THE TWO FACTIONS.

Portland Chronicle, Rep.: "It is well known in political circles that a strenuous fight will be made for the mastery in the June election between two republican rings as the party is split owing to the desire of many of its followers to be leaders. This has resulted in the two factions being formed, one having as its head Mayor Frank and District Attorney Hume and the other Jos. Simon and Harvey Scott. As possession is nine points in law and the Frank-Hume combination are in office, the probabilities are that they will stand the best chance of being successful in the local campaign. Joseph Simon is well known as a wizard in city politics and wiseacres doubt not but that he will manipulate the wires to his own satisfaction and that of his constituents. The combat will involve every republican politician in Portland as there is not a partisan who is not in sympathy with either one or the other rings. With the entire police and fire departments at his back, together with several score of minor office holders the ousting of Frank would be a deed requiring infinite diplomacy and tact, both of which qualities are personified in "Little Joe." In any event, be the outcome what it may, the campaign will be one of the most exciting ever witnessed in this city and a veritable monkey and parrot time may be safely predicted without fear of contradiction."

SENATORIAL FUNERALS.

Three cases, those of Thomas J. Rusk, of Texas, who died on July 29, 1856; Andrew P. Butler, of South Carolina, who died May 25, 1857, and James Bell, of New Hampshire, who died May 26, 1857, cost the government but $4.50 each. This is the smallest amount charged to the account of the death of senators. The largest amount expended in any one case on this account was on the occasion of the death of George Hearst of California. The items in that case when collected and footed up, show an aggregate of $21,322.55. The records of the senate show no expenditure by the office of the secretary for the funeral of the late Senator Leland Stanford, of California. Among the curious things which appear from the record of these funeral expenses is that the difference in the cost does not appear to be governed by the distance of the home of the deceased senator from the capital. The cost of the senatorial funerals seem to vary for no reason whatever. Here are a few figures to illustrate the variations in cost, without regard to the distance of the senators home from Washington:

1846—Alexander Barrow, La	$ 791 65
1847—Isaac Pennybacker, Va	772 80
1850—John C Calhoun, S C	3,106 47
1852—Henry Clay, Ky	8,447 02
1855—Joshua C Evans, S C	966 02
1858—James P Henderson, Tex	511 45
1874—Charles Sumner, Mass	4,687 99
1879—George S Houston, Ala	1,064 67
1886—John F Miller, Cal	3,532 34

Jacksonville Times: The Times is always averse to destroying pleasant illusions or to puncturing the charming legends of early days which many newcomers are pregnant with; but occasionally we find it obligatory to remove wrong impressions as to historical facts. In its last issue the Oregon Mining Journal gives credence to the story that the name given to Rogue river was derived from San Rogue, the Spanish saint, on whose day the river is said to have been discovered by the Spaniards. The story is a fascinating one of adventurous but unsuccessful attempts to reach the shore, which was thought to be rich in gold mines, and we would fain let it stand; but our innate love of the truth, and our position as the only religious newspaper in Southern Oregon, requires us to give the facts. In the palmy days of the Hudson Bay Co. their trappers penetrated the wilds of southern Oregon and there found a tribe of Indians so treacherous, unreliable and dishonest that they were set down as incorrigible rogues. The term rogue was accordingly applied to the savages by the English, and to this day the designation of the Indians and the river. This is Oregon history, and while not encrusted in sentiment and metaphore, is nevertheless authentic and accepted by those best fitted to judge.

AGES OF SENATORS.

The Concord Monitor publishes a list of the senators of the United States, in which it gives their places of birth and ages. The oldest man among them is, as he has been for some time, the venerable Justin S. Morrill, of Vermont, who is 85. The next in age is John M. Palmer, of Illinois, who is 78. The combined ages of the senators from Vermont exceed in amount that of the two senator from any other state, amounting to but one short of 150 years. Alabama sends two veterans, James L. Pugh, being 74 years old, and John L. Morgan, 71. Isham G. Harris, of Tennessee, is 75 and John Sherman of Ohio, is 72. A new senator from Iowa, John H. Geer, begins his career in the senate at 70. George F. Hoar, of Massachusetts, is put down at 68, but he is really 69 years of age. David B. Hill of New York, is but 52, younger, we think than is generally supposed, and Arthur P. Gorman, of Maryland, is 56, somewhat older than would have been anticipated in one who is remembered as a page of the senate. The youngest senator is Marion Butler, the new populist from North Carolina, who is 32, and his republican colleague, Peter Pritchard, is but 38, their combined ages being less than the age of several individual members of the senate.

