Electric railroads are proving of great benefit to the farmers in Maine. The trolley lines run out from the large cities and towns to villages far removed from steam railroad communication, and in several districts arrangements are making to run trolley milk trains, vegetable trains, and the like, to enable the farmers to get their produce quickly to market. It is even proposed to run trolley coal trains, to supply coal to small towns that now use only wood.

A modest young lady, who desired to purchase a pair of garters, addressed the young man behind the counter thus: "It is my desire to obtain a pair of circular elastic appendages, capable of being contracted and expanded by means of oscillating furnished still appliances that sparkle like diamonds and which are utilized for retaining in proper position the habiliments of the lower extremities, which innately delicacy friends me to mention."

Our friend, Dr. Reese, has been having some sport of late with a number of unsuspecting youths. He has hung out $5 as an irresistible tempting bait and reward to the first energetic youth bringing the gizzard of an owl. One young man after hunting all day, returned worn out and hungry. On being asked if he killed an owl, replied: "Yes, and cut it into little pieces, and I'll be darned if I could find any gizzard."—Brownsville Times.

A number of gentlemen who have become interested in bowling, are holding a meeting this afternoon to see what can be done in the way of establishing a permanent bowling alley in this city.

W. W. McCormick, medical director of the Yakima Gold Cure Company at North Yakima, Wash., who is in the city, reports that he is meeting with good encouragement and expects to be able to establish a branch institute here.

The Advancement Club.

Daily Guard, January 21.

The feature at the meeting of the Advancement Club last evening was a paper by Hon. H. B. Miller on "Relation of Woman to Social Progress."

Mr. Miller took the part of the woman and in an able manner championed her cause and brought out her many excellent qualities. He showed that the better instincts and nobler qualities are found in woman, and while man has been following nature and cultivating his warlike qualities and giving his attention to the accumulation of wealth, woman has exercised the patience, tenderness and motherhood endowed by nature and devoted to the cultivation of the human race. The result of a vast improvement in the social standing of the human race. From Mr. Miller's article it appears that woman has the credit of being first to devise implements of various kinds; first to discover medicinal qualities of the many herbs; first to give attention to the cultivation of vegetables and cereals; first to manufacture flour, and in fact first in everything, and after she has taken the initial step she has transformed her inventions from a crude state to one of perfection. The paper was a brief review of the advancement of civilization from ancient times, in which woman was given the bulk of the credit for the progress made.

President Chapman announced that he had partially engaged several speakers, and on vote of the club it was decided to assure these speakers their expenses in coming here, and the engagements will now be closed. The gentlemen are Mr. Watson, Ashland, subject, Crater Lake; C. J. Schueler, of Portland, subject, Judicial Procedure; B. B. Beckman, of Portland, subject not given. At the next meeting Prof. Condon will give a paper on "Evolution of the Earth's Crust."

A Citizen's Views.

Daily Guard, January 21.

That hoodlumism is on the increase in our city—"The fairest city of the plains"—is evident to all observers, and such will be the case until some means of punishment is devised for such offenses that are so common. What, I ask, are the authorities doing that a good large crowd pile is not in readiness to welcome this and every other class of offenders who defy our laws? The present mode of punishment (?) is inadequate, for to be placed in a comfortable building this stonery and to be fed at the expense of the taxpayers on the part of the law is just what these criminals desire. Will those who are supposed to administer our laws attend to this without delay? WE'LL SEE.

Daily Guard, January 21.

RETURNED.—L. N. Roney and crew returned yesterday afternoon from Hendricks ferry, where they were engaged for a week in rebuilding the ferry boat. They had just got ready for work when the river commenced to rise and they experienced any amount of difficulty in accomplishing their work, and part of the time were assisted by ten or more men living in that neighborhood. The boat was cut down and made smaller, and then moved down the river about one hundred yards from where it has been the past year, as the current of the river has changed so as to make this necessary. Mr. Roney states that even now it will be difficult landing the boat, but there was no better place for it either above or below.

CIRCUIT COURT CASES.—John McCollum has entered suit against Lane county in the circuit court for the recovery of money. The complaint alleges that in May 1893 the plaintiff entered into a contract with the county court for the keeping of one Daniel Harkins, he to receive $1.25 per day for the care, board and lodging of said Harkins. He now has a claim against the county for $23.75 for said services and asks for interest on the same from August 10, 1894. The complaint alleges that the court tendered the plaintiff $50 but he refused to accept that amount. A suit has also been entered by G. R. Chrisman against R. Snodice to recover money.

GETTING WILD.—Col. Alley of the West seems to have it in for Eugene more than usual this week. In his rantings he suddenly comes at us wild eyed in the following language: "Steelhead and chinook salmon are caught in this river and transported and sold in Eugene, under the very eyes and knowledge of a deputy game warden. But as there is no money in it for the warden, this violation of the law is left unheeded or unmolested. It is only wealthy cannerymen's money that is wanted in Eugene! The law to the devil! It is coin we crave!"

SPIRITUALISM.—Prof. Ross, of Boston, a spiritual medium and astrologer, has taken rooms over Rhinehart's grocery store, and holds meetings each evening. Sunday evening the meeting was free and was well attended, but for most of the meetings an admission fee is charged. Astrology and fortune telling is the main feature under which a person is born, and many have great faith in this method. The meeting will be free again tomorrow evening.

ANOTHER CAR.—Messrs Chase & Co. of this city, agents for Chas. Jacobson & Co.'s commission house, in San Francisco, have sufficient poultry on hand and enough more in sight to warrant them to commence immediately to load another car for the San Francisco market. They expect to have the next car ready to ship by February 1.

Daily Guard, January 21.

