LANE COUNTY CITIZENS TICKET.

The county convention that met in Eugene, Saturday, and placed a Citizens ticket in nomination not only did its work well, but did it harmoniously and without the least contention or strife.

The convention to a man sank former political prejudices and preferences, and selected the best men for the nominations. And, in doing this, the three elements that form the Citizens party were given fair recognition, although there was no apportionment or understanding as to whom the offices should fall. The delegates were animated by the desire to put out the strongest ticket possible, and they selected their men with that one object in view.

The convention left no sore spots or heartburnings. The ticket it nominated will receive the votes of all citizens who believe that reform methods should be carried out in state and county affairs, that all money should not be made depend on gold, and that legislation should be enacted to curb the rapacious robbery and extortion of McKinley's pet trusts.

GERMAN AMERICANS

Likely to Cast a Solid Vote Against McKinley.

[Washington Special New York World.] President McKinley's advisers are worried over a meeting in Chicago attended by representatives of the leading German-American newspapers of 10 states, where active steps were taken to oppose the reelection of the President by men who in 1896 were strongly for him.

German-American editors were in attendance from Michigan, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, Minnesota, Nebraska, Missouri and Illinois. The sentiment expressed was unanimous against the present administration.

Only three issues, according to one informant, were discussed—trusts, imperialism and money. Upon the first two there was no disagreement. As to silver, it was the reported consensus that although the German-Americans were strongly anti-silver as a class, they would concede a point to the advocates of the white metal and support the nominee of the Kansas City convention on the more recent issues—anti-trust and anti-imperialism. It was argued that no German-American could afford to approve an administration deemed to be so engaged as hopelessly to trusts, and so imbued with malice and imperialism. German-Americans claim that it was the vote of their race in 1896 which elected McKinley.

TELL THE TRUTH.

At the fusion ratification meeting Saturday night, Mr. Veatch of Cottage Grove said the fusionists would have to sacrifice party and principle to win the campaign, to which we are all agreed.—Register "Impressions."

The people of Lane county who for many years have known Mr. Veatch as a level headed, conscientious man will not believe that he made any such statement. The Register man's "impressions" to often verge on the line of untruthfulness. He still fails to remember that one above all has said: "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor." Try to tell the truth!

The Iowa republican house of representatives has passed a resolution that is not pleasant reading for Mr. McKinley and his sugar trust friends in whose interest a tariff was put upon Porto Rico sugar exports to the United States. The Iowans resolved:

The people of Iowa are unalterably opposed to the establishment of the United States and any territory acquired as a result of the Spanish American war, and the people of which accepted the sovereignty of this government without resistance and voluntarily passed under the jurisdiction of its legislation and laws.

Dewey is getting worse and worse. It was bad enough when he put himself into a presidential dicebox for any old party to shake out. But he has capped the climax, we think, with the statement that he is a Democrat and an admirer of Cleveland. His wife was made the scapegoat for his presidential ambitions; it would be interesting to know who loaded up the Admiral with the idea that he could serve a political god and mammon at the same time.

Charley Baker is in love with gold and the gold standard now. Some may insinuate that it is office that causes his flops. We remember a few years how Charley failed to get the coveted nomination for senator on the Republican ticket, then next week walked into the Peoples Party convention and accepted the nomination. That was a bit of political agility that could not be surpassed by an Indian rubber gymnast.

General Lew Wallace, orthodox Republican, has placed himself on the side of the "traitors." In a recent interview he said: "When the president recommended free trade with Porto Rico that was William McKinley speaking from his heart; when he urged congressmen to eat their utterances and vote for a duty on the industries of the island, going and coming, that was Mark Hanna, the great Ohio suspect."

INDIGESTION

If you have it you know it. You know all about the heavy feeling in the stomach, the nausea, sick headache, and general weakness. You can't have it a week without your blood being impure, your nerves exhausted, and your liver sluggish.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

makes the blood pure, strengthens the digestion, and tones up the nerves. And Ayer's Pills will arouse the sluggish liver and cure your constipation.

It's a bottle. All druggists.

After suffering terribly with dyspepsia, I tried your Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles, and now feel like a new man. I would advise all my fellow creatures to try this medicine.

GOOD WATER FROM TREES.

Wells Which Wily Southern Woodsmen Tap With an Auger.

