HOWARD BAUGHMAN.

Union Nominee for County Commissioner... A Fit Man for the Place.

46 YEARS IN LANE COUNTY.

The gentleman whose name heads this article is the nominee of the Union party for County Commissioner of Lane county.

Mr Baughman came to Lane county with his parents in the emigration of 1852 at the age of 5 years.

The other 46 years of his life have been spent on the farm in Pleasant Hill precinct, with the exception of one year when he was engaged in the livery stable business at Junction City.

Mr Baughman was a staunch Republican until that party finally went over body and soul to the gold standard idea.

FROM TWO PLATFORMS.

No comment needed on this extract from the national Republican platform of 1896:

"We are therefore opposed to the free coinage of silver, except by international agreement."

Extract from platform adopted at Astoria, April 14, 1898, by Republican state convention:

"We are in favor of the maintenance of the present GOLD STANDARD; we are unqualifiedly opposed to the Free Coinage of silver."

"We condemn the continued agitation of free silver."

A DEAR MONEY.

The republican financial system favors resting our entire coinage and money issue on gold which is only one-fourth of the money in circulation.

It does not need a wise man to tell us that a scarcity of anything for which there is great demand causes an appreciation of its value.

SOME FINANCIAL STATISTICS.

The indebtedness of the United States November 1, 1897, was $1,808,777,643.

This vast sum, with the interest thereon, is payable in gold coin the entire amount of which in the United States is given by the best authorities at about $680,000,000.

The public indebtedness of the world, all of which is payable in gold coin, is $27,386,055,389.

Any article the supply of which does not equal the demand will surely appreciate in value. This has been the case with gold which, deprived of its help-mate silver, has had the immense burden of the world's finances placed on its inadequate supply.

SHARP TACTICS.

Mr T T Geer the candidate for governor spoke at Toledo in Lincoln county on May 2. We understand they advertised that there was to be a joint discussion between Mr Geer and Mr King, the opposing nominee.

Mr King had challenged Mr Geer for joint discussion which Mr Geer refused. Mr Geer in a private letter to one of his republican friends stated that he would not object to dividing time with Mr King at any of his appointed places for speaking, but no notice was ever extended to either the Union campaign committee or Mr King to this effect either by letter or otherwise.

PRIZE MONEY.

The capture of Spanish merchantman brings up the question as to the division of prize money. When the prize is of equal or superior force to the vessel making the capture, the net proceeds go to the captors.

It is an old saying that prize money is distributed by sifting it through a ladder. The money that is caught on the rungs and sides of the ladder falls to the seamen; that which passes through to the officers.

Sized Up Rightly.

Cottage Grove Messenger of today says: "If the editor of the Register were more than an amateur, we should expect something of him; but as it is, he knows just about as much of politics as he does of journalism."

Work on the court house has commenced again in earnest. The Yacquina course of stone is now being laid and brick is now arriving and work of laying same will commence soon.

A Sensible and Conservative Editorial

EUGENE, Or, May 5, 1898.

To THE EDITOR:—Please allow me space in your paper to comment briefly on the Eugene Journal's editorial reproduced in the GUARD of the 4th inst. In its estimate of J W Hamilton, democratic candidate for circuit judge the Journal speaks the truth with great plainness and singular fairness.

One thing particularly noticeable about the editorial is its conservative spirit. While in simple language it expresses golden opinions of Mr Hamilton as a lawyer, as an officer and as a citizen, it is free from fulsome flattery or a strained effort to bolster up a candidate.

The Journal presents the very truth in the best of taste. Mr Hamilton's opponent is not even referred to, therefore giving offense to no one and making no attempt to strengthen Mr Hamilton at the expense of another.

CAMP LIFE AT M'KENLEY.

Some Things Told That May Cause Firas of Jealousy in Bosoms of Fair Eugene Maidens.

Portland Telegram, May 5. "Every laddie has his lassie, coming through the rye."

And every soldier has his Mary Jane in Camp McKenley. In short, some of the boys in blue have started a monopoly. Not contented with the attentions of one pretty miss, while civilians are standing around, hungering for just one sweet look out of fair eyes, they monopolize the attention of several.

Every day the camp is crowded with people, containing a large sprinkling of women. The white tents are formed into long avenues. Brigade headquarters in the race track buildings swarm with officers in epaulets. Sentries pace restlessly to and fro, and anon the stirring notes of the bugle float lazily away on the wind.

Though the sun beats down with tropical fervor, there is a suggestion of coolness in the green fields near at hand, and the gleaming crest of Mount Hood. The gurgling canteens are constantly passed from one to the other to quench thirst.

The men while off duty amuse themselves in many ways. They lounge beneath the shade of their tents, discussing the approaching military campaign, in which they will become the actors, or play ball, wrestle, jump and run races.

