We arraign and condemn the Populistic conventions of Chicago and St. Louis for their co-operation with the Republican party for increasing these conditions, which are applied in justification of the heavy increase of the burdens of the people and further resort to protection. We therefore denounce protection and its ally, the free coinage of silver, as schemes for the personal profit of the few at the expense of the many, and oppose the two parties which stand for these schemes as hostile to the people of the republic, whose food and shelter, comfort and property, all anxious about securing wheat are attacked by higher taxes and depreciated money.

"The experience of mankind has shown that, by their natural qualities gold is the necessary money of the large affairs of commerce and business, while silver is conveniently adapted to minor transactions, and the most beneficial use of both together can be insured only by the adoption of the former as the standard of monetary measure and the maintenance of silver at a parity with gold by its unlimited coinage under such safeguards of law. Thus is the largest possible enjoyment of both metals gained, with the value uriversally accepted throughout the world, which constitutes the only practical currency, assuring the most stable standard, and espescially the best and safest money for all who earn a livelihood by labor or the products of husbandry. "Realizing these truths, demonstrated by long public inconvenience and loss, the Democratic party, in the interest of the masses and equal justice to all, practically established by the legislation of 1834 and 1853 the gold standard of monetary measurement, and likewise entirely divorced the government from banking and currency is-

Trade in the wholesale district is very fair, but the elections tend to make it much quieter than it naturally would be at this time of year. The buying in most lines is from the hand to mouth order, and the credit system has been almost entirely abolished. Rolled oats grapes, there comes a revived feeling, are quoted as follows: Bags, $4.25@ breakfast tastes better, and the system is toned up for the day. It is one of the wise provisions of nature to ripen grapes just at the time of the year when they are best suited to the health and appetite. We urge the planting of vineyards and other small fruits. A fruit garden is of greater necessity, in so far as the health and happiness of the family are concerned, than the corn field. The peasants of Spain, it is said, eat fruit more than anything else, yet they are noted for their strength and vigor. Fresh fruit is filled with the very essence of the life-giving principle. It is nature's storehouse of the most beautiful and pleasant elements of the soil and the air, such as are bound to impart renewed strength to the consumer. It is beauty and vitality combined and condensed.

How much more of happiness and pleasure there is sure to be in the home that is surrounded by beautiful flowers, and fresh, sweet fruits! How superior in every respect is such a home in which to raise our children, compared to the barren home of the thoughtless and shiftless, that give no heed to the better and more elevated system of liv ing that comes of cultivating nature in her higher branches. Think this matter over.-Colman's Rural World.

Salt Boxes for Cattle.

In order to secure a regular salting with a large herd of cattle it is neces sary to have sait continually before them for use at their leisure. Many farmers use rock salt, scattering it about over the pasture, but even with this there is waste in wet weather, and some danger that cattle will lick out large lumps in such a way as to make a cavity, which sometimes will fill with water and become brine, and too much of this will produce more or less disorder. Where barrel salt is used there is much waste in wet times from melting. The "Denver Field and Farm" suggests a salt box for cattle where barrel salt is used that seems to meet the case,

"In sait boxes for cattle in pasture the writer likes the kind resembling It is entirely home-made, and the stock will soon learn to lift the lid and help themselves. In order to teach them how it is done cut a semi-circular opening in the top part of the front side, just below the lid, and fill with salt so as it can be licked without raising the lid. They will come and taste the sait and keep helping themselves right along, lifting the lid to get to it. The lid protects the salt from rains and saves from waste and from getting packed in a hard lump. Fasten the box

A box of this kind is easily made and is worth trying.

Ashes for Sandy Soil. Almost all sandy solls lack potash. Even when it is present, unless there is also some vegetable matter in the soil to furnish carbonic acid gas, the potash forms a union with the sand, and thenceforward can only be released as it is some way made soluble. The benefit from applications of potash to soils. Most heavy soils have more or less potash in insoluble form. As the caustic potash in the ash changes it makes the potash and phosphate in the soil near it soluble also, and thus potash will sometimes oblige the soil to supply to the plants the phosphates they require to make a grain crop. But in such cases the potash does not take the place of the mineral. It simply enables the plant to get phosphate that was in the soil but not in soluble form. Killing Thistles with Hoed Crops. One year's thorough cultivation will entirely eradicate not merely Canada but all kinds of perennial But the cultivation must not let up even for a single week. If any sprout reaches the surface and gets to the daylight, it reinvigorates the root, and such half cultivation may be kept up for years without greatly lessening the pest. Wherever attempts are made to kill thistles by growing a crop of corn or potatoes on the land, the month of August will be found a very critical time. It will be necessary to examine the hills closely so that no shoot creeps in with the corn or potato crop in the hills. The cultivator alone cannot be depended upon to do this work. Early Fattening of Pork.

TOPICS FOR FARMERS | condition for the butcher, and topping off the last few weeks with a clear corn diet. Many farmers prefer that pork for their own use shall not be thus topped off. It is sweeter but less firm in texture, containing more moisture. This, however, only means that the pig killed after being fed so as to waste in cooking is by that fact shown to be in healthy condition. All animals in perfect health are composed largely of water. This is evaporated when internal fevers evaporate the internal moisture, and the meat is then said to be firm, solid and will waste little in cooking. Whenever pork of this kind is not wanted, it should be fattened with boil ed vegetables or fruit mixed with wheat middlings and bran to make the right proportion of nitrogeneous matter. We spectacties from a peddler, and blew have often more than half fattened hogs on boiled pumpkins and windfall apples, and never had pork that tasted better than that thus fattened. Mexican Sheep.

The old Mexican sheep are the direct descendants of the original Spanish Merino brought over two hundred years ago by Spaniards to Old Mexico. They have been bred with scarcely any out cross, and are a very distinctly marked breed. They have long legs, a long. thin body, not very deep; small, rather long neck, and a long, thin head, carried high. The wool is fine and thin. To the eye they appear almost worthless as mutton, and of still less value for wool. Their good points are that they are hardy, excellent travelers, will keep in good condition on the poorest and driest of ranges, are fairly prolific, and can be herded in bunches of almost any size. They fatten easily, though never getting plump and fat like the Northern sheep. When they reach the Chicago market, if in good condition, they outsell all other sheep, for they shrink zery little in dressing, the meat has an excellent flavor, and the hide is so thin, firm and soft as to command the highest price.

First Experiment Station. The first agricultural experiment station established under Government auspices was organized at the little German village of Moeckern, near Leipsic, in 1851, under the influence of the Leipsic University. Liebig in Germany, Boussingault in France, and Lawes and Gilbert in England had all been experimenting along the lines of agriculture and horticulture for years, but the action of the Saxon agriculturists in 1851 marks the beginning of the experiment station proper.

Peaches on Plum Stock. The peach can be and frequently is budded on the plum. It makes a good combination where the trees are planted on heavy soils, the plum stock doing much better on these than the peach. It does not make the peach any more hardy, as even in the coldest winters the peach tree escapes, while its buds are destroyed when the thermometer runs down to 10 or 12 degrees below zero, and with a sharp wind at 8 degrees below if the ground it not covered with snow.

The most wholesome way of cooking a potato, says the New York Sun, is to bake it. A small piece of the skin should be cut from the ends before putting the potatoes in to bake. If a baked potato stands after it is cooked it is likely to become soggy. To avoid this, when the potato is done fold it in a napkin and roll the potato between the palms of the hands until it cracks open. Treated in that way, the potato will al ways be mealy.
