WHEN LIGHTS ARE LOW.

The rooms are hushed, the lights are low, I sit and listen to the wind. That comes from out the distant hill. It comes and flows in an unbroken stream of pleasure, but in a land unknown. Then steals away, and all is still. The good to listen to the wind. When rooms are hushed and lights are low.

When those we love have come and gone, The way to be left behind— To miss sweet eyes where late they shone, To look for what we may not find, Long cherished forms that haunt the mind, Soft voices that were once so kind; To hound miss them one by one In weary work. Who'd stay behind When those we love have come and gone? —New York Times

His Snap Shot of a Drink That Killed Two Men.

"The most remarkable snap shot picture in the world is owned by a friend of mine in a town in Georgia," said an enthusiastic amateur photographer. "Its story is extremely curious. It seems that he went one day to a blacksmith shop to get a shot at the men at the forge. The smith was engaged on a difficult piece of ironwork and had two helpers. Just behind them on a shelf was a pint flask full of yellowish white liquor, evidently the corn whisky for which the native Georgian has a peculiar liking.

"As my friend was preparing to take his picture one of the helpers caught sight of the bottle and communicated his discovery by a dumb show to his companion. The smith's back was turned at the moment, and the first man reached stealthily for the price, while my friend, unnoticed in the corner, quickly aimed his camera. It was a comical scene, and in his mind he had already named the photo 'The Stolen Drink.'

"The helper uncorked the flask and took a swift gulp, and his comrade snatched it and did likewise. Then for a brief, breathless instant they looked at each other, and as they did so their foolish grin gave way to such a stare of questioning horror as I never saw before upon a human face. I know because it was then that the camera clicked, and the picture is as clear as crystal. The flask contained carbolic acid. Within an hour both men were dead.

"When my friend took one print, he broke the negative so as to make the photograph absolutely unique. It shows the forward end of the shop. In the foreground is the anvil, with the smith bending over his work. Behind him are the two helpers, one still holding the flask, looking at each other. You can see tragedy in their eyes as plain as print. It is a frightful and dramatic tableau that could not be duplicated by any sort of art."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Chant of the Cyclone.

Ever see a cyclone, say? Bite the world and munch away? Eat up houses, fences, trees, just as easy as you please? Get a hustle on its jaws? Swipe the earth with fiendish claws? Hump its back and take a run through the orchard just for fun? From a hill to hollow fit, seeming to get strength from it? Never seen one? Well, I jing! It's a pesky sort of thing.

Ever see a cyclone, say? Take its track and speed away? Switch its tail and snort and bound, just like lightning o'er the ground? Get a swift move with its feet, racing for the winning heat? Then caving up and down, heeding no laws of the town? Pushing everything aside? Out upon a gay ride? As though owning all the track, ever onward, never back? Never seen one? Well, I swear! It's a buster, anyhow!—Kingsley (La.) Times.

Yachting on Salt.

Save during the rainy season Lake Lefroy, in western Australia, is quite dry. But as the water evaporates as the hot weather approaches a smooth, glassy floor of crystalline salt is deposited. Those living on the shores have found a means of utilizing this. All boats which sail on the lake when possible are, during the rainy season, fitted with four wheels, and thus are enabled to continue their travels. As Lake Lefroy has an area of 100 miles, and the surrounding country is extremely rough, this means a great saving in expense, labor and time. The speed attained by these wheeled yachts is very considerable, though not quite equal to the pace of the ice yachts so popular in Canada.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Senatorial Slender.

Two ladies visiting in Washington during one of the sessions of congress went to the capitol to hear the proceedings in the United States senate. Most of the galleries being filled, they approached the doorkeeper of the senators' gallery, where admission is by card. As they did not possess this passport, the doorkeeper suggested that they procure one from any senator they might be acquainted with.

A Snow Hurricane.

The buran, or snow hurricane of the Pamirs is a meteorological phenomenon of great interest. Even in mid-summer the temperature during a snow buran frequently falls to 14 degrees F., while in the winter of 1882-3 it dropped to 45 degrees below zero at the end of January. The buran comes with startling suddenness, the atmosphere growing dark with whirling snowflakes where scarcely a minute before the sky was perfectly clear.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

At the Bottom.

"What happens when a man's temperature goes down as far as it can go?"

Smart Scholar—He has cold feet, ma'am.—Sydney Town and Country Journal.

A PAIR OF BIG FEET.

They Brought War to France and Changed the Map of Europe.

The Princess Bismarck changed the political history of France unwittingly, and but for her the Franco-Prussian war might never have been waged. Bismarck was friendly to France, but the Empress Eugenie hoped with her beauty to influence him so that the little trouble with France and Germany might be smoothed over. She therefore invited the German prince and his wife to visit the court of France, and the Prince and Princess Bismarck arrived in great state at the Tuilleries.

