

Eugene City Guard.

SAURDAY, MARCH 6.

To Weekly Subscribers.

With this week we commence sending out statements to subscribers of the WEEKLY GUARD, who are in arrears one year or more.

We trust subscribers will respond promptly. The amounts due are small individually, but collectively aggregate a considerable amount.

Our bills for paper, ink, employees, and numerous other items must be paid weekly and monthly; therefore, we must ask our patrons to assist us to the extent of their liabilities.

A PREMIUM.

Any new or old subscriber paying one year in advance, and arrears, if any, will receive free for one year the CINCINNATI WEEKLY ENQUIRER. The ENQUIRER is the leading paper of the Mississippi valley. It is edited in news and editorial columns, and is a clean, moral family paper, which we can conscientiously recommend. Its subscription price alone is $1.00.

CALIFORNIA JEALOUSY.

A San Francisco paper makes fun of the Oregon legislature because one of the members accepted a ten dollar confederate bill. That writer does not know the average Oregon legislator. He will accept anything, and in that respect is better than the California man who demands everything that comes to his hands sugar coated.

The Oregon legislator is a thrifty cuss and does not propose that anything shall go to waste or be about loose. Our readers will remember that a few sessions ago our law makers, on adjournment, carefully gathered all the pencils, pens, ink, paper cutters, file holders, stationery, codes of law and other articles furnished by the state, and took them to their respective homes, for safe keeping we presume. They were probably fearful the capitol janitors might overlook such small articles in cleaning up. Some capricious critics who had been defeated for the legislature at the previous election, enviously criticized the care thus taken of state property, but the source of the remarks was considered and the legislators did not allow the criticism to ruffle their demeanor in the least. They were conscious of their rectitude and probity.

Two articles, however, that session, baffled the ingenuity of the departing solons whose valises and trunks were filled to overflowing. The desks were riveted to the floors, and the state house janitors kept the stoves red hot as the time for their departure approached. This unexpected seeming lack of confidence justly irritated some of the members, and they retaliated by appropriating the spittoons, which by some chance, not explainable, had been overlooked.

Our California contemporary is respectfully informed that their Webfoot cousins are not expected to leave anything behind at the close of a session except the state house.

Honorable exceptions are noted in the rule, and Lane county members are among them. We are not certain, however, if the fact is complimentary or otherwise. All loose articles disappear, and they might as well have a share.

SAFE BREAKERS NOT REWARDED

Mr Vandeyne of Coburg gets rather blue occasionally if his burglars do not get around and break into his store or safe on schedule time. It was broken into the other night, the fifth time during the last year. Naturally he is expecting the visitors and does not have any specie in the safe of nights.

One winter several years ago safe breaking and petty larcenies were numerous in Eugene. One of our merchants, who possessed a neat safe, and did not wish it damaged, using it only for protection of his books, hung a placard on the knob giving information that the safe was not locked, and asking intending burglars not to blow it open, but simply turn the knob and open the door. One night the store was entered by unknown parties who evidently tested the safe and found it as represented for nothing was molested.

The Oregonian complacently describes how American steel rails and billets successfully compete with home manufactures in England. Now it should get down to first principles and inform us why this country needs a tariff on such articles to protect the home manufacturer that can sell his goods in a foreign market.

THE NEW PRESIDENT

He Was Inaugurated at Noon Today. A Brief Sketch of His Military and Political Life.

Major William McKinley was inaugurated president of the United States at the capitol at Washington, D. C., at noon today, Ex-president Grover Cleveland retiring.

William McKinley was born at Niles, Ohio, February 26, 1844. He enlisted in the United States army in May, 1861, as a private soldier in the 23d Ohio infantry, and was mustered out as a captain of the same regiment and brevet major in September, 1865. He served as prosecuting attorney of Stark county, Ohio, from 1869 to 1871. In 1877 he was elected to the forty-fifth congress, and successively thereafter up to 1898. In March, 1890, he introduced a tariff bill known by his name, framed in the interest of the protectionists. It was passed, but Mr. McKinley was defeated for reelection. He was nominated for president by the National Republican convention which met at Chicago in June, 1896, and was elected president in the November election of that year, securing a majority of the electoral votes.

Petition for School Director.

Eugene, Or., March 2, 1897.

