

ARCHITECTURAL SPLENDOR.

At the Trans-Mississippi and International Exposition at Omaha From June to November of This Year
Will Be Seen Many Artistic Decorations, Beautiful Landscapes and Famous Bits of Statuary and Paintings.

MINES AND MINING BUILDING.

The Greek Ionic style of architecture characterizes the mines building. The order is of heroic proportions, carried out with great artistic care in every detail. The principal feature of the lacon facade is a circular dome 150 feet in circumference, rising to a height of 75 feet. This is supported on a circular row of fluted Ionic columns, and the space enclosed by them and under the dome is open, forming a grand, open, domed vestibule for an approach to the building. The inner dome is richly designed with ribs and panels and is to be decorated in colors, while the outer is formed by a series of steps rising in the form of a cone to apex, which is crowned by a richly decorated base for a flagstaff. The outer row of dome columns is detached and the entablature is broken around them at the base of the dome, and over each column is a statue and pedestal having as a background the stylized dome of the dome. This treatment is very monumental in effect, and while in good taste and harmonious with the architectural style it is at the same time original and interesting. Over the doorway leading from this vestibule into the building are three large panels between the pilasters to receive paintings which will be emblematical of the character of the exhibits. Flanking the entire dome are beautiful Ionic colonnades which form covered ways along the entire facade, stopping at the corner towers. Over these colonnades are balconies capable of holding large numbers of people and opening from the interior galleries of the building, affording a fine point from which to obtain an elevated view of the lacon and the beauties of the grand court. The four corners of the building are marked by square plain towers surmounted by ornate, open columned pavilions, circular in form and to serve for electric lighting. The building was designed by S. S. Beman of Chicago.

A VERITABLE DREAM CITY.

Nothing beneath the sky is unworthy of the artist's attention.

The exterior decoration of the buildings at the Trans-Mississippi and International Exposition, to be held in Omaha, promises to be both unique and attractive. While the individual buildings will show in their decorations some approach to modern ideas, the statues adorning the grounds will be exact copies of the famous figures of antique art. The stately figure of the Venus de Medici, an Apollo or a Faun, will lighten the grounds with their classic beauty and their delightful mode of reproducing the antique will prove not only the most beautiful that can be conceived, but, as well, the most instructive. With the natural advantages in landscape gardening that are possessed by the grounds, the lake, the sloping bluff tract, with the river so many feet beneath—the emerald turf and the superabundance of nature's fairest flowers—all these, together with the imposing bits of statuary that will dot the grounds, should make it a veritable garden of the gods.

The primary theory that will be demonstrated in the decoration of each building is that the statuary, the relief and decorative work generally will be symbolic of the exhibits contained therein. Nothing beneath the sky is unworthy of the artist's attention. Beauty is everywhere, in everything, if our genius but lead us to seek for it.

Perhaps the most unusual of all the designs in decorating to be seen is that which adorns the electricity building. The general architectural plan of this structure is one of classic simplicity, though the decoration shows a happy blending of modern ideas. All the crests, scroll work, ornaments and panels are suggestive of machinery and the science of electricity. Clever designs in cog wheels are seen about the cornice and an heroic figure piece of "Man Controlling the Forces of Nature" is placed above the spacious entrance. The first group shows "the struggle," and an immense American lion is seen fiercely wrestling with two female figures of colossal size. The second group shows "the victory," the upright figure of man, triumphant, one foot resting on the prone figure of the defeated enemy, while the third and largest group—which will occupy the central position immediately over the entrance—typified "The Supremacy of Man"—for here in an immense chariot is the triumphant victor, driving with reins drawn taut, his now docile and obedient steeds—five great lions. The figures are all full of strength and life and promise to form a fitting adornment for a beautiful building.

The decorations which will enhance the agricultural building are not less attractive. This great building is, in its immensity a fit garner house for this, the granary of the world. It is finished in ivory, but garlands of flowers and festoons of cereals are thrown into bold relief by being finished in their natural hues. Medallion ornaments of banyard fowls are placed at intervals, while large medallions of our nation's representative bird—the eagle—will also appear in connection with the ornamentation. On either side of the great main entrance are figures taken from Millet's famous paintings, the "Digger" and the "Sower." Immedi-

IN THE DEPTHS OF HADES.

The Prototype of Regions Infernal to Be Shown on the Midway.

When the conversation turns upon the Trans-Mississippi Exposition, some one is sure to ask, "And will there be a Midway?" and then reminiscences will be the order of the hour, and again you will see the red fez of the Turks, the bewitching smile of the Parisian coquette, the haughty glance from the dark-eyed hour of the Orient, the seductive dances of the Spanish señoritas, the slow revolving of the massive Ferris wheel, the tittle nooks from the other corners of the earth, the swaying, sleepy camps with their loads of laughing, living freight, the queer meals with egg-shell china and chop-sticks served by a shy, dainty bit of Occidental beauty; again you can hear the musical songs of unknown tongues—the monotonous chant of ceremonies in strange religions, the lusty call of the "Orangeade" boy, the enticing shouts of the fakirs, the growling of savage beasts whose tricks are almost human, the hum of thousands of throats—and all the rest that went to make up that ever-changing kaleidoscope of strange visions, strange people and strange sights. We had never thought to see it like again, but, after all, there was nothing that could not be duplicated, and, if one may judge from the extensive preparations that are under way, we shall see in Omaha, not only a reproduction of the most interesting features of the Midway, but many novel ones—and breathe it gently—minus the hump and fake features which were at one time the characteristic of the Midway Plaisance.

