OREGON PROHIBITIONISTS AGAIN ON HAND.

The State Prohibition convention nominated a ticket at Portland Tuesday. Among others resolutions were passed condemning the Democratic party for its silence on the liquor question, and the Republican party for open surrender to the liquor power as seen in the protection given liquor interests in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines. Here are some interesting extracts from the proceedings:

I. H. Amos explained the supplementary resolutions when the reading had been repeated. He spoke of McKinley fluctuating between the proprietor of a brewery and the pastor of a church. "McKinley is an exquisite composite type of the politician. Take the brewer and the preacher and throw a light through them and you have McKinley."

Rev. C. E. Cline took the floor and said that some Prohibitionists thought they had a monopoly on temperance. He said that many Republicans who would vote for prohibition would refuse to do so on hearing such badinage of epithets. The clergyman made an elaborate defense of the Republican party, declaring that it had done more for prohibition than any other, and more to the same effect.

Mr. Baker, a state lecturer of the Prohibition party, followed Rev. Cline and for 15 minutes poured in sarcasm and irony, and refuted the statements of the minister with facts and figures. Rev. Cline had said that Republicans gave Iowa the prohibition law. This Baker denied and declared that when the Republicans could have carried anything in the legislature they wanted, the prohibition law was a shabby vote and it was a drunken Democrat who voted for the measure and the bill became a law.

GOVERNOR LEARY.

Governor Leary of Guam has been relieved and Lieutenant Schroeder is his successor. The change was made at Leary's request. His administration of the affairs of this island has been of such a character as to draw wide spread attention. His field was not large, but he worked a marvelous transformation in it. He taught the indolent and ignorant natives of the island more civilization in the months of his governorship than one would suppose possible in as many years. He taught them to work, to make gardens, to keep pigs and poultry and, above all, to make homes.

His teaching was eminently practical, yet it must have been tactful also, for the results achieved could never have been so quickly attained unless the natives themselves were tractable and willing. It is to be hoped, for their sake, that Leary's successor will be capable of worthily carrying on his work. Leary has shown ability that might be utilized in larger fields than Guam.

A SUGAR TRUST VICTORY.

Porto Rico is to be governed for the sugar trust. The bill passed by the Republican majority levies tariff on her products and what she must buy. The Democratic substitute for the bill that passed was: First—Free trade between the United States and Porto Rico. Second—Civil government for the territory of Porto Rico of a republican form.

The gag rules adopted for debating the bill allowed only twenty minutes to each side and the bill passed by a vote of 163 to 158.

Three Meals a Day.

How many years of her life does a woman spend over the hot cook stove getting those three meals a day? Back aching, head throbbing, nerves twitching, it's all the same, there are three meals a day to be prepared. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cannot lighten woman's labor, but it can and does increase her strength. It cures those diseases of the womanly organs which undermine woman's vitality.

After ages of neglect St. Patrick's traditional grave has a stone to mark the spot. The stone is a rough, weather-beaten boulder of granite, weighing about seven tons. Upon the upper surface of this boulder is carved an Irish cross, faithfully reproduced from one cut on an equally rough, unhewn stone found on the island of Inisiclothan, one of the islands of Lough Rea, where St. Dairmid founded his famous ecclesiastical settlement about the middle of the sixth century. Under the cross the name "Patric" is cut in Irish characters, copied from the earliest known Celtic manuscripts. This simple treatment is considered to be the nearest approach to the form of a monument which would have been constructed about the year 469, the supposed date of the saint's death.

A gaunt, muscular woman of fierce mien entered a city hall in a Utah county seat and asked the county clerk to find out if one Jack Peters was married. Search developed the name of John Peters, for whose marriage a license had been issued two years before. "I thought so," said the woman. "Married 'Liza Waters, didn't he?" "The license is issued for a marriage with Eliza Waters." "Yep. Well, I'm 'Liza. I thought I'd ought to come in and tell you that Jack Peters has escaped."

A Philadelphia bacteriologist claims to have made a microscopic examination of the lower edge of a woman's walking skirt and to have found 200,000 germs of diphtheria, pneumonia, tonsillitis and consumption. No more argument is needed for the adoption of the female bicycle togs, unless this scientific gentleman has not handed in his report yet on what he found at the lower extremities of a pair of pants.

"Lions led by asses" is the way a London paper bitterly refers to the army and British generalship in South Africa. But the wild Boers are more ferocious and dangerous than the lion tribe. Great Britain has found out that she has fomen who are capable of meeting her choicest soldiery. It is a very marked change from late British wars where half naked natives, armed with primitive weapons, were scattered by the winds by the hail of bullets.

The Lane county Citizens ticket is pledged to reform and economical administration of county affairs. The good character and business qualifications of the nominees are an earnest that the pledges have not been made to be broken.

It's Scrofula

Those little kernels in the neck! Has your child ever had them? You know sometimes they swell, become painful, soften, and end in a scar. Give such a child Scott's Emulsion just as soon as the kernels appear. The little swellings will grow less and less and soon will disappear altogether. Continue the Emulsion until the child has good flesh and a healthy color.

THE ALASKAN FATALITY

Hon. C. A. Sehlibrede Gives Detailed Information.

MURDEROUS INDIANS ALL CAPTURED.

