SATURDAY, OCTOBER 5.

FOREIGN WHEAT MARKETS.

From cable advices to hand from Liverpool, the market there and at London is very firm at the present writing.

Berbohm, in a recent issue to hand, says: The market is still laboring under the effects of the immense supplies of wheat which have been received in this country during July and August, and no attention is apparently paid, either to the acknowledged scarcity and relative dearth of English wheat, or the fact that for some time to come the imports must necessarily all off and be below current requirements, because of the great decrease in the exports from the shipping countries and the big decrease in the quantity afloat.

It is a fact, indeed, that the total shipments to Europe during the past five weeks have only averaged 735,000 qrs. per week, to meet the current requirement of not less than 900,000 qrs. weekly. The weakness in America, however, which probably arises mainly from fear of the currency question, tends to keep buyers on this side in the background, the more so as the immediate wants are being easily satisfied.

A noticeable feature in the present situation is, however, the reticence of Russian shippers, and although in connection with such a vast country it would be unwise to dogmatize in regard to the real extent of the crop, it may be taken for granted that there is sufficient in the reports which we have received to show that the yield is considerably below last year's unprecedentedly heavy crop, which however in spite of the large exports last season must have left a large surplus to be carried forward.

The one important point uppermost in the minds of the trade must be that the United Kingdom will have to import more wheat than ever before, viz., 25 million quarters; while the American crop, a great factor in determining prices, is making every allowance, smaller than last year by probably eight million quarters.

There does not appear to be sufficient power in the absence of a French demand to counterbalance this, so that, notwithstanding the present depression, one is constrained to believe that ere long the question of supply and demand, the all-ruling power, will turn in favor of the holders of wheat.

The election of Colonel Ivan N. Walker as commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic is an honor well merited by this veteran soldier and by the state, says the Indianapolis News. It is fitting that the noble service rendered by Indiana in the war of the rebellion should be recognized by the soldier survivors of the Union army in a bestowal of the highest office in their organization upon an Indiana man, and no better representative of the volunteer soldiery could have been chosen than he.

He enlisted when scarcely more than a boy, abandoning position and prospects in civil life, following the fortunes of war so bravely and serving so faithfully that his merit was speedily recognized by deserved promotion. His story is that of many equally brave and faithful comrades, and it is this quality of service and similarity of experience which makes the honor bestowed upon one Indiana veteran a distinction shared by all.

We doubt if any college in the land has ever turned out a graduate at the age of 85, yet that is what the "People's College," Chautauqua, will do on Recognition day the coming week, when Mrs. Phoebe A. Davenport, of Lockport, will receive her diploma. Mrs. Davenport has taken the four years of required study, and is as enthusiastic a Chautauquan as the youngest of her classmates. She is a beautiful and interesting old lady. She was born in Macedon, N. Y., in 1810. Mrs. Davenport is the mother of eight children, five of whom are living. She is a great reader and in good health.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt is said to have been converted to strictly temperate views through the influence of his wife, a daughter of John Lathrop Motley, the American historian.

OF VITAL IMPORTANCE.

Prineville Review: "We have devoted considerable amount of space on our local page in this issue to the latest news in reference to the action of the Interior department in the matter of the Cascade timber reserve. We reprint in full with comment on same by Tuesday's Oregonian, for the reason that they are pertinent as well as the subject matter.

"This is a matter of vital importance to all the people of this section of Oregon. It affects all stock interests alike. If sheep are debared from using the high mountain ranges, then goodbye not only to a large percentage of the sheep industry but of cattle and other stock as well. It is one of the cases wherein one side is represented, and the other not heard. It is a movement—and we make this statement without intended demagoguery—wherein we have an aristocratic sentiment arrayed against a large community struggling to tide over adverse legislation, or to say the least of it adverse conditions.

"Deprived of a portion of our range privileges, our stock must be marketed for whatever price they will bring, in proportion. This is a subject upon which much remains to be said and done, and one upon which the Review will be found maintaining what it knows to be right to the limit of its ability. In the near future there is an emergency, such as this and neighboring stock-raising communities has as yet not been called upon to face, thrust upon us. And when it shall come let us at all times uphold the authorities, and obey the laws of the land, and wherein the laws are wrong let us endeavor to have them righted."

