Can a criminal take advantage of his own crime and acquire property? This question is now before the supreme court of Pennsylvania in the case of J. P. Carpenter, who murdered his father, and whose mother was convicted as accessory after the fact. While the mother and son were in jail awaiting trial, they executed an assignment of the murdered man's estate as his heirs, and the court is now asked to annul the proceeding on the ground that they were estopped by their crime from inheriting the property.

There are twenty well-built towns in Kansas without a single inhabitant to awaken the echoes of their deserted streets. It is said that Saratoga, one of these deserted villages, has a $30,000 opera house, a large brick hotel, a $20,000 school-house and a number of fine business houses, with nobody to claim even a place to sleep. All of this came about by booming or borrowed capital without resources enough to pay the interest. People moved away from these towns as a new way of paying debts.

Clouds of Crickets.

Pendleton Tribune: In referring to the railroad commissioner's trip to Huntington, Col. Eddy remarked yesterday that some of the farmers along Burnt river have been visited by a pest and others are fearful lest the invader shall denude their gardens. About Friday last week the vanguard of an army of crickets appeared on the banks of the river about five miles west of Huntington. They came from the west and were journeying east. On reaching the river the leaders plunged boldly in and the rank and file followed. Millions floated down and were drowned, and millions more reached the opposite bank and proceeded on in an easterly direction. Every rock and stick in the stream below the point where the crickets took the water for hundreds of yards is literally covered with insects. Where bridges cross they climb up the posts over the bridge and on. Every garden that happens to be in the left bank of verdure. They follow the corn stalks and eat them an inch or so below the surface.

A new industry developed at Ashland last week. It is no more nor less than the shipment of a lot of turtles to the San Francisco market. Three sacks of them were sent down by express last Saturday, consigned to a commission firm by an Ashland man, though with what success it has not been learned. The turtles were what we ordinarily call "tortles" and were caught in Bear creek near that town.

LOCAL FARM NOTES.—A Salem prairie farmer who has had a good deal of experience trying to get rid of the little black bugs or flies which are just now infesting and eating the leaves off tomato plants hereabouts thinks he has discovered the proper "medicine" for them. He uses quassia chips and whale oil soap in the same proportions as is employed in spraying hop vines to kill the lice. He applies the "juice" with a brush, sprinkling the plants thoroughly. This kills the destructive pests, and it does not seem to injure the vines. The remedy is inexpensive. Enough of the material to treat an acre of plants may be had for a few cents.

Among the guests were many of the prominent people of the town. Miss Carson and Miss Murch represented the university and a large number of the visiting alumni were present. The affair was in every sense, one of the most enjoyable social events of the year. Mrs. McAllister made a delightful hostess and her charming home was a perfect fount of beauty. The rooms were decorated with sweet brier garlands. The exquisite green and pink of leaves and blossoms gave fairy-like and indescribably lovely effect to the cool shaded parlors and filled the air with a delicate fragrance. Exclamations of delight and admiration from the guests were frequent and Miss McAllister with whom the idea of the dainty decorations originated, received many compliments. Many of the gowns worn on the occasion were artistic creations. The young girls noticeably were visions of enchantment in their exquisite toilettes, fresh and dainty as the wild rose everywhere about them. The afternoon will long be remembered as one of the most pleasant in the experience of all those who were so happy as to be present.

THE COUSINS ACQUITTED.

Daily Guard, June 18.

The case of the state of Oregon vs Chester McQueen and Ida Parkerson, now known as the wife of Chester McQueen, first cousins, on the charge of incest, was tried in the circuit court this forenoon. After the state rested its case the defense refused to call any witnesses, and after argument by the attorneys and brief instructions from the court, the jury retired for consideration at 10:30 o'clock. At 1:30 o'clock this afternoon the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty" and the wedded cousins were discharged, and they seemed quite happy.

The laws are in plain terms; that such marriages are voidable, while the jury through sympathy for the couple who were ignorant of the law and were virtually children, told them to "go and sin no more."

The committee on constitution and by-laws, W W Cardwell, Mrs Jane A Willis and N N Chapman. The native sons and daughters are destined to play an important part in the future of Oregon. Already among other important positions of honor and trust held by native sons, our newly elected U S Senator Hon Geo W McBride is one of them. Others are sure to follow because they are made of the same stuff as their pioneer fathers and mothers.