The entire camp is now working with the precision of machinery. The companies are divided for guard duty into 24-hour stretches.

Regular battalion drills take place every day. Every evening the counter-march is given the guard, and no one without the word can pass back into the lines and escape arrest.

One of these will approach the unsuspecting guard and salute. The guard returns the salute. "Let me see if your gun is all right," says the sergeant.

The picketman hands over his gun. He regrets this fact a few minutes afterwards. The sergeant disappears with the gun. Finally the officer of the guard heaves in sight, seeing if things are all right.

"Where is your gun?" demands the officer. While being told about the occurrence the officer never smiles, but severely rebukes the recruit. He learns his first lesson—never to let go of his gun.

Sometimes it happens that the raw recruit has his gun taken away from him and is bound hand and foot. This soon causes him to be vigilant and challenge everyone who approaches, without letting one or more come too close.

WILL PROTECT PATRIOTS

Knights of Pythias to Keep up Insurance of Soldier Members

Helmet Lodge, No 33, of the Knights of Pythias, has put itself on record in a manner likely to be followed by other lodges of various societies in the city and state.

Whereas, By action of the Congress of these United States and the proclamation of the President, a state of war exists between this Government and the Kingdom of Spain; and a call for volunteers to enlist in the armies of our country has been made, and many of the members of this lodge, as loyal and patriotic, have felt duty bound to enlist and many more may enlist, leaving their families unprotected, therefore be it

Resolved, By Helmet Lodge, No 33 Knights of Pythias of Oregon that this lodge will aid and protect the families of such of its members as may answer such a call by maintaining their good standing in the lodge and, where necessary, making the monthly payments required of those holding certificates in the endowment rank and thus preventing forfeiture of such certificates. Fraternaly, in F C and B.

State Road Money.

Secretary of State Kincaid has apportioned and issued warrants payable to the treasurer of each county in Oregon, for the United States five per cent land sales fund, under an act of the legislative assembly approved February 1, 1893.

W. F. Gray.

The Union county convention held in Eugene, April 22, placed in nomination for the legislature W F Gray, of Cottage Grove precinct.

Mr Gray was born in Kentucky in 1839. Enlisted in the Union army from Sciota county, Ohio, July 28, 1862 and served to the close of the war, a period of 2 years and 10 months. He was wounded in the service. Came to Oregon from California in 1877, locating at Roseburg. In 1879 moved to the upper Sluslaw country, then to Cottage Grove precinct.

Mr Gray is an enthusiastic silver man and is in full sympathy with the principles of the Union platform.

RAILROAD WRECK

North Bound Overland and a Freight Collide at Saginaw.

TRAINS DELAYED SEVERAL HOURS

Today's north-bound overland, due at 4:15 this morning did not reach Eugene until 2 p m, and brings the news of a rather serious collision at Saginaw between the overland and a freight train. The overland was a heavy train and drawn by two engines, and the front engine by the time it had knocked four or five freight cars off the track and came to a stop was the worse for the wear, and the rear engine was also damaged some. The freight cars derailed were quite badly broken up. Fortunately no one was hurt, and the passengers were taken back to Cottage Grove to await the clearing of the wreck. The passengers and crew failed to give any reason for the collision.

EUGENE'S CHINESE BOYS.

Judge Bellinger Decides that they May Remain.

Daily Guard, May 7

Yesterday's Portland Telegram "Judge Bellinger this morning decided that Chu Chee and Chu How, the two Chinese boys recently arrested at Eugene and brought to this city for examination upon the charge of being illegally within the United States, have a right to remain. The arrest of the youthful suspects was made upon complaint of Inspector Johnson, who questioned their right to remain under the papers they had in their possession and asked for an order of court directing their deportation. The court this morning denied the application for an order of deportation, and directing the discharge of the boys. United States District Attorney John H Hall gave notice of an appeal, and was given time in which to prepare the same."

"In this case the boys live with their father, who is a laundryman, at Eugene, where they have been attending the public schools since their arrival, about two years ago. They were landed at Port Townsend by the collector of customs, May 11, 1896, upon a certificate from the American consul at Hong Kong. They claimed they want to China with their mother some years before to study their own language."

"Counsel for the government insisted that the certificate was insufficient in that it was not issued by the Chinese government and did not indicate the purpose for which the boys returned to the United States. In the absence of specifications it was claimed the law assumes that they take the same status as their father, and who is a laundryman or laborer, they must be considered laborers, and such had no right to land."

"The court held that while certificate of registration is the sole evidence permissible of a right to land, and in case of a laborer, the sole evidence of a right to remain in the country, yet in all other cases of deportation it is permissible for the person arrested to establish by affirmative proof his lawful right to remain in the country. The boys, having established to the satisfaction of the court that they are students, the court held that they had a right to remain."