If one has any curiosity as to their ultimate destination after this life, they have but to enter a novel building which represents one of the Egyptian pyramids and is called "Night and Morning." This building is 140 feet square and 100 feet high, and in this space there is warranted to be crowded sufficient celestial joys and awful tortures to make a trip through it one to never forget. On entering, one is immediately lost in a labyrinth which represents the journey of life from the cradle to the grave, and whether one walks quietly along through pleasant paths with delightful views, or becomes lost in dark byways in the midst of terrible scenes, depends entirely upon chance. When at last he has reached the end of the labyrinth he is confronted by a winding flight of golden stairs, which will lead him straight to the Elysian fields, and on his left he will see an elevator which plunges him down to the lower regions. It will be a safe guess to reason that the visitor will take the elevator first, and after descending 200 feet he will find himself in an exact duplicate of Dante's Inferno, with all of Dore's horrible pictures realistically reproduced. In the cafe he will find coffins transformed into tables, widows and orphans in gloomy weeds who are enacting the parts of waitresses, the menus printed in white on black cards, and all the symbolic gloominess that goes to make up the infernal regions. If, on the other hand, the visitor prefers a "Heavenly" meal, he has but to ascend the golden stairs, to be ushered into a beautiful room, hung with satin draperies of white rose color, to find the tables of golden harps, the waitresses white-robed angels with wings and everything lovely.

The numerous colonnades which connect the buildings is a feature both original and artistic. They will form one almost continuous shaded walk, where one may make the entire round of the principal buildings and yet be sheltered from the rays of the sun.

The color scheme, too, is an unusual feature which should not be overlooked when discussing the exterior decoration. While the general tone of the buildings will be that of old ivory, it is the intention to finish one-third the height of the colonnades—as well as about the cornices, doorways and windows—in full Pompeian colors. There will be other novelties in infinite variety and, altogether, they promise to make the Trans-Mississippi Exposition one of the most beautiful and attractive that has ever been held anywhere. ## EXPOSITION NOTES.

A startling amusement which might be termed "unique" is called "Rolling the Roll," and is supposed to succeed the well known "Shooting the Chutes." A sloping railway, some immense barrels provided with seats, and a willing populace seem to be the only necessary adjuncts. Those who are sufficiently curious may enter the barrel, and strapped to the seat, are allowed to roll merrily down the hill. This unusual form of amusement is said to be exhilarating and not at all unpleasant.

The scenic canal will be a stretch of water 800 feet in length and 8 feet wide, bordered with panoramic pictures with real foregrounds. The scenery will represent in a realistic manner many of the famous spots in the west, including California's rarest views, and nooks from Yellowstone Park and Yosemite valley.

The German village will contain the typical German booths and shops, with the best types of German architecture exemplified in the buildings.

A distinct novelty will be the Wine Cascade, a perfect reproduction in miniature of Niagara Falls. The base work, including the rocks, Goat Island and the Three Sisters, will be done in glass, over and about which will sweep an unceasing flow of California wine. The precious liquid will be conserved in the gorge below, and automatically and secretly it will be returned to the fountain head to do duty again. Another reproduction of nature will be that of Old Faithful, the big geyser in Yellowstone Park. The cost is estimated at $50,000.

As you cross the viaduct which connects the Main and Bluff tracts, the first of the villages to catch your eye will be the Moorish. With its picturesque group of domes, minarets, pinnacles, and vari-colored streamers, its appearance is most inviting, while the interior will be as thoroughly complete and pleasing.

A vaudeville theater will occupy a place in the Street of Foreign Villages, and the standard attractions in this line will be presented here.

SPAIN WILL SUFFER.

England's Proposal to Declare Coal Contraband Suits Uncle Sam.

New York, April 20.—In directing her colonies to regard coal as contraband of war in the event of hostilities between the United States and Spain, Great Britain has taken action, American officials say, in line with the wishes of the president and naval authorities, says the Washington correspondent of the Herald. Pressure will be exerted upon France, Haiti and San Domingo to accomplish the same result, and some attention is being given by the state department to South American countries, with a view of securing a contraband character of coal, as well as an announced determination on their part not to sell either to Spanish or American men-of-war a supply of fuel greater than necessary to enable the belligerent vessels to steam to the next home port.

So far as the Danish West Indies are concerned, the authorities have purchased, in their reports, all the coal that is possible to secure. With coal a declared contraband of war, administration officials and naval experts say it will be impossible for Spanish vessels to operate in the West Indies or in the Pacific, and as a result the chances of success for American arms would be immeasurably enhanced.