SEATTLE'S MISTAKE.

Spokane Review: It is singular that the people of Seattle could not discern that their action in voting for the Cedar river water scheme was hostile to the best interests of the city. Seattle is already deeply in debt, and the construction of this new water system will add $1,250,000 of floating warrants, which are the worst kind of municipal indebtedness. This, of course will saddle the city with an additional burdensome interest charg , and make it impossible to give the people relief from excessive taxation.

This action is all the more reckless by reason that Seattle has now one of the best water supplies in the United States. The water is taken from Lake Washington, a mountain lake of great depth and purity. The city drainage flows into the Sound, and an analysis would show that the water of the lake is as pure as when old Chief Seattle was monarch of that section.

The overwhelming vote cast for this bit of folly can only be attributed to a species of intoxication. The people are wild for the expenditure of money upon public works. It is anything to turn money loose in the community. The consequence will be felt later. There will be a year or two of artificial prosperity, and then will come the period of municipal headache.

PROF. BAKER RESIGNS.

The Conservatory of Music of the University of Oregon is Left Without an Instructor.

Prof R P Baker today tendered his resignation to the board of regents as instructor of music in the conservatory of music of the University of Oregon, to take effect January 1st.

Mr Baker was elected to the position of professor of music at the beginning of the present school year, he being at the time in Chicago Prof Baker accepted the position and came here in September to assume his duties.

In his resignation he gives no particular reasons for resigning, and it is even hinted that he has been requested to resign.

Since Prof Baker has been at the head of the Conservatory of Music it has been most embarrassingly apparent to members of the faculty and board of regents, and others who have the welfare of the musical department of the university at heart, that the number of pupils in attendance upon that department have been gradually dropping out until only a few are left.

The new term at the beginning of the year would only see two or three students enter the musical department. Whether or not this state of affairs is due to any fault of Prof Baker's, it was not desirable to have it continue so, and a change was therefore necessary.

Prof Baker will probably return to the East in a few days, and his place will be supplied immediately. There are several applicants for the position and the board of regents will hold a meeting and elect some one to fill the vacancy in time to begin the new year.

President Chapman and Regent Friendly are in Portland.

Cheaper Bicycles.

It is said that the Japanese are about to invade this market with strictly fine bicycles which will be wholesaled at $12. If the story is true it means that there will be big reductions very soon or that the Japanese manufacturers will be taken into the combination. Our manufacturers cannot afford to sell a good wheel at any such figure, but they could afford to supply the public at rates far below those now prevailing. The $100 machine could be sold at a large profit for $50, but the manufacturers hold up the price because the people will have machines and the price does not prevent them from taking all that can be turned out. If the Japanese bring about a reduction we will have something to thank them for. However, those who intend to get wheels next year had better not wait for a reduction. Unless they get their orders in early they may have to wait months for machines and will then pay the high figures.

Senator Coggswell a Republican.

Lakeview Examiner: "It is quite probable that I shall support the next republican candidate for president," said Senator Coggswell to the editor of the Examiner, who called at his office to inquire as to the rumors to that effect which were being circulated on the streets. Upon inquiring into the cause of the change, the Senator said: "I left the republican party in 1872; on account of the reconstruction policy of the party; this issue is now a thing of the past. Since the new issues have arisen I find myself more in accord with the republican than with the democratic party."

EXHIBITION DRILL.

The Girls of Muscle and Endurance Entertain their Friends at the University Gymnasium.

Daily Guard, December 18.

An exhibition drill was given at the gymnasium last evening by the Young Ladies' Athletic Club of the university. Invitations were issued to the extent of the seating capacity of the gymnasium, and, so popular are these entertainments, that every one who was fortunate enough to receive an invitation, was there. The program opened with an instrumental solo by Miss Slater, which was received with pleasure by the audience.

