FROM MEXICO.

Mining and Other Interests of That Country Described.—The Wages Paid.

GUANAJUATO, Feb. 24.

DEAR GUARD.—We arrived in this city this morning after a ride of twenty miles over a branch line and a three mile drive up the steep mountain side on street cars propelled by a half dozen burros.

It is a mining town of 50,000 people and is rich in silver mines, producing about $5,500,000 annually. We visited one of the largest mines, which has been operated for over 350 years, and is worked by the same primitive methods as at that time. The quartz is crushed by a number of large round rocks probably five feet in diameter, 18 inches in thickness and drawn round a circle by mules on a bed of rock, then the pulverized quartz is transferred to another mill and ground by a similar method with water added to a flour like substance. Then it is transferred to large beds and water is turned on and a large number of mules are used to trample the same to settle the silver on the bottom. This mine employs a large number of men and mules. It is said to pay fabulous dividends to the Mexican owners. If it was worked by modern methods it would pay wonderful returns. Americans and Englishmen have tried for years to gain possession of this most valuable property, but have always failed. The pens in this mine are paid 40 cents per day, Mexican money.

Begging is unknown in this city and it is very progressive, many rich people being located here.

A theatre has just been completed in this city at a cost of $500,000. It is most magnificent. It is said to excel any theatre in furnishings in America. It has a new method of operating its electric lights recently invented by Edison. Nearly all the cities in the country have electric light plants operated by Americans. And right here we will say that in Mexico all franchises are granted for a term of not over fifty years and at the end of that time they become the property of the government. An improvement on the American method.

In this city the rich have grand residences and flower gardens that bloom the year around. Also large plazas that are most beautiful. All cities in this country have large plazas maintained at the expense of the people, and they are frequented by thousands of the inhabitants.

Of course the usual cathedral was visited and it was an immense affair and richly furnished.

The city puts a person much in mind of the description of an Egyptian city, set up in the mountains of Switzerland.

Lagos was also visited. It is a manufacturing city of 30,000 and is situated in a fertile region. The valley is a splendid agricultural one, and the principal product of it is chili, or red pepper, which is shipped all over the Republic; and the wheat, corn, beans and chick-peas raised here are also noted for their superior qualities.

The Bajio valley comes next, the first town being Francisco. The Bajio, which is probably the most extensive valley in the republic, is peculiar to see ox teams doing all the plowing in this country, and the old primitive wooden plow is used everywhere. But the land is fertile in most sections and large crops are raised.

The other towns of this valley are Silao, Leon, Irapuato, Salamanca, 15,000 inhabitants, Celaya, 30,000, Valley de Santiago, 10,000, Pablos del Rincon, besides hundreds of haciendas, each with about as many inhabitants as a town, are situated in this region. Leon is the chief city, having 80,000 inhabitants, and is a great manufacturing center.

Cotton and woolen goods, leather and saddlery are produced here in large quantities and shipped all over the republic. This city is said to afford admirable opportunities for American artisans with small capital to establish a paying business. By taking advantage of the very cheap labor here one could improve on the native articles of manufacture and secure a lucrative trade. The agricultural laborers in this country secure from 25 to 31 cents per day; carpenters about 50 cents per day; masons the same, and other artisans, more or less, in the same proportion. Laborers live on from three to ten cents per day.

Silao is a great opal town.

Cannot Vote, but May look Well.

It has been said, woman shall not vote, but where is the monster who will say that she shall not look her best.

Every woman who adopts her hair-dressing to the character of her features, and the contour of her head, is capable of looking pretty, or nearly so. Try it and you will soon be convinced. Try it and your personal appearance actually depends almost entirely upon the method of arranging the hair; but in order to make a success, you will have to possess a reasonable amount of that crowning beauty, a nice suit of hair, and if nature has failed to do her duty by you, Miss Rankin can supply what you need at reasonable prices.
