

Eugene City Guard.

SATURDAY, MARCH 2

STATE HOUSE NEWS.

Gov. Lord Laboring Over Doubtful Bills.

APPOINTMENTS, ETC.

Governor Lord has looked himself over and puts in his whole time on the bills of a doubtful character yet before him. Not a thing on earth is being done about any commission or appointment. The governor does not yet know whether these boards and offices left unfilled by the legislature will be or can be filled by him. His time is devoted to his constitutional duties and he is not giving the matter of appointments a thought at present. The appointment of superintendent of the prison is the one there is the most public excitement over. One case may be brought before the supreme court on a test case and no appointments are made until then.

STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

State Supt. G. M. Irwin yesterday appointed following as board of examiners for four years.

Miss Lillian Cullinan, La Grande, principal public schools.

M. G. Royal, Weston, president Weston normal school.

C. H. Chapman, Eugene, president state university.

J. B. Horner, Corvallis, professor state agricultural college.

P. L. Campbell, Monmouth, president state normal school.

J. H. Stanley, Hillsboro, principal public schools.

Geo. Peebles, Salem, principal North Salem school.

J. Burnham, Portland, principal Couch school.

J. D. Robb, Tillamook, principal public schools.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL DOLMAN.

Is hard at work looking up the law on the railroad commission question as to whether the governor will appoint or not. It is doubtful whether the present commission can hold under any circumstances, but whether the governor can appoint is not certain. The Iva Templeton relief bill is also under consideration.

Lane County Members.

The Salem Journal, Wednesday, in writing up the famous "Thirty" who opposed Senator Dolan so strongly in the legislature, has this to say of three members of the Lane county delegation, but for some reason does not mention Representative Hillegas:

"Owing to their place on the roll call Senator Alley and Representatives Baker and Barkley naturally became leaders.

"All three had good voices, were far above average orators, and men of great courage and physical endurance. This seems providential, when it is remembered that if one of them had been unreliable or not certain to be in his seat at roll call, the result would have been disaster. They could always be relied upon to vote, to vote right, and to speak with the right ring. They were unfeared leaders without fear, but fearful of the opposition. Alley naturally became spokesman of the thirty, and he was a faithful friend, counselor and guide. Baker gave the whole host back bone whenever he spoke. He never trifled. Nor did any of them, save Alley, visit the roll call.

Unde Dan Haussaker and Howard Vincent are each setting out new hep yards.

Staging at the selmed house on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Also on Friday evening, March 8th, at which the ear effort will be made by Mr. Merriman to organize a singing class.

We very hope the effort will meet with success as we have plenty of talent in the neighborhood which only needs culture to make it the equal of any for good music.

Gramps Griffitt insures the lots of a valuable home.

Rev. Haussaker visited Egypt Saturday and Sunday.

Eli Davis, of Egypt, was arraigned in the justice court of this precinct for the brawny of a ditch pan of questionable age and value. The case was dismissed.

Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

Did Ray Do It?

Albany Democrat: "Yesterday afternoon, William Ray, who had just returned from California, was arrested in his solar at Ladd's home by Marshal Morgan, on the charge of attempting to murder John Kirk, last October. He was held under $1,000 bonds and brought to Albany and lodged in jail to await the action of the grand jury. Ray was coming to Albany from Lebanon in October with some horse money, when he was held up on the bridge across the ditch near Lebanon, knocked down and robbed of $20 and thrown in the ditch. He got out of the water and hastened to a neighbor's house, and at night slept on their arms.

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

Did Ray Do It?

Albany Democrat: "Yesterday afternoon, William Ray, who had just returned from California, was arrested in his solar at Ladd's home by Marshal Morgan, on the charge of attempting to murder John Kirk, last October. He was held under $1,000 bonds and brought to Albany and lodged in jail to await the action of the grand jury. Ray was coming to Albany from Lebanon in October with some horse money, when he was held up on the bridge across the ditch near Lebanon, knocked down and robbed of $20 and thrown in the ditch. He got out of the water and hastened to a neighbor's house, and at night slept on their arms.

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

Did Ray Do It?

Albany Democrat: "Yesterday afternoon, William Ray, who had just returned from California, was arrested in his solar at Ladd's home by Marshal Morgan, on the charge of attempting to murder John Kirk, last October. He was held under $1,000 bonds and brought to Albany and lodged in jail to await the action of the grand jury. Ray was coming to Albany from Lebanon in October with some horse money, when he was held up on the bridge across the ditch near Lebanon, knocked down and robbed of $20 and thrown in the ditch. He got out of the water and hastened to a neighbor's house, and at night slept on their arms.

