WANTS HIM TO RESIGN. - Salem Statesman: Groups of prominent republicans were seen standing on the streets yesterday discussing Representative H L Barkley's course in refusing to endorse McKinley and the republi-can platform, and the desire was plainly voiced by many of the men, high in the councils of the party, that he should resign as a member of the leg-islature and allow a special election to be held in November to fill the vacancy. The reason given for this was "that, as he had been elected as a republican and had repudiated the party he should, as an honorable man, not retain the office with which that party had honored him, but let the peo-ple select a man to fill the place who would represent the views of the ma-jority of the voters of the country."

Better Road Wanted Between This

City and Princville. Freighters from Eastern Oregon complain of the bad condition of the McKenzie wagon road from the Mc-Kenzie Bridge on to the summit and across to the lava beds. A large number of Crook county residents send; here each year for their supplies and a great many more would do so if the road eross the mountains was in better condition. A large amount of wool from that country would be brought here to be disposed of and supplies taken back in its place were the roads what they should be. Some has been brought this senson.

The people of Crook county are very anxious for a good road between Eugene and Prineville. Teamsters from that country who were recently here for supplies state that if the people of Lane county will place the road in good shape from the springs to the summit, that the people of Crook county will do the rest on the other side of the summit. They say that a dozen men in two weeks' time could repair the road sufficiently.

This question was discussed considerably last year, having been brought to the notice of the press by the Crook county people, as it has this year. It is a question which concerns the people of both sides of the Cascades, and if they would unite their forces for better road; and more traffic between the