Great Britain's declaration of the contraband character of coal will affect the United States at only one point in the far East. The United States now has at Hong Kong six vessels, the cruisers Baltimore, Olympia, Raleigh, and Boston and gunboats Concord and Petrel—and these ships are awaiting the word to rush to Manila.

If the fortifications of the Philippines should stand off the American fleet for any time, the operations of the vessels would be greatly embarrassed, for by England's declaration, her colonies will be only allowed to sell to either belligerent a supply only sufficient to take him to his home port. Appreciating the position assumed by the British government, Commander Dewey, acting under instructions from Secretary Long, has purchased a large quantity of coal and has stored it on board two colliers, which will accompany his fleet to the Philippines. Extended operations would necessitate a renewal of the supply, and the central position of Hawaii is pointed to by naval experts who want it for a naval base. Hawaii is 4,000 miles from the Philippines. Her position in the family of nations would compel her to observe strict neutrality, and not favor one belligerent more than another, but her annexation, it is pointed out, would result in placing supplies for the Asiatic squadron 2,000 miles nearer to the vessels than would be the case if coal, munitions of war, etc., had to be shipped from the United States. It is also pointed out that Hawaii will find it necessary to sell coal to a Spanish vessel in at Honolulu sufficient to take it a portion of the way to its next home port, just as she would sell to any American ship.

In the event that coal is declared contraband by France, San Domingo and Haiti, authorities say it would be impossible for Spanish vessels to secure coal in the West Indies.

JOAQUIN CRESPO KILLED.

Venezuelan President Slain While Fighting to Maintain His Government.

New York, April 20.—A special telegram from Caracas, Venezuela, to the Evening World, says that President Crespo, of Venezuela, was killed in a battle with Hernandez, the leader of the rebel forces, last Friday. (Joaquin Crespo first came into prominence in 1856, when he acted as a substitute for General Guzman Blanco. He showed bravery and was faithful. In 1858 he served part of a term as president. He got up a revolution shortly afterward, and had to flee. In 1893 he got up another revolution, captured the capital, Caracas, and declared himself dictator. At a subsequent election he was elected for four years, beginning February, 1894.)

Stock in Danger of Starving.

San Francisco, April 20.—A Chronicle special from Fresno says: Unless something at present unforeseen happens, fully 100,000 head of sheep and cattle will die of starvation in this county in the next few months on account of lack of grazing grounds. It is said representation has been made to Senator White, asking that the Sierra reservations be thrown open to sheep and cattle this year, with no restrictions as to national parks.

Spanish Fleet at Porto Rico.

Provincetown, Mass., April 20.—Captain Kebb, of the barkentine Morates, which reached this port today from Ponce, Porto Rico, reports that on April 6 eight Spanish torpedo-boats arrived at that port from the Canaries. Two Spanish men-of-war were there already. A Spanish cruiser was sighted as the vessel sailed.

No More Foreign Warships.

Washington, April 20.—It was stated at the navy department that efforts to secure the Chilean battle-ship O'Higgins have been practically abandoned, and that there is no longer any prospect that the United States desires or will be able to secure any more warships either belonging to foreign nations or having been built in foreign shipyards.

Invitation May Be Accepted.

Paris, April 20.—Le Journal publishes an interview which its Madrid correspondent has had with Senor Moret, in the course of which he said: "Spain has made all the concessions compatible with her honor, and if McKinley wants Cuba let him come and take it."

Barcelona University Closed.

Barcelona, April 19.—The university here has closed, in consequence of the demonstrations made by the students.

London, April 20.—According to a special dispatch from Madrid, Senor Moret, secretary for the colonies, has approved a contract to lay a cable between Cadiz and Havana, by way of Tenerife and Cebalpa, nine miles east of Porto Rico.

St. Louis, April 20.—The Eighteenth infantry at Jefferson barracks, and the Third cavalry, regularly on post there, received positive orders today to move immediately to Mobile and Chickamauga, respectively. The work of embarking the troops was carried on until a late hour tonight.

Cigars of Paper.

A German chemist announces that he has discovered a method of making cigars, without the use of tobacco. He proposes that people shall smoke paper instead of nicotine, but it is a paper which has been previously soaked in a preparation, of which he is the inventor, which will give the smoker precisely the same sensation as though he were smoking "real" tobacco. He declares that his formula will give forth an aroma equal to that which perfumes the air when a fine cigar is smoked.

FABULOUS WEALTH.

The "incalculable mineral wealth" of newly found mining regions lately run by syndicates and promoted by transportation companies in the West may actually be a fable. The product of the industry in the fields of copper, silver, lead, zinc, iron, and tin, is not so abundant as is generally supposed. ## Insuring German Workmen.

Under the laws which compel both German employers and employees to contribute to sick funds, accident funds and funds for the aged and incapacitated, about $300,000,000 have been paid during the last decade to 25,000,000 employees. The sums paid in during that period amounted to $460,000,000, of which the masters contributed $240,000,000 and the men $220,000,000. Many large firms have also private pensions and other funds to which they contribute liberally, and profit-sharing prevails to some extent.