That evening there was a grand reception, and Eugenie received the guests in a gown which made her so ravishingly lovely that even Prince Bismarck, German, stolid and in love with his wife, stood and gazed upon her with admiration. And Eugenie was not slow to observe the effect of her beauty upon him. She called him to her side, and Bismarck came with his wife upon his arm.

Now, the Princess Bismarck was tall and gaunt and ugly, and her feet were enormous. As she walked she showed a great deal of sole.

While Bismarck stood talking with Eugenie an audible titter was heard along the line of ladies. Bismarck, who was quick as a flash, followed the glance of their eyes and saw them rest upon the feet of his wife.

That settled the matter. The political history of France was altered from that moment.

A year later, when Paris was besieged, Bismarck himself fired a cannon over the ramparts, and those who were near him heard also shout: "Take that for the feet of the Princess Bismarck!"

THE MYSTERY OF DREAMS.

A Case in Which the Coincidences Were Remarkable.

On an occasion during the civil war I dreamed that I was standing beside a road when there came marching along it a strong column of prisoners, with guards at intervals on the flanks. I asked one of these guards who the prisoners were and where they had been taken in an engagement with the enemy on the day before and that there were 1,900 of them. I then asked some bystander what day of the month it was and was told that it was such a day of a certain month, some six weeks later than the date of the dream. The whole dream was extremely distinct, and it made a strong impression on me. I related it to a number of my comrades within the next few days and then thought of it no more.

Six weeks later, on the morning of the very day that had been mentioned in the dream as the date when the column of prisoners had passed before me, I was on picket two miles distant from the point where I had seemed to be when I saw them. It was soon after breakfast, and I was standing by the side of the road at the fire talking to the officer of the picket when an aid to the commanding general came riding down the road. He had been a schoolfellow of our officer's at West Point and reined up when he recognized his friend. He told us that he had good news, that there had been a sharp engagement with the enemy the day before and that our people had captured 1,900 prisoners, who had just passed the headquarters that morning on their way to the rear.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Slow Trains.

Slow railroad trains are probably not peculiar to any locality. The story of the conductor who waited for the hen to complete the dozen of eggs for the market is a part of the folklore of widely diverse regions.

There used to run over a Vermont road—and also, it may be remarked, over a Wisconsin road—what was known as the "huckleberry train," the fact being that it was so slow that passengers could jump off at the front end of the train and pick huckleberries for awhile and then get on at the rear end as it came up.

Exasperating, Truly.

Mrs. Higsley—Clara, I must insist that you send young Mr. Granley away earlier. It was long after 11 o'clock last night when you closed the front door after him.

Clara—I know, mamma, and I have made up my mind a dozen different times to make him leave early, but he has a way, somehow, of always giving the impression long after the shut of the evening has passed that he is just about to say something which has been waiting for. It's awful exasperating.—St. Louis Republic.

Belgium is the home of the racing pigeon. There the sport is a national pastime, and a good pigeon frequently wins for its owner large sums of money, the prizes being considerable, to which heavy pools are added.

The earliest pottery with printed designs of American subjects was made at Liverpool at the end of the eighteenth century.

Read This, Consumptive

"From the way my wife coughed for six months, I knew she had consumption. She showed it in her face, too, and her body wasted away to a skeleton. After she got down in bed the doctors couldn't do any good. Both Dr. T. A. Shannon and Dr. N. L. Hawson, each of whom is a first-class physician, but they had nothing that would reach the trouble in her lungs. My wife's father came to see her one day, when she got very low. He lives in Cedar Lake, Wis., while we live in Rice Lake, Wis. He said he knew what was needed, and made me get a bottle of Acker's English Remedy for Consumption. I went to Schmidt's, our local druggist, and got a bottle, and it helped her right away. She took eight sco. bottles, and they put her back on her feet and made her as sound and well as any woman in town. She has taken on flesh again, she doesn't cough, and if any one who doesn't know the facts was to be told she was so near death with consumption, he wouldn't believe it. My wife does all her housework, and at night sleeps as soundly as you please. Her stomach no longer gives her any trouble at all. Maybe you don't know what I am telling. If so, I advise you to see J. N. Schmidt, the druggist who sells Acker's English Remedy for Consumption. He'll tell you the same thing. Acker's English Remedy is wonderful in all throat and lung troubles. It is sold on a guarantee to cure, or money returned, and he never had a bottle come back to his store, although he has sold hundreds of them. It is Luther Bedell, Rice Lake, Wis."

Acker's English Remedy is sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee that your money will be refunded in case of failure, etc., and it is sold in the United States and Canada. In England see ads. on p. 34, and p. 61.

BUNKERS AT ASTORIA.

Prospects for Coaling Facilities for Trans-Pacific Steamers at That City.

An effort will soon be made to have trans-Pacific steamers coal at Astoria instead of at the Flavel bunkers. At least that is the rumor which comes from Astoria direct. Soundings are to be made in front of the Ninth-street dock, in that city, to ascertain if there is over 40 feet of water there, as is generally believed. The claim is set up that if the Ninth-street wharf can be utilized for this purpose, the bunkers would be much more convenient, and steamers could be coaled there expeditiously and cheaply. This idea is considered a good one, and will probably be taken up by the Astoria Push Club, an organization which is continually on the watch for the welfare of that city.

