The fact that all the accounts of the receivers will be to pass upon, involving a vast amount of work, the fact that there will be fine spun points of law to decide, scattered in the four corners of the earth and that they are almost myri-adic in numbers—all of these serve to make the referee's duties labyrinthau, and the guess of one old lawyer that six months, and of another that a year will be required to wind up the business may not be far from correct."
