Officers Bring the Latest New From the North.

Astoria, Or., Aug. 16 .- The O. R. & N. Co.'s steamer George W. Elder arrived tonight from Dyea, after a very pleasant trip down. She brought "ac commodation" mail, and one passenger. The officers of the steamer gave the latest news from the north. The passage up was delightful. The ocean all the way was as smooth as a mill pond, and very few of the passengers were sick. The livestock fared extremely well. Not one animal was injured in the slightest, and all were landed in safety.

When the Elder arrived at Skaguay bay men immediately came aboard and offered fabulous prices for horses. Animals such as are being canned at Linnton are selling for from $600 to $700. but none could be purchased from the Elder's passengers. One of the passengers had a large bull, for which he was others offered $600. The offer was refused. There is plenty of grass to feed the mand

The weather at Dyea is all that could be desired, and but little difficulty will be experienced in making the trip.

The most important item of news brought by the Elder is to the effect that White pass is being placed in a passable condition. One hundred miners, who were delayed by the condition of the road, banded and agreed to corduroy the road. Timber is plentiful in the vicinity, and the work should shortly be completed. When this is done horses can easily be taken over the trail

Two drownings and a mining-camp incident resultant occurrred at Dyea. On August 8, Dwight Fowler, of Seattle, lost his life. He was carrying a load on his back and parcels in each hand over a log, when he slipped and fell into the Skaguay river. Fowler is said to be the son of well-known Seat-

He applied for passage on the Elder to Juneau, out as she was not bound for that port, he was compelled to leave town until he could secure transportation.

The purpose is to have the men arrested in order to test the legality of the injunction.

WEYLER LOST FULLY 200 MEN Insurgent Loss Was Light-Several Attempts Were Made to Capture the Captain-General. New York, Aug. 16 .- A special to the Herald from Havana via Key West says: Further details have been received of the battle near Aguacate, which is near the Matanzas line. The fighting, it was first reported, was in Matanzas province, but it was just on this side. There is no doubt of the result of the battle, however, and a conservative estimate places the number of Spanish killed at 200, while the rebel oss was comparatively trifling.

Preparations for General Weyler's arrival at the palace were made on Monday, but he has only just returned from the field. He left Matanzas on Sunday and reached Aguacate the next day. It was there that a rumor came that he was wounded in the big fight near there, but the statement has proved to be false.

The excitement in Havana is intense. The uncertainty regarding the new ministry in Spain is partly to blame, and on top of this there comes news of a big insurgent victory between Agua cate and Madruga, and also of a pitched battle in the vicinity of Sagua la Grande.

The advance guard of General Gomez has crossed into Matanzas. Whether tively for any length of time at the end ne is close cannot be ascertained, but it of so long a voyage, unless she were is reported that he declined the fight able to refill her bunkers at some point at Sagua la Grande.

The largest battle that has taken place in several months was the one fought at Aguacate. It is known that the battle was the result of an attempt to capture General Weyler and kill The captain-general had made him. oreparations to return on horseback com Matanzas to Havana. Along the road he had posted three columns of Spanish soldiers. General Castillo learned of his plans and gathered a force of fully 1,500 rebels. This force he hurled against the Spanish lines near Aguacate where General Wevler was supposed to be. General Castillo commanded the insurgents in person. and the Spanish were under General Milta. The insurgents dispersed, but later accounts are that both Colonel Aldea and General Molino were wounded.

The battle began about 4 o'clock in the afternoon and continued till night. The Spanish were ranked along the open road and the rebels approached them from the rear, coming from the hills. A body of cavalry was stationed about a quarter of a mile down the road to cut off Weyler if he should be there and attempt to seek safety.

The details of the actual fighting are meager, but many reliable persons who passed near the place, which is beside the railroad station, say that from the carriage windows they could see many lead soldiers along the road. The ebels used rapid-firing guns. When arkness came the Spaniards retired, to return the next morning with heavy reinforcements, but the insuregnts only opened fire for about half an hour and en disappeared.

FIRST BLOOD SHED. A Riot Almost Precipitated Among th

Strikers. Pittsburg, Aug. 16 -------Report of the Battle Near the court have put a stop to marches by the strikers against the New York & Cleveland Gas Coal Company, for a time at least. But in the execution of the injunction the sheriff and his deputies narrowly escaped precipitating serious trouble. As it was, the first blood of the strike was shed. Henry Stewart, one of the sheriff's deputies, struck Jacob Mott, a drummer of the McDonald band, with the edge of a brass horn, and cut a severe gash above his eve. The sight of the blood wrought up the 1,000 idle miners to such a pitch that a desperate conflict was imminent

The deputies also were excited and noisy. The strikers were jeering and yelling and urging a further rush. There were enough of the miners to annihilate the deputies. Captain Bellingham, Sheriff Lowrey, Chief Deputy James Richards and Superintendent DeArmitt were the only cool men in the assemblage. To them and to Captain Bellingham belongs the credit of avoiding a riot.

When Bellingham saw there was danger of his men getting beyond his control, he commanded a halt and addresed himself to the task of restraining the more belligerent. So well were his efforts directed that he soon had restored comparative order.

Sheriff Lowrey had a difficult task to perform, but he handled it well, and by his coolness and good nature, did much to neutralize the bitterness and strife invited by his subordinates. The strikers finally retired and marched back to their camp. There were several other brushes with the deputies. but no actual collisions.

After the miners returned to camp. the officers held a conference with their attorney, and he advised them to ouit marching until the court had heard the argument over a bill in equity brought by the New York & Cleveland Gas Coal Company, as it might injure their case if they were brought up for contempt before the courf.

President Dolan then issued orders that no more marches should be made to any of the New York & Cleveland Company's mines until further orders. though matches may be made at other places.

There were no signs of trouble tonight. The strikers remained within their camp, and while the deputies were on guard they had little to do. In order to more thoroughly fortify his position, Sheriff Lowrey swore in 20 additional deputies tonight, and disnatched them to Plum creek.

After the fight at Aguacate, General Weyler fell back upon Guanabacoa, just across the bay from Havana. The rebel chiefs, Colonel Arnaguara and General Rodriguez, were in the district and Weyler expected a raid.

Weyler arrived at Guanabacoa with 4,000 men. Five miles from Guanabacoa he was attacked by a rebel force under General Rodriguez. Rodriguez's plan was to force General Weyler to give battle and pursue him into the hills, where the captain-general stood a good chance of being either killed or captured. The rebels fired several volleys from the hills along the roadside, killing 17 and wounding a large number of the Spanish, but Weyler refused to give fight and kept on his march to Guanabacoa, driving 300 head of cattle that he had collected along the line, noise of which awakened and frightened