Representative Tongue, when asked yesterday morning what he thought of the discrimination of the war department against Portland in the matter of sending trans-pacific to the Philippines, said: "I know nothing about what has influenced the war department in its selection. Some time ago I sent a dispatch to Secretary Root, asking why Portland could not be used as a shipping point. That Portland has not been favored in this regard is a matter of regret to me, and I shall do all in my power to have the port of Portland recognized by the administration."

SHEEP, AND MOUNTAIN RESERVES.

The Salem Statesman has this about the predicament in which the general land office finds itself in dealing with the question of allowing sheep to range on government forest reserves:

"Here is a grave question, indeed. It has been agitating to its uttermost depths the great heart of the commissioner of the general land office, the Hon. ex-Congressman Binger Hermann, and worrying the fag-end of his massive brain.

"It is a well known fact that the long-wooled Eastern Oregon sheep are a savage breed. They are likely to climb the tall pine and fir trees and eat their tops off, after exhausting the grass at the roots. The prospect is a gloomy one. At first the bugologists and other renowned scientists of the agricultural and other departments of the government thought the ferocious bunchgrass sheep must be kept off the forest reserve entirely. But now Mr Hermann, always ready with a plan in any emergency (for instance his 'twenty-to-one' suggestion a few years ago), has come forward with the idea that the sheep men of Eastern Oregon should pay rent for the grazing privilege. It is to be presumed that the idea is to be as ferocious if they had to pay for the privilege of eating the grass and climbing the trees."

THROTTLING THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FOR POLITICAL PURPOSES.

The Associated Press declines to be made a purveyor of "news" regarding the situation in the Philippines for political purposes. Robert M Collins, representative of the Press, with the army, has written a long letter to the general manager at Chicago detailing the manner in which news unfavorable to those conducting the war was suppressed. We give extracts:

"For a long time we submitted to the censorship because of appeals to our patriotism and a feeling that we might be accused of lack thereof if we made any trouble for the American authorities here. But when General Otis came down in the frank admission that it was not intended so much to prevent the newspapers from giving information and assistance to the enemy (the legitimate functions, and, according to our view, the only legitimate ones, of a censorship), but to keep the knowledge of conditions here from the public at home, and when the censors had repeatedly told us, in ruling out plain statements of undisputed facts, 'MY INSTRUCTIONS ARE TO LET NOTHING GO THAT CAN HURT THE ADMINISTRATION, we concluded that the protest was justifiable.

"Instances of the suppression of news to prove that the sole intent of the authorities is to suppress accounts of the real situation here could be multiplied, if it was necessary, but the repeated assertions of the censor that he was instructed to permit nothing to go of a political nature, nothing that could reflect on the army or 'create a bad impression at home,' leaves no doubt on that point. Such items as court-martials have been struck out with the explanation, 'I am here to protect the honor of the army.'"

A GOOD KILLER.

Dr K D Griffith, of Kansas City, has just completed for the government an official test of the Mauser pistol in use by German cavalry and under consideration for adoption by the United States. The test was not made only with targets, but with human cadavers also, and Dr Griffith says it proved at ranges of from 50 to 500 yards the Mauser pistol is the most effective and deadly weapon of its kind ever invented. It is practically as good in the hands of marksmen as a Krag-Jorgenson, a Lee or a Mauser rifle.

The pistol fires 10 shots without reloading, and can be emptied with accuracy of aim in less than three seconds. The cartridges are 30 caliber, and are propelled by smokeless nitro powder. The bullets weigh 85 grains each, and have a lead core surrounded by a nickel-plated copper jacket. It is said to be probable that as a result of Dr Griffith's tests the government will adopt the Mauser pistol.

Spain's session to Germany of the twenty islands of the Ladrone group and the remark of the Queen Regent "It is useless for Spain to retain such minor appendages of ancient empire," brings strongly to mind the extent of that empire. In the height of her power Spain ruled over Spain, The Netherlands, Austria and Portugal. Her King Charles was elected Emperor of Germany. Nearly all of South America were under the control of the Emperor. His successor, Philip II, had for his crest a horse leaping at the sun with the motto: "The earth is not sufficient." The tragic contrast of the Spain that was, and the Spain that is, is scarcely paralleled in nations."

At the meeting of the National Grand Army of the Republic encampment at Philadelphia, September 7, a resolution in favor of returning captured battle flags to southern states was defeated. Also a resolution to admit sons of veterans as members of G A R posts.

Dreyfus has regained his nerve. The dispatches of yesterday say he smoked his pipe the first time for many days. Tobacco smokers are not partial to the weed when under excitement. Perfect enjoyment of the narcotic requires a mind at peace with itself and all the world.