The following letter received by B. F. Dorris, secretary of Spencer Butte lodge, I. O. O. F., from Hon. C. A. Sehlibrede, U. S. commissioner for Alaska, is in response to a request of the lodge for detailed information regarding the murders, cost of transportation of remains, etc. It is likely the bodies will be sent for in a few days:

SKAGWAY, Alaska, April 6, 1900. HON. B. F. DORRIS, Secretary, Spencer Butte Lodge No. 9, I. O. O. F., Eugene Ore. DEAR SIR AND BRO.: I have before me your letter of the 24th of March, in regard to the death of Brother Bert Horton and his wife, and in reply I beg to say, that while we have no doubt, we have an association of Odd Fellows, and we did everything in our power to give our deceased brother and his wife a respectable burial.

The services were held in the Y M C A lecture room, the largest auditorium in town, and it was filled to its utmost capacity, and more than two hundred people were not able to get into the building. The religious services were conducted by the Episcopal minister. It was a very solemn occasion. The whole community seemed to be overshadowed with sorrow. We secured all the conveyances in town, and the procession was a large one. The Odd Fellows and Woodmen walked, also the Knights turned out, there were more than one hundred of the three orders in line. The bodies were buried in separate caskets but in the same grave.

In regard to the removing of the bodies to Oregon, I will say, the undertaker here will take up the bodies, reline the caskets with metallic lining, and pack the bodies properly, putting the caskets in proper boxes for handling and deliver on board of the Steamer for $50 each..... $100 00 Steamer to Seattle, $25 each..... 50 00 Express to Portland, $14 each..... 28 00 Express from P. Eugene, $12..... 24 00 $202 00

In addition to these charges there might be some little charges for incidentals which cannot be figured on at this time. But the figures quoted above are very close to the actual cost. A young man here by the name of F. M. Sessions, who was a personal friend of Mr and Mrs Horton, is connected with one of the steamship lines, and says that if it is desired to have some one accompany the remains, he can secure half rate for himself, and would go with the remains and attend to looking after the same, for his actual expenses. The undertaker however assures us that it is not necessary for anyone to accompany the remains, as he has standing arrangements with the undertakers in Seattle and Portland to look after bodies that he forwards.

Now in regard to Bro. Horton's money matters: At the time of preparing the bodies for burial there was found upon the body of Bro. H. the sum of $120 in gold, and that was all. Mr. Sessions, with whom Bro. H. was quite intimate, says that just before going on his fatal trip, Bro. H. stated that he had something like $500. We have the confession of the Indians that they took from the pockets of Bro. H. some silver dollars. At the time of the killing, Bro. H. had on two pairs of pants, and the gold was found in the pocket of the inside pair of pants, and was on that account not found by the Indians. There is some report that at the time the Indians buried the bodies they took from the body of Bro. H. a money belt, but of the truth of this report we can not get any reliable information. The Indians so far all deny it. We are on the track of the effects that were at the camp of Bro. H. at the time of the killing, and if these are located we may obtain some more information about his affairs generally.

We now have in jail all of the Indians connected with this awful crime. There are 12 of them, and among their number one woman, but the woman is guilty only to the extent of being along with the party and keeping the murder a secret, though she was not in sight of the tragedy at the time it took place.

Should your lodge conclude to send for the remains, let me know, and I assure you that the members of the order here will do all in their power to see that it is properly done. I will say in conclusion that the undertaker tells us that the bodies can be removed with perfect safety, though the caskets could not be opened nor the remains viewed after being sealed up.

So soon as the snow goes off I will take the marshal and go to the scene of the murder, and see if there is not some of their effects still there. At the time I took the coroner's jury to the scene of the murder, and when we were searching for the bodies in the snow, I took along a photographer, who took several pictures of the place. When they are finished up I will send you a set of them. We found the bodies under snow between six and seven feet deep. With personal regards to yourself and other friends in Eugene, I am Yours in F. L. & T., C. A. SEHLIBREDE.

"SOUR DOUGH HOTEL,"

Letter Head From the "Best House North of Mexico."

Adam Appel has received a letter from his friend, G. M. Stearns, who is now in Dawson. Mr Stearns states that he is doing well, and expects to be considerably ahead after the spring clean-up. The curious thing about the letter is the letter head on which it is written. It bears the stamp of the "Sour Dough Hotel," 1333 Levee avenue. According to the letter head it is the best house north of Mexico; first-class in every particular. Every known fluid, water excepted, for sale at the bar. Private entrance for ladies by ladder in the rear. Rates, one ounce per day. (Indians and niggers charged double.) Special rates to ministers and the gambling "perfers."

Following are the house rules: "Guests will be provided with breakfast and dinner, but must rustle their own lunch. "Spiked boots must be removed at night. "Dogs not allowed in the bunks. "Candles and hot water charged extra. "Towels changed weekly. "Craps, chuck-luck, studhorse poker and black-jack games run by the management. "Dogs bought and sold." The following cheerful information is printed in red ink: "Insect powder for sale at the bar."

The Best in the World.

We believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best in the world. A few weeks ago we suffered with a severe cold and a troublesome cough, and having read their advertisements in our own and other papers we purchased a bottle to see if it would effect us. It cured us before the bottle was more than half used. It is the best medicine out for colds and coughs.—The Herald, Andersonville, Ind. For sale by W. L. DeLano.
