INTERCOLLEGIATE FOOTBALL

The action of the football management of the University of Oregon and the Oregon agricultural college in withdrawing from the intercollegiate league, for the purpose of protecting collegiate athletic sport against professionalism is to be commended. Willamette university of Salem, has a team composed mainly of professional and business men of the city, and it is this school the other institutions boldly take stand against. Technically the Willamette university men may all be taking credits sufficient to entitle them to play, and in that case the only redress to be made by other teams is to withdraw. Dr Olinger and Dr Jessup are practicing dentists in Salem, afr Judd holds a state position, Mr Savage is a laborer. Mr Sanders the Indian, plays with any club or college which will sign with him. These are sample students, none of whom are bona fide, within the intention institutions of learning. of censure is deserved, The and President Hawley and members of the faculty of Willamette university are largely to blame for receiving it, as the spirit classed in the contest with British of true honor and manhood in diplomacy, for they have abandoned sports as well as other walks of life should be at all times impressed by them on the student body.

PROSPECTIVE BOOM IN OREGON TIMBER AND LUMBER IN-TERESTS.

Portland Telegram, Nov 14.

"We intend to look around for about a month and get an idea of what Oregon timber is like," said Malcolm McManus, of a party of four men interested in timber, from Ashland, Nis. "Little timber is left in the states of the Middle East that formerly were thought to hold supplies that would last forever. In a few years it will all be gone, and then the sawmills will close down, and the many men who have gained a livelihood in the timber and saw mill business will

The United States bought Russian America from Russia, for $7,200,000, the inland boundary being 10marine leagues of land inland from tidewater mark at Pyramid Harbor. It appears that Russia did not own what she sold, and what we paid for, else President McKinley and his secretary of state were outto Great Britain, without compen sation, a strip of territory twelve and three-quarter miles wide the whole length of southeastern Alaska. Instead of 34] miles of territory inland from the coast we settle the contention by taking 221 miles.

A good illustration of the wonder ful memory and power of repartee. of Wm J Bryan was shown by an incident in his recent tour of Nebraska. Near the close of his speech at Falls City a man in the audience arose and denied that President McKinley desires to retain the Philippines, whereupon, without a moment's hesitation or the least show of embarrassment, Mr Bryan quoted this sentence from one of President McKinley's speeches: "I cannot permit myself
