He was confined at police headcause we don't know any more about it now than they did at the time the great wave rose suddenly on Lake Eric, off Rockport, and destroyed Colonel Bradstreet's fleet, in October, 1764. That was the first tidal wave on the lakes that we have any record of.

"I have seen many of these swashes, as we call them on the lakes, the last gne about ten years ago, when ngr somer was swept high and dry at Port Stanley by a wave that seemed to rise on the lake like some monster marine anim coming from the depths to the surface. Se could see it rushing toward us a mile way. It came with a boiling front ten fact high, hissing like loud escaping steam and swept toward us. That is a peculiar ling about the lake tidal waves. They do now come with a roar, like the ocean surf, but with a loud, hissing sound, and ere is only one instance on record where vey are either accompanied or followed strong winds.

"That one instance was at Toledo, in December, 1856, when the wind, which and the air scarcely perceptible.

It was a quarter of a mile distant from Dr. Foster's boat, which, when the disturbance began, was directly in the path of the wave. It was crested with foam, and curled over like a mighty ocean surge. Before reaching the boat, however, the wave turned so scarcely ruffled by the influence of the

It was this latter probability that made W. C. Gray, editor of The Interior, particularly anxious about the future.

Speaking of his selection of a buriesque actress' picture for a religious newspaper, Mr. Gray treated the matter in a light "Some time ago," he said, ' a famous French artist wanted to paint a picture, he went into the slums and got a model. The picture sold for $100,000. It was 'The Angelus,' No one asked who the model was. So when Mr. Underwood showed me a pretty picture of a draped woman labeled Hope I asked nothing as to the business of the original, but ordered the picture.

It turned out that the original of "Hope" was photographed as she had posed for a living picture.

There is not a sportsman in the entire Vanderbilt family-I mean the kind of sportsman that likes to work for his game.

Cornelius, the eldest son, never pulled a trigger in his life or got on top of a horse. Willie K. can cast a fly out of his parlor window and might be able to kill a pheasant if it sat very still. Fred is a good fisherman, but doesn't shoot or ride, and George is a dilettante in books.

Of course there is great profit in Adirondack lands. They can be let out to "parties" who do love to fish and shoot, but there is also profit in suburban property where the only game is goat or yaller dog.
