The war in the Philippines, if the guerrilla fighting could properly be designated by such a name, is practically over. The great danger that lies beyond the existence of a feud, as the result of the conflict, that will render it unsafe for any American to travel unprotected in the country. The Malay race is a revengeful one, and the thickly populated state of the country renders any crime that may be committed against foreigners practically unpunishable.

Some business men simply put their money into any old kind of advertising, whether it reaches the people or not, and trust to luck for the rest. That's gambling. Others make a reasonable appropriation and then buy the kind of advertising best suited to their needs, and which is certain to reach the people with whom they may deal. That's business.

Mr. Cleveland has come to life sufficiently to express his opinions in regard to the party that honored him more than any other man now living. And there is no uncertainty about the opinion that the party holds of the man that it twice elected. His name was greeted with a roar of hisses in the last Democratic national convention that was being held while Mr. Cleveland was still at the helm.

The Eugene dealers in hardware are good witnesses as to trust squeezes. Wholesale prices of hardware have advanced twenty-five to one hundred per cent. The farmers thirty-eight cent wheat buys considerably less hardware than before trust beneficiaries elected the president. The farmers did the voting, but the trusts are getting the profits.

Some idea of the cost to the United States of the Philippine bargain counter war purchase may be gained from the statement that the sale of internal revenue stamps in Portland amounts to thirty-six thousand dollars a month.

Dutch and German sympathy for the South African republics in their struggle with Great Britain is shown by the character of the war news published by their papers. The Roosevelt Review sentimentally remarks that "the war news from Frankfort is almost as interesting as that from South Africa."

SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE.

An interesting article in the Pall Mall Gazette reads thus: In the Transvaal today the soldier of fortune is making his last stand. No other country in the world is likely to offer the alien adventurer of fortune the same positions and profits that have hitherto been the portion of Schiel, Von Albrecht and other merchants of Krugerdom. And in these very facts we may see the decline of the soldier of fortune, if we compare his gains with the colossal harvests of his predecessors in history. Peron, the wonderful Frenchman who commanded the Mahratta army, arrived in Hindoostan a penniless petty officer from a man-of-war, and in nine years he had amassed between £1,000,000 and £2,000,000. Even more rapid was the progress of Colonel Hannay, who had to leave "John Company's" service to avoid the bailiffs. He entered the service of the Nawab Wazir of Oude in 1778 and left it after three years with a fortune of £300,000. Many other French and English adventurers were nearly as lucky.

A peculiar case has been brought before the United States supreme court, resulting in an order that Attorney General Crow, of Missouri, be all-wed to file a bill of complaint against the state of Nebraska to determine the boundary line between the states. At the present time, owing to the shifting of the Missouri river, the middle of which, under the acts admitting Missouri and Nebraska was to be considered as forming the boundary line, there are about 16,000 acres of land, the jurisdiction over which is in dispute. Each state claims authority in this section, and the result is constant friction, which it is the purpose of the suit now brought, to put at rest.

Washington City is considerably exercised over the oleomargarine question. Dealers have been caught red-handed selling oleo for butter and have been convicted in court. Now comes the usual proffer of compromise with the Internal Revenue Bureau, thereby making whole the government but leaving the people in the lurch. The Washington Star states the matter clearly, saying there must be no compromise with a crime that affects the people so seriously, undermines the commercial conscience, makes thieves of honest grocers and unrighteously deprives the farmer of his legitimate market.

The trusts may find a competitor in prison labor. The Missouri State Labor Bureau recommends that convicts be employed to manufacture binding twine now bought from Eastern trusts. Of the two sources of supply convict labor is preferable.

At least two-thirds of the voters of the United States are in favor of the election of senators by direct vote of the people. With direct legislation this reform would be enacted into law without delay. Under the present system it will probably never pass the United States senate.

President McKinley is fighting off the church question in the Philippines. He is anxious to shoulder the settlement of the question on a commission.

A Japanese Dinner.

He who does not like the way the Japanese cook fish must be hard to please. They are better fish cooks than the French. The Japanese waters are very prolific, and the natives seem to have learned in cooking to preserve the inherent flavor of the fish, while their sauces are very simple. And as for eels, as they are cooked at the kandagawa, a teahouse in Tokyo, he who has tasted them has established a standard in his mind by which to judge other eels.

Napoleon Was a Dandy.

It is pleasant to learn, if one has Napoleon I on the hero list, that he had very dainty habits in personal matters; that he was fastidiously clean in his person, according to an article in a French contemporary, and poured eau de Cologne into the water he washed in, then sponged his head with perfume and finally poured the remainder of the contents of the flask over the neck and shoulders. He was also extravagantly fond of clean linen and during his campaigns had relays of it sent to different places. In those days it did not cost a farm to have "starched things" laundered, for, in account with a famous laundress in Paris, the emperor's "linen" for one "wash" amounted to 386 pieces and cost only a trifle over $20.

A Rat Story.

"One day not long ago," said a brick manufacturer, "one of my workmen saw three rats carrying a straw across the brickyard. It seemed such an unusual sort of proceeding that he stopped his work to watch them. Two of the rats held the straw at opposite ends while the third supported the center. They were making straight for the river which flowed by one side of the yard. When they arrived at the bank, they laid down the straw and took a long drink. Then they proceeded in the same manner as before and returned by the same way they had come.

Fool and His Money.

It chanced that the miser and the spendthrift took ship together. En voyage the spendthrift bought much wine and sat long at the gaming table. "The fool and his money soon part" sighed the miser.

