A MIDNIGHT FIRE.

E. J. Frasier's East Ninth Street Home Ruined By The Flames.

Work an of Incendiary.

Daily Guard January 24.

The sharp vibration of the fire bell last night brought the department out in short order and hurrying toward East Ninth street, where the atmosphere had a lurid hue, the conflagration was soon to be located in the residence which has been occupied by Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Frasier.

The fire had gained such headway by the time the fire boys got it under control that practically nothing could be saved, only a few chairs, stove, center table and writing table being saved from the grasping flames. Mr. and Mrs. Frasier are now visiting at Woodland, California, and the house has been unoccupied for over a month. That the fire was incendiary there is no question, though why it should be so is a mystery.

Judge J. J. Walton was the first person to reach the building and it could easily be seen the entire interior of the building was a blaze, though not breaking through. Hastily knocking the door in the flames poured out severely scorching the judge's face, singeing his whiskers and hair and time alone can add to his hisute adornment. The Cyclone hose company soon had two streams on the building and in a short time controlled the flames, but were too late to be of material benefit except to protect the buildings on either side. Mr. and Mrs. Frasier lose by this fire an elegant lot of furniture, valuable bric a brac and paintings and silver ware. Fortunately their piano is at the University and is thus saved.

The residence belongs to W. H. Abrams, although it is understood Mr. Frasier had an option on the same and was negotiating for its purchase. Considerable mystery attaches to the fire, its origin and the object of an incendiary in creating such wholesale loss of property. Citizens are very much exercised over the matter and if the offender becomes known, no mercy will be shown. It is not known to what extent insurance has been taken on either building or household furniture.

It has been learned from J. M. Abrams, cashier of the Lane County bank, that Mr. Frasier said to him before leaving that he intended placing insurance on his household goods, and also a few hundred on the house. If he did this his loss will be greatly lessened.

Of Extraordinary Interest.

Salem Statesman: Prof. Frederick S. Dann, of this city, is just in receipt of a small volume, a monograph upon the recent literary treasure unearthed abroad. It is entitled "The Saying of Christ" and is of extraordinary interest in a literary and religious way.

Readers of the Statesman will probably remember that during recent excavations on the historic site of Oxyrhynchus in Egypt, two young classical students from Oxford university were so fortunate as to unearth, among other matters of great archaeological value, the single leaf of an ancient Greek manuscript, containing what proved to be fragments from a presumed collection of the sayings of Christ. Such collections are known to have existed in the first few centuries of the Christian era and this leaf is evidently the precious relic of one. Among the dicta included in this fragment are several hitherto unknown sayings, of which the following may be excepted as a fair example:

"Jesus saith, wherever there are * * * and there is one * * * alone, I am with him. Raise the stone and there thou shalt find me, cleave the wood and there am I."

This one leaf, so fraught with historical, literary and religious interest, antedating any extant MSS. of the four gospels, has centered the attention of all the world.

To BE MARRIED.—By letters received in Eugene it is learned that Kasper K. Kubli of Jacksonville, an alumnus of the U. of O., will be united in marriage to Miss Mollie Miller, of that city, on Tuesday, Jan. 25. They will leave the same day for San Francisco to spend a fortnight and returning, will reside in Jacksonville. The bride is one of the most handsome and popular belles of Southern Oregon, Kap's many Eugene friends will join the GUARD in extending heartfelt congratulations.

To SKAGWAY.—P. B. Beatty, formerly of the firm of Chessman & Beatty, Springfield, and Frank Heyer of this city, were passengers on today's 10:50 local for Portland, enroute to Skagway. Mr. Beatty is an old experienced miner and is the owner of several good silver mines in Colorado. Mr. Heyer will probably engage in business at Skagway.

EXTRA SESSION TALK.

Is There to be One?—Must be Soon or Never—Some People Speculate.

Corvallis Times: "What does it mean—a levy of 3 mills for state taxes under which another great sum is to be drawn into the state treasury? Nearly $900,000 is already in the treasury—$556,000 in the general fund and the balance in other funds, and there is now to be added $472,000 to the amount. The $472,000 was levied the other day for payment of the current state expenses, and the $556,000, more than a million dollars in all, collected for the same purpose cannot unless there is a special session of the legislature be paid out until after the passage of an appropriation bill by the next regular legislative session which cannot happen before the latter part of next February. That is to say, the $472,000 to be collected under the new state levy must lay in the treasury, withdrawn from circulation, and useless to the people for a period of nearly a year, while meantime 8 per cent interest is being paid out on state warrants. Why was this levy made, and what does it mean, are the questions that some pause and think about.

"Some think that it is the intention to call an extra session of the legislature. They say the state board would never have insisted on making more than a nominal state levy had it not been understood that an attempt to get the legislature together and secure the passage of an appropriation bill was to be made, because otherwise the collection of state taxes that could not be paid out would be folly. Therefore they argue, it must be the plan for a special session to be called.

"In this connection a curious fact appears. Any session that is to be called, must happen before the 6th of June. The election happens on the 5th of June, and the state constitution provides that members-elect enter upon the discharge of their duties the day following. This point has already been the subject of a decision by the attorney-general. In the Bennett-Buckman contest case from Coos county the attorney-general rendered an opinion in which he held that at the expiration of the two-year term provided by the constitution there exists a vacancy, whether a successor has been elected or not, all of which means that the members of the legislature that never organized cease to be salons on the 6th day of next June. Accordingly whatever extra session is to be called will have to be brought to Salem before that date. All this, with an election campaign on, coupled with the certainty almost that none of the factions in the late fiasco could recede from their positions, makes it unlikely that another session will be called."

Young Men's Republican Club.

A meeting of this club was held at the court house Saturday evening pursuant to the call of the president.

A Calendar of Good Intentions.

Olive Herold in Life.

Said Father Tempus, I have a plan. I'm going to swear off on the first of JAN.

But his resolution began to ebb, He was two days shy by the end of FEB.

Then he lost his temper and went so far As to brawl and bluster all through MAR.

He puffed and blew till he spoiled his shape, So he took the water cure in AP.

He took a shower bath every day, And was most disagreeable all through MAY.

Then summer came, and he changed his tune— Any fool can be good in JUNE.

But the strain was so great that by and by He was taken with fever in JULY.

He only just escaped the morgue His temperature was so high in AUG.

Never were resolutions kept So well as in convalescent SEPT.

When he recovered the world was shocked, For he painted the country red in OCT.

Then he howled and raged like a fiend in love, He was full as could be of remorse in NOV.

It's plain, said he, this thing must cease, I'll swear off again—at the end of DEC.

The Oregon City Locks.

Hon. F. M. Wilkins, of this city, president of the board of trade, is in receipt of a letter from Representative Tongue, relative to the locks at Oregon City.

Mr. Tongue has introduced a bill in congress to have the management of the locks transferred from the government to the state, and hopes by its passage to have 50 cents per ton toll removed, thus making an open river, and a material aid to upper river traffic. In his letter he urges all valley boards of trade and city councils to take action in the matter, so that his work for its furtherance will be materially augmented.