A DANCE.—A dance out of the usual order is to be given at Springfield next Monday evening. Ladies are requested to bring baskets containing lunch for two. Gentlemen will secure partners for supper by taking hold of a yarn passing under a curtain, with a lady attached to the other end.

LET HER DIE.—Governor Lord is receiving numerous letters from women, begging him to spare the life of young Montgomery, the triple murderer, at Albany. One California woman says she knows his execution will have the effect of killing her, she is so wrought up over the matter.

HIGH WATER.

The River is Now Over 17 Feet Above Low Water Mark.

Daily Guard, January 21.

High water has come again and is staying pretty well, with prospects of remaining a few days longer. The river has been near last fall for several days, and last night went over the banks. At eight o'clock this morning it registered 16 feet above low water mark. It has been rising slowly during the day and is now a little more than 17 feet above low water. The heavy rain of last night will undoubtedly keep it up for another day at least.

Last night it was reported that the bridge was cracking and it was supposed the middle pier was being undermined, as it stands in the middle of the strong current. However, the bridge is still there and today it shows no indication of giving away, and teams have been crossing as usual.

The water is over the road north of the bridge and with a little further rise travel will have to be suspended.

A. K. Patterson and Fisher & Watkins, who have their slaughterhouses in the bottom across the river, went over this morning and brought some of their stock out and placed the balance where they will be safe.

Hundreds of people have visited the river today, many expecting to see the bridge going or gone.

But little drift has passed down, and most that is passing is small. It lacks but a couple of weeks of being six years since we had the big flood. Had there been much snow in the foothills we would have had a repetition of it at this time.

The river has had hundreds of visitors today.

If this down pour continues steamboats can take short cuts across the valleys.

The present high waters have had the effect of closing the locks at Oregon City for a few days.

The flooding of the bottom on the east side compelled Messrs Fisher & Watkins and Messrs McCormack & Bartch to remove their beef stock from the slaughter houses which animals were taken to John Conger's farm two and one half miles west of town.

The high waters have flooded the Springfield bottom, and the road is impassable at Judkin's point. The Springfield stage came by way of Henderson and the Springfield L. O. F. cemetery today. If the waters should get much higher considerable damage may be done to property in the bottom.

The city has been pretty well flooded with surface water, but not sufficient to do any damage. At the low place on the Davis lot at 6th and Olive streets discharge from the sewer has been pouring out through a man hole and has flooded the lot to a depth of two or three feet. This is caused by the outlet of the sewer which has been constructed that a heavy pressure of water at the river closes it, thus preventing the contents of the sewer from escaping.

This high water promises to be of vast value to Mr. Edris and his mill race. A few years ago the river changed to a new channel and cut out a part of the mill pond near the university. For a couple of years the channel has turned at almost a right angle opposite the university, throwing the entire current across the channel and against the wall of the mill pond. Now the water is rapidly cutting a straight channel at this point and it is more than likely when the water recedes it will be a big gravel bar along the mill pond. In this case the mill race will be permanently protected.

Daily Guard, January 21.

SENTENCED TO JAIL.—Ray Bab, Francis Hempy and Linn Alexander, the boys arrested for creating a disturbance at the Salvation Army barracks Sunday evening, were given a trial in Recorder Dorris' court this morning. A number of witnesses were examined on both sides. After hearing the evidence the Recorder sentenced Bab to serve eight days in the city jail, and Hempy and Alexander were given five days each. The boys were not given an opportunity to pay a fine. They were placed in the city jail immediately after the trial, and will have ample opportunity for deliberation before again gaining their freedom.

DIDN'T GET HERE.—The Wu M Hoang, the O. C. & E. company's boat, which sailed from Portland last Sunday with the avowed intention of coming to Eugene, didn't get here. She came as far as Corvallis and then turned back to Portland. No cause is given for the boat's failure to come to this city. It certainly could not have been for lack of water. Owing to the condition of the locks it will probably be several days before she reaches Portland. She has announced her intention of coming here again, but the people will not look for her until they hear her fog horn.

Daily Guard, January 21.

DIED.—E. C. Goodwin died last evening at the residence of Arley Meek, about three miles below town, of abscess of the lungs. He was 82 years of age. He had been married, but his wife and children had passed away before him. The funeral services are to be held tomorrow and the remains will be buried in the Luper cemetery.

SUPREME COURT CASE.—The following case came up in the supreme court at Salem yesterday: "Thomas Day, appellant, vs. Mike Schindler and Mrs. M. Schindler, respondents. Appeal from Lane county. The Argued and submitted. A. E. Wheeler attorney for appellant. L. Bilyeu attorney for respondents."

Daily Guard, January 21.

THE STEAMER.—The steamer Gypsy reached the wharf at this place at 2:30 this afternoon. She brought up a large load of miscellaneous freight, mostly for Eugene merchants. She has a quantity of flour to take down from the Eugene mills. The river is now at a ten foot stage.

A CHANGE.—Lester Ogden who had the sub contract for carrying the mail over the Lively-Smith route, has disposed of his contract to John Holland.

Against the Collector.

Corvallis Times: A decision just handed down by Judge Fullerton is of considerable interest to Col. Eugene Hogg. The decision is upon the petition of Col. Hogg to have returned to him the $25,000 deposited, with the sheriff, as forfeit money at the sale of the Oregon Pacific, when Zephin Job bid one million dollars for the property. The petition was originally filed at the April term of court in 1894, and was pressed again by Wallis Nash at the spring term last year after the sale of the road to Bonner and Hammond. A demurrer to the petition was filed by the Farmers' Trust and Loan company, and the latter was argued at the last November term. The decision just handed down, sustains the demurrer, and orders the petition dismissed. The case will probably be appealed to the supreme court.
