The Views of Some of the Local Buyers Relative to this Important Matter. Daily Guard, October 7.

Salem Statesman of today says: "A Statesman reporter called on some of the hop brokers and agents in this city yesterday and interviewed them on the situation of the market, with the following results:

Squire Farrar: "The hop market is a little better, prices are advancing slightly. We are now offering 6 cents for choice goods. Hops generally make good samples, showing up very well. Brewers are not buying much, thinking they will buy cheaper later on. Growers are selling rapidly. It will not take many weeks to clean up the available hops in this section of the country. There are so many contracts and consigned for the purpose of raising pickings which that there will not be many available hops. Crops will go out of growers' hands in a short time. It is almost useless to send out samples, as sales, in most instances, will be consummated before returns can be had from the samples sent out."

"E C Herren: Hops are holding their own. Buyers want hops badly, inquiries being received here from London and New York, but there are not many sales to report as yet. The crops are all harvested and there is no picking now. The quality of hops is generally good, although some very inferior goods have been harvested. A possible advance in price may help out the growers of this poor product. When the 30,000 bales of hops that are consigned in this state reach the market they will have to be disposed of, as the dealer's money is tied up in them, and when they are thrown on the market we may look for a decline. We have shipped several carloads to London and New York and have bought a quantity of Lops at 5 to 6 cents."

The Salem Statesman has the following additional interviews with local hop buyers: H J Ottenheimer: "As anticipated the quality of Oregon hops is turning out superior to former seasons, and as a result an inquiry has already sprung up from the English markets for our goods, from the fact that both the New York and English crops are of an inferior quality as compared with former seasons. Six and a half cents are offered for the choicest growths, but as yet there is no demand for the inferior grades."

Geo W Hubbard: "There is a better feeling in the market, but growers are not disposed to sell. Choice shippers are in good demand, but there is, as yet, no market for lower grades. I am not ready to concede that there is a better feeling. Choice hops will find a ready market, even at the advance."

Wm Brown: "The market is firm. Choice hops are worth 6 cent. Many growers are selling their crops. Demands from the East and foreign points are good. A few English orders have been received in this market."

HOPS HAVE RISEN.—Today's Salem Statesman: "In Salem, yesterday 7 1/2 cents were offered for hops in several instances. The market is firm and an increase even in this price is expected."

THE WOODMEN EXCURSION.—After not a little controversy this morning the managers of the Woodmen excursion and the S P company finally came to terms. The result was that a large crowd of people assembled at the depot before the arrival of the 11:20 train, but could not get tickets, as the company had failed to provide them.

A list of the names of those who paid fare was taken. A few minutes before the arrival of the train a message was received from Portland stating that all who took the excursion tickets must return on Friday's local train. This would give them one day in Portland. The first understanding had been that the excursionists should return Saturday and when the change became known many demanded their money back again, refusing to concede to any such demand by the company. When the train arrived no special car was attached, and the excursionists crowded into the regular passenger coaches, forming a jam in the cars. Baggage was hurriedly checked without tickets and the conductor and excursion manager, no doubt had a nice job straightening things out between here and Portland.

If You Had a Friend About to visit some section of country where malarial disease, either in the form of chills and fever or bilious remittent was particularly prevalent, would be about the best advice you could give him. We will tell you—to carry along or procure on arriving, the potent medicinal safeguard, Hoister's stomach Bitters, known throughout malaria plagued regions, here and in other countries, as the surest means of guarding the system from over-exertion, bodily and mental, exposure in rough weather, or occupation too sedentary or laborous, loss of appetite and excessive nervousness. The functions of assimilation, bilious secretion and sleep have in it a most powerful and reliable auxiliary.

Just because a man falls down and calls a foul don't constitute a fight.

Supreme Court Bicycle Decision. The Michigan supreme court handed down a decision Tuesday of interest to bicyclists, growing out of the running down of a little girl by a man named Hinds. She was walking down hill in a narrow path. Hinds was riding down the hill at a rate of five or six miles an hour. He struck her severely injured her. He claims that he struck an obstacle just before the accident, but the supreme court declared that when a person upon a bicycle comes up behind another, who is unconscious of approach, and is walking where he has a right to walk, gives warning, and strikes him or her, the circumstances, unexplained, tend to show negligence. While Hinds may be able to show that he was in the exercise of due care, the court declares that the burden of proof was cast upon him by the girl's case.—Flint Democrat.

- 4th. Our cast iron stoves can be heated; no sheet iron covers to blow off; using cover prevents jerking out smoke, burning the carpet with a hot cover and ruining the turn by using it as a handle; the damper is made so it can't blow out. Our stove is absolutely perfect.
- 5th. All stoves are lined with heavy steel plate and have an air space between the lining and outside, that protects the stove from warping and burning red.