The so-called Cascade Forest reserve is one of the greatest pieces of folly ever perpetrated on the people of Oregon. In Lane county one-half of the area of the county is included in its boundary, and a great part of its natural resources including timber, minerals and stone, thereby is taken away from us, to say nothing of valuable lands suitable to make homes. And what for? and at whose behest? It is supposed to be reserved for a water shed, which falls of its own weight. It was the work of a few dukes and sentimental nobodies located in Portland, and aided and abetted by that great handshaker, Binger Hermann, who introduced the act in Congress.

The people of Oregon should demand that the Cascade Forest reserve be thrown open again for settlement, and the law obliterated from the statute books.

The Oregonian is complaining about the roads in Lane county. The highways here are had enough the Lord knows, but in five miles of Portland, just as bad ones are to be found. "Distance lends enchantment," etc., is the motto of our leading paper.

SUMMONS. In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for Lane County.

Mary A. E. Smith, Plaintiff, vs. John W. Rowe, Margaret Robinson and George Robinson her husband, Rebecca Hurley her husband, Nancy Clevering her husband, Milla Cooper, and William Cooper her husband, Mary Felton, Warren K. Birdsell, Marcellus Rowe, John Lafayette Rowe, George Clevering her husband, Sarah Wilkins, the heirs of John Rowe, deceased, Defendants.

To John W. Rowe, Margaret Robinson and George Robinson her husband, Rebecca Hurley and Valentine Hurley her husband, Nancy Clevering her husband, Milla Cooper and William Cooper her husband, Mary Felton, Warren K. Birdsell, Marcellus Rowe, John Lafayette Rowe, George Clevering her husband, Sarah Wilkins, the heirs of John Rowe, deceased, the above named defendants:

In the name of the State of Oregon: You and each of you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint of the plaintiff, Mary A. E. Smith in the above entitled Court, in the above entitled suit, now on file with the Clerk of said Court on or before the first day of the next regular term of court, to-wit: On or before the 28th day of October, A. D. 1895, and you and each of you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint as hereby required the court for the relief demanded in said complaint to-wit: For a judgment and decree of said Court, that the Defendants be forever barred of any right, or claim to, or interest in the following described premises: The East 24 feet of lot No. 3 in block No. 14, in Malheur county, Lane county, Oregon, and that the plaintiff be decreed the owner in fee simple of said land.

This summons is published in the EUGENE GUARD, a newspaper printed, published, and of general circulation in Lane county, Oregon, by order of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Lane county, by the Honorable J. C. Fullerton, Judge thereof, duly made at Chambers in Roseburg on the 9th day of September, 1895. Wm. K. SCARBOROUGH, Attorney for Plaintiff.

Cheerless Hop Market.

The Otago, N. Y., Republican says: The market for new hops has not opened up very lively. The total purchases reported to us since our last report are about 110 bales. Twenty-five bales were at 8c, 57 at 7c, 33 at 7c, and 15 at 6c.

Journal-Bulletin: The market is without radical change in any particular. Business in the interior is a little better than it was a week ago, and prices are hardly as weak, but no further turn in the direction of improvement is visible. Export interest is very tame at all events and home brewers are remarkably backward about placing orders.

The Commercial-Bulletin: A fair business is being effected with home brewers and the record for the week is, with several dealers, the best one made thus far this season. Competition was keen, however, and most contracts were at prices showing very slender margin over present cost in the interior. Otherwise operations are still on a moderate scale. Dealers are taking few hops for stock and orders are extremely few and small.

Schoharie Republican: Hops in this country are of superior quality and as free from leaves as the coast or foreign growths—and should command the best market prices. The crop through the valley does not show as large a falling off as was at one time expected. The uplands are very short and the average will not vary much from twenty-five per cent. The following sales of '95 have been made in this village: Calvin Kniskern, Jacob Oliver and A. Lott at 6c; G. A. Ruland at 7c.

Heppner Gazette: Walter Van Duhn and Osmer Hager, two graduates of Heppner's High School, that used to be, have entered the university at Eugene, and their accomplishments have given them one year on the scientific course. This is what Heppner's school advertised to do.