A Golf Outrage.

The Earl of Wemyss was on a five golf course not long ago, accompanied by an old caddy. His lordship got his ball on one occasion so near the hole that to play it was, as it appeared to him, superfluous. So he simply tipped it in with the toe of his boot.

Millais and Newman.

The author of the life of Millais tells the following anecdote: When Cardinal Newman came to sit to the artist for his portrait, he asked where he was to pose.

Oysters and Strawberries.

The oyster and strawberry are said to be the greatest of evangelists. They have built and furnished more churches, paid the salaries of more preachers and helped more heathen than any two other natural agencies in the world.—Reynoldsville (Pa.) Star.

D. C. Mathews is making considerable improvements in his sawmill. James Griffith, the well-known millwright, from Dexter, is now busy at work turning the saw pulleys that will soon make the saw buzz again. Mr. Mathews has a fine lot of logs on hand and will have his mill running this week.

Corvallis College Girl.—The Corvallis Times resurrects the following: Whether they were college girls or public school girls is not certain. There were two of them, and this is what they said: "I just think it is shameful the way that girls slang," said number one, "My, if I twi I can talk like she does, my dad would tan my duds until the dust was thicker than fly time." "You bet your brass and it would serve you right," replied number two, "My parents are sunfo-ers of the same hue, and if I should make any raw cracks in my conversation, they would thrash the rosy cussedness out of my angelic anatomy quicker than chain lightning."

In the south end of Benton county is a turtle ranch—probably the only one in the entire Northwest Pacific country, says the Corvallis Union-Gazette. They discovered that while the brood from the huge soft shell turtle was an appropriate luxury, the supply was not equal to the demand. A San Francisco firm agreed to take all that the Oregonians could furnish. The proprietors understood the business of fattening turtles, and they have increased their facilities until they were enabled, a few days ago, to ship 200 dozen to the Golden Gate markets. The price is said to be $2 per dozen. Seemingly a low figure that, but, nevertheless, said to be profitable.

Says the Corvallis Times-Union: Harry Bickett, well and favorably known in this city, was conductor on the freight train on the occasion of the shameful abuse of Winnie Thoro, which has attracted so much attention throughout the state. Mr. Bickett has been completely exonerated from any knowledge or complicity in the crime. In his testimony before Justice Vaughan, at Cottage Grove, Mr. Bickett said he met Miss Thoro on the occasion in question, eighteen cars from the caboose and heard someone ask her if she was wet. Further than this he knew nothing.

Saturday, January 28, by a rate of 384 to 72 the taxpayers of Baker City voted in favor of the issuance of $100,000 bonds, to run twenty years and bearing four per cent interest, for the purpose of purchasing the Elk creek water rights, laying the best of modern pipe for the required distance of approximately 10 miles, and, in short for putting in a complete gravity water system for supplying Baker City for a generation to come with an abundance of pure mountain water, for general use, fire fighting and sewerage purposes.

The home of ex-Governor Penoyer at Portland has been levied upon to satisfy a judgment obtained against him for official acts while mayor of Portland. The amount is $18,000, and so far the representatives of the city have taken no action to relieve Mr. Penoyer of the liability. The city has no money with which to pay the claim, and has no means at present of securing the same, so the creditor is proceeding against the ex-governor and mayor personally.

There is considerable objection on the part of voters to complying with the registration law enacted by the last legislature, and evidently some will refuse to comply with its provisions, and thereby be deprived of the right of suffrage. For this they can blame no one but themselves. Every voter who feels an interest in governmental affairs should go to the trouble of registering.

Her Husband's Story

My name is E. J. Seaman and my address is 16 Bondman Block, Troy, N. Y. I want to say that my wife's health has been restored to her. About a year ago she had a cold, which settled in her bronchial tubes and lungs. Her condition had become so bad that she was unable to breathe. I had tried everything, but nothing seemed to help. I had heard of the English Remedy, and I bought a bottle. I gave it to her, and she took it. The effect was magical. In less than an hour there was a marked change. She got better and better, and in a short time she was entirely well and strong again. The cure was permanent and there has been no relapse. I don't know what the English Remedy is made of, but I am sure it contains something that fortifies the system against future attacks. My wife is in better general health now than ever, and you can't imagine how happy she is for her recovery. She tells everybody about the English Remedy, and so do I. I believe it is my duty to the public to help every sufferer who has throat and lung trouble. My neighbors say it is a sure specific for croup, and has saved the lives of hundreds of little ones around in this vicinity alone.

Sold at retail, one of a dozen, throughout the United States and Canada, and in England, at the following prices: If you are not satisfied after buying, return the bottle to the manufacturer, and get your money back.

LINKED WITH FOLLY

This is a story that belongs to the old time. A certain lord, pleased with the sallies of his jester presented him with new hauberk saying "Keep this Archie as long as you can, for he is a greater fool than you are, bestow it on him." One day the nobleman was riding, and with his household went Archie to look his last upon his master's face and hear his last words. The nobleman said "Master, why do you say good-bye to me?" "I am going a journey Archie," was the feeble answer. "How long a journey?" the jester asked. "Nay Archie, I do not know." "Neither do I know that Archie is a fool." "What provision hast thou made for the journey?" "None at all," sighed the nobleman. Archie looked long and hard at his master's face, and then he said "I have found a greater fool than I am." "What is he?" "A man who is linked with folly."