At 8 o'clock the nine young ladies from the large class who were to take part in the Indian club drill appeard on the floor, clad in pretty bloomer costumes, and were greeted with applause by the audience. After making a few runs around the hall they formed in line and began the work of the drill, which was carried out almost without a break, and with such exhibitions of skill, muscle and endurance as to repeatedly win the applause of the audience.

A recitation was given by Miss Baright, professor of elocution. She was loudly applauded, and returning rendered a pretty little love scene in spring time.

The next was the less difficult wand drill, performed by 16 members of the class. This, too, was well executed, and well received by the audience.

Next came the Swedish drill, which was taken part in by the more expert members of the class. Some very difficult feats were performed. In climbing and descending the swinging ladder Miss Lila Straub and Miss Pearl Cooper exhibited wonderful agility, and was enthusiastically cheered by the audience. The shadow movement on the wall was so ludicrous in appearance as to cause great mirth on the part of the audience.

A solo was sung by Miss Henderson, the audience being greatly disappointed in an encore.

Basket ball was next announced and proved the most exciting feature of the evening's entertainment. Two teams had been chosen from the class and lined up a follows.

	POSITIONS.
Ida Noffsinger,	Capt and C R	Flora Watkins
Pearl Cooper	R F	Agnes Adams
Barbara Lauer	L F	Hennie Lauer
Zolo Grimes	Center	Ida Calef
Dora Cooper	R G	Bertha Templeton
Kate Kelley	L G	Lila Straub
Balm Mann	G G	Etta Owens

At the toss of the ball the playing commenced. On the beginning of the first half Miss Watkins' team seemed to have the best of the game, and kept the ball in Miss Noffsinger's field most of the time. They were met with stubborn resistance, however, and it was after hard fighting that they finally placed the ball in the latter's goal and scored one point. On the the second toss-up Miss Noffsinger's players went into the game with more enthusiasm and soon scored a point. At the end of the first half of 10 minutes, the score stood 1 to 1.

During the intermission between the halves Miss Theresa Friendly, who acted as pianist during the evening, played a solo.

On the beginning of the second half playing was spirited from the start. Miss Noffsinger's players made a goal and scored a point in a short space of time. The contest then became a battle royal. The ball flew from one field to the other, but for some time neither side could score. Finally Miss Watkin's players placed the ball in the opposing team's goal and made a point. The ball was again tossed, and near the finish of the last half Miss Noffsinger's team made a goal and a point. The opposing team played furiously in the remaining short time but were unable to score and the final result stood 3 to 2 in favor of Miss Noffsinger's team.

The prize was a bouquet of flowers. During the game the friends of the two teams seemed to be about equally divided, and when either side made an excellent play or secured a point they were loudly cheered.

Governor Lord's Views.

Salem, Or., Dec. 17—Asked if Oregon's people would approve the attitude toward England expressed in Cleveland's message to congress on the Venezuelan question, Governor Lord said tonight:

"I believe the people of our state are in accord with the sentiments expressed in President Cleveland's message on the Venezuelan question."

While not committing himself as to the merits of the Monroe doctrine, Governor Lord says the time is at hand when it must either be lived up to or forever set aside.

Fell From the Mehama Bridge.

Albany, Or., 17.—W S Trainor, a mechanic of this city, while working with others repairing the bridge across the Santiam at Mehama, slipped and fell a distance of 40 feet today. He struck the timbers half way down and then fell upon the rocks below. He was brought to this city tonight, and it is thought he may recover.

Will Combine.—On January 1, 1896, Wm Preston, who has been in the harness business in this city since 1871, and C H Hale, the Ninth street harness maker, will combine their businesses, and thereafter continue them under one firm. The new firm will conduct its business in the Preston building on Willamette street, which is now occupied by Preston's harness store and Luckey's jewelry store. M Luckey will move his stock of goods into the building now occupied by G W Crowell. Mr Hale has been in business in Eugene for many years, and is well and favorably known. Mr Preston has been here for nearly 25 years, and is known by everyone. The new firm will be a strong one, and will no doubt prosper.