SUMMONS. In the Circuit Court of the state of Oregon, for Lane county. Isaac Gray, Plaintiff vs. Aaron Goldsmith and Zetta Goldsmith, his wife, Emma Blanding and Martin Blanding, widow, Defendants.

To Aaron Goldsmith and Zetta Goldsmith his wife, Emma Blanding, Frank Blanding and Martin Blanding, widow, heirs at law of Martin Blanding, deceased, the above named defendants:

In the name of the state of Oregon, you and each of you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint of the plaintiff, Isaac Gray, in the above entitled Court, in the above entitled suit, now on file with the clerk of said court, on or before the first day of the next regular term of court to-wit: On or before the 28th day of October, A. D. 1895, and you and each of you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint as hereby required, the plaintiff, Isaac Gray, will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the said complaint to-wit: For a judgment and decree of said court, that the defendants be forever barred of any right, claim to, or interest in the following described premises: The East 24 feet of lot No. 3 in block No. 14, in Malheur county, Lane county, Oregon, and that the plaintiff be decreed the owner in fee simple of said premises.

DECIDED TO CUT.—The California railroad commission by a vote of two to one, has decided to reduce freight rates on farm products eight per cent between San Francisco and all interior stations. For fifteen years the people have tried to elect commissioners who would cut things down, but this is the first indication of any move in the matter. The Southern Pacific will take the case into court and see what can be done in that quarter.

Will Probated.

Daily Guard, October 3. The last will of Mrs Sarah A Seavey was probated yesterday. It bequeaths her property as follows: First.—All debts shall be paid. Second.—All personal property is to be divided equally among her seven children. Third.—The farm known as the Cogswell ranch is divided equally to her sons William and Thomas Seavey. Fourth.—The Guilford and Simmons land, and the Seavey homestead is given equally to her sons James, John and Jesse Seavey. Fifth.—Wm. and Thos. Seavey are appointed executors without bonds. The will was signed August 22, 1894; was drawn by J. J. Walton, and witnessed by J. L. Zeigler and J. J. Walton.

HAMMOND'S MOVEMENTS.—Oregonian: Mr A B Hammond, promoter of the Astoria Goble road and president of the Oregon Central & Eastern railroad, arrived in the city yesterday morning from Astoria. Mr Hammond will leave today for Albany, Corvallis and Yacquina, to look after his interests on the line of his property. Before returning to this city, he expects to make a brief visit to San Francisco. A steamer has recently been put on the Yacquina-San Francisco route to assist the steamer Farallon in carrying freight and passengers in connection with the railroad. Mr Hammond believes at least two more steamers of similar capacity should be added to the line to handle increasing business, and his trip to San Francisco is made for the purpose of making some such arrangement.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.—In making a switch on the O C & E R R, near Kingston, yesterday afternoon, Head Brakeman John Skipton fell and several cars ran over his legs. He was taken to Albany where the right leg was amputated, but the shock was too great and he died last night at 10:30 o'clock. The deceased was aged 27. He was a member of the order of Woodmen, and was well liked by all who knew him. He had been working as brakeman on the road only a little over a week. His father and brother reside in Corvallis, the latter, James Skipton, being proprietor of a lively stable there.

RAY WON.—Wednesday's Salem Post: The footrace was the drawing card on this morning's programme, quite a crowd being in attendance to witness the event. Ray was the favorite in the pools, a short while before the race, but given friends came in the last and backed him until the amounts wagered on the men were about even. At the crack of the pistol Ray got the start and finished a winner, holding the distance between him and Givens at the start clear to the finish. They ran 50 yards.

COUNTY EXHIBITS.—Salem Post: Yamhill county did not receive the first premium at the state fair, neither did Linn county receive the second premium yesterday for county exhibit. The story was started by people who had no authority whatever to give the news to the press, and of course the reporters of the different papers were misled in that way. There was no intention of doing any one an injustice. The premiums, so far as we can learn, have not been awarded for county exhibits.

FOOTBALL NOTES.—The Intercollegiate Football League will meet at Salem next Saturday to arrange a program for the season's games. Clarence Keene has been chosen to represent the U of O Athletic Association at this meeting. The games will likely be commenced in a short time and finished by Thanksgiving. It is reported that the University of Oregon may meet the University of Washington on Thanksgiving Day.