To Wm S Gilbert, Sir: We the undersigned, legal voters of School District No 4, Lane county, Oregon, most respectfully and earnestly request you to allow us to use your name as a candidate for the office of school director of said district.

On account of the great importance of the public schools of Eugene we deem it advisable that a man not only of an education, but a man having had experience in educational matters and school management should be chosen for this important office.

You, not only being a University graduate, but also having had experience as a teacher and a professor, and also as a college president, and having the interest of education, both the public schools and higher instruction also, at heart, and being further thoroughly well qualified, both from a financial standpoint and morally, to perform the duties of the office, we deem it to be the best interests of our city schools to ask you to serve in the capacity of director, and we sincerely request a favorable consideration of this petition:

C S Hunt, F G Young, J T Abbott, Geo D Neely, J B Hopkins, Richard Mount, A Burlingame, R C Brooks, A G Hovey, Jr., J E Jennings, S R Williams, C H Chapman, Geo V Martin, F L Washburn, J E Wetherbee, J J Walton, F McMurphy, W B Mumery, M Svarverud, Isaac Gray, Joel McCormac, Frank Riesner, Frank Hutton, P Frank, E R Frank, M Whitman, Geo Long, W F Martin, W E Loughmiller, M W McMurry, W G Smith, J O Rhinehart, H G Plymate, W R Hollenbeck, I D Driver, W M Green, J F Day, C S Farrow, F M Wilkins, C M Denmore, H A McCrady, J S McMurry, D T Gilman, J H McClung, A G Hovey, J H Wheeler, R L Ziegler, D C Ziegler, R L Willoughby, Leonard Gross, W O Ziegler.

A Correction.

EDITOR GUARD: With your kind permission, we desire to correct a statement recently published regarding our brother's late illness, saying he had been treated at several different times for appendicitis.

Within two hours from the time we first learned from the physicians' council that an operation was necessary, we were on our way with him to Portland, thereby grasping our first and only opportunity for treatment after we learned what his trouble might possibly be.

We were present during the operation and know the only treatment he received for appendicitis was in the Good Samaritan hospital.

Furthermore, we wish to state that we do not believe the operation was in any way the cause of his death, as has been published.

Back From the Grave. We cannot come, but we can often stay our progress thither. Disease, like everything else must have a beginning. All chronic maladies tend to shorten life, and render it a species of martyrdom while they last. Malaria, kidney complaint, chronic indigestion, rheumatism, all have small beginnings, and may be stayed at the outset with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This excellent tonic and alterative is adapted alike to the prevention of disorders of the system and to their removal, and its early use can be truly said to "save the life." It is no more than a common sense remedy, and its effects are most marked. It cures the effects of overwork and exhaustion, mental or physical, are counteracted by it, and the weary, the tired clerk or operative, and the halcyon student, author or newspaper man, derive from it present relief and future energy.

Creswell Casualties.

March 4.

So far we have not felt the earth tremble from the collision with prosperity. It may come before night.

A number of Creswellites are in attendance at court this week.

Last Saturday night there appeared in town what looked like three wild men from Borneo or some other terrible place, but as they seemed peaceable, persons soon approached near enough to recognize in the strangers the three trappers, George and Charlie Grobe and Will Parsons, who have been in the Cascade mountains all winter trapping, and having run out of provisions had to come home. They each had grown a magnificent crop of whiskers, and Will Parsons' mother did not know him when he came to the kitchen door asking for something to eat, and he couldn't get even a "hand out" much less a feast of fatted calf.

A Methodist Sunday school was organized here Sunday before last, and last Sunday they decided to occupy the 10 o'clock hour at the church, which has heretofore been the time and place of meeting for the Union Sunday school. This new town is going right ahead. New and substantial buildings are going up all the time. It did not stop building at any time during the panic. The coming year promises more growth than at any time in its history. People are beginning to see the many advantages of living in the center and near the University, from where all the mills, shops, stores, etc., in both Springfield and Eugene can be reached in five to fifteen minutes. For these reasons values of real estate have been well maintained during the panic and progress has been continuous.

I buy property by wholesale and sell it at retail just as a merchant handles goods; therefore this property is being sold. I have some very handsome residence sites overlooking Eugene and surrounding country, containing one to ten acres. It is fine fruit and garden land as trees already growing prove.