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

Did Ray Do It?

Albany Democrat: "Yesterday afternoon, William Ray, who had just returned from California, was arrested in his solar at Ladd's home by Marshal Morgan, on the charge of attempting to murder John Kirk, last October. He was held under $1,000 bonds and brought to Albany and lodged in jail to await the action of the grand jury. Ray was coming to Albany from Lebanon in October with some horse money, when he was held up on the bridge across the ditch near Lebanon, knocked down and robbed of $20 and thrown in the ditch. He got out of the water and hastened to a neighbor's house, and at night slept on their arms.

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

Did Ray Do It?

Albany Democrat: "Yesterday afternoon, William Ray, who had just returned from California, was arrested in his solar at Ladd's home by Marshal Morgan, on the charge of attempting to murder John Kirk, last October. He was held under $1,000 bonds and brought to Albany and lodged in jail to await the action of the grand jury. Ray was coming to Albany from Lebanon in October with some horse money, when he was held up on the bridge across the ditch near Lebanon, knocked down and robbed of $20 and thrown in the ditch. He got out of the water and hastened to a neighbor's house, and at night slept on their arms.

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

Did Ray Do It?

Albany Democrat: "Yesterday afternoon, William Ray, who had just returned from California, was arrested in his solar at Ladd's home by Marshal Morgan, on the charge of attempting to murder John Kirk, last October. He was held under $1,000 bonds and brought to Albany and lodged in jail to await the action of the grand jury. Ray was coming to Albany from Lebanon in October with some horse money, when he was held up on the bridge across the ditch near Lebanon, knocked down and robbed of $20 and thrown in the ditch. He got out of the water and hastened to a neighbor's house, and at night slept on their arms.

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

Did Ray Do It?

Albany Democrat: "Yesterday afternoon, William Ray, who had just returned from California, was arrested in his solar at Ladd's home by Marshal Morgan, on the charge of attempting to murder John Kirk, last October. He was held under $1,000 bonds and brought to Albany and lodged in jail to await the action of the grand jury. Ray was coming to Albany from Lebanon in October with some horse money, when he was held up on the bridge across the ditch near Lebanon, knocked down and robbed of $20 and thrown in the ditch. He got out of the water and hastened to a neighbor's house, and at night slept on their arms.

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

Did Ray Do It?

Albany Democrat: "Yesterday afternoon, William Ray, who had just returned from California, was arrested in his solar at Ladd's home by Marshal Morgan, on the charge of attempting to murder John Kirk, last October. He was held under $1,000 bonds and brought to Albany and lodged in jail to await the action of the grand jury. Ray was coming to Albany from Lebanon in October with some horse money, when he was held up on the bridge across the ditch near Lebanon, knocked down and robbed of $20 and thrown in the ditch. He got out of the water and hastened to a neighbor's house, and at night slept on their arms.

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

Did Ray Do It?

Albany Democrat: "Yesterday afternoon, William Ray, who had just returned from California, was arrested in his solar at Ladd's home by Marshal Morgan, on the charge of attempting to murder John Kirk, last October. He was held under $1,000 bonds and brought to Albany and lodged in jail to await the action of the grand jury. Ray was coming to Albany from Lebanon in October with some horse money, when he was held up on the bridge across the ditch near Lebanon, knocked down and robbed of $20 and thrown in the ditch. He got out of the water and hastened to a neighbor's house, and at night slept on their arms.

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

Did Ray Do It?

Albany Democrat: "Yesterday afternoon, William Ray, who had just returned from California, was arrested in his solar at Ladd's home by Marshal Morgan, on the charge of attempting to murder John Kirk, last October. He was held under $1,000 bonds and brought to Albany and lodged in jail to await the action of the grand jury. Ray was coming to Albany from Lebanon in October with some horse money, when he was held up on the bridge across the ditch near Lebanon, knocked down and robbed of $20 and thrown in the ditch. He got out of the water and hastened to a neighbor's house, and at night slept on their arms.

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."

"Senator McClellan was just as silent as his colleague Alley; was aggressive. He reminded everyone of us of General Grant. He seldom spoke. But his calm eye and sharp ear were always keenly attentive to all that transpired. Mr. McClellan made a fine impression and will be one of the foremost members of the next legislature. He was one of the most faithful in this session."