was greeted with a hearty encore to which they responded.

At the Christian church Christmas eve a large crowd gathered to listen to the exercises, which were of a high order. An enjoyable program was carried out and presents distributed to the little ones and big ones as well. All were well satisfied with the evening's entertainment.

The Chrismas exercises at the U. B. church were held Sunday evening, and the house was crowded to listen to the excellent program that was rendered. The songs and speeches by the smallest of those taking part, were most appreciated. Miss Pearl Roper, of the university, in her recitation, deserves mention also. All the children received presents here, too.