In many sections of the forest lands of the south during the dry seasons a man may walk for miles without finding a stream of water or a spring by which to quench his thirst. If, however, he is an experienced hunter and woodsman, he will not have to drink water from the stagnant pools in order to keep life in his body.

Queer as it may seem, an experienced man can hunt for days through such dry tracts and yet experience no inconvenience on account of the lack of water. Nature has provided a means which is only known to the initiated. Every old huntsman carries with him when going on a long hunt a small auger, by which he can secure a refreshing drink and water to cook with at any moment.

A cottonwood tree or a willow is the well which the wily huntsman taps. He examines each tree until he finds one that has what a woodsman calls a "vein." It is simply an attenuated protuberance. By boring into this "vein" a stream of clear water will flow out. It is not sap, but clear, pure water. The huntsman says that the water is better than the average to be had from ordinary wells. There is no sweetish taste about it, but it has a strong flavor of sulphur and is slightly carbonated.

NEW YORK'S EAST SIDE.

On Festive Occasions It Arrays Itself in Hired Finery.

The east side achieves gentility on great occasions, albeit somewhat unshaven and alighted between whites. From its own standpoint it does not spare expense. What it cannot buy it hires. The possibilities of renting the set pieces and habiliments of fashion have been thoroughly exploited east of the Bowery. There is one of that pride of exclusive possession that obtains along thoroughfares farther westward. The swarming population shares its joys and sorrows and garments with impartial hand. Many of the brides whose brief finery starts their old companions on the wedding night hire their gowns and veils.

The most gorgeous and costly creations are obtainable for $5 an evening. The paraphernalia of mourning may be rented for a single occasion. Ball dresses warranted to captivate are for hire in Division street. Chowder parties are equipped throughout for a day on the sound.

There are dozens of establishments that drive a flourishing business loaning dress suits for a consideration. A rigid social etiquette prescribes that the truck driver and small shopkeeper shall on such formal occasions as balls and receptions don the clawhammer, and the downright east side would rather be out of the world than out of fashion as he understands it. The young men who purchase secondhand the dress suits of business men whom they accost in Broadway and Wall street are the scouts of these luring establishments. Revamped and pressed anew, a dress suit will earn its second cost in two or three evenings. The garb of the floor committee at a typical ball of a social club is evidence enough that the tailors of New York are a cosmopolitan group.—New York Mail and Express.

The Human Birds.

A facetious man who rejoices in the name of Bird conceived the idea of calling a convention of all the people in Philadelphia who belong to his tribe. Of course it was a joke, but a glance through the pages of the directory convinced him that such a gathering would be a big one. He discovered that there were just an even 100 plain Birds, but the variety of those who specified their kinds was appalling. The list, as far as he went, was as follows: Doves, 15; Eagles, 3; Finches, 21; Fowls, 3; Hawks, 30; Jays, 6; Larks, 6; Juncos, 29; Pigeons, 1; Parrots, 40; Partridges, 30; Sparrows, 7; Sparrows, 7; Wrens, 10; Robins, 15; Nightingales, 9; Flickers, 5; Thrushes, 4; Canaries, 3; Geese, 2; and Turkey, 1. There were two Chipmunks, and Philip Ducks upheld the dignity of his branch of the family.—Philadelphia Record.

Denver's Great Chimney.

The tall chimney of the Grant smelter is an object of interest to every visitor to Denver. It is by far the tallest smokestack in the United States and has but two rivals in the world. The following facts will give the reader an adequate idea of the immensity of this chimney: It is 352 feet 4 inches in height. There are 1,943,000 bricks in this immense shaft. Its weight above the foundation is 12,378,500 pounds. Its pressure at the base is 100 pounds to the square inch, and the total wind pressure against it is a gale would be 396,200 pounds. The diameter at the base is 23 feet and at the top 20 feet.—Denver Post.

Setting a Neighbor Right.

"Was that your dog that was howling all night?"
"I guess it was."
"Why in thunder don't you feed him?"
"Heavens, man, it's indigestion that makes him howl!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Bled Quarts at a Time

I am a knife maker and worked for a number of years in the New York City factory at Wadon, N. Y. First thing I knew I commenced to bleed from the mouth. Sometimes as much as a quart of blood would come up from my lungs at a time. Every time I coughed the blood spurted out. It was so bad that I got so bad, and the church people told me I had better make my peace with the Lord and prepare to die, for I would not live till spring. My home doctor couldn't do me any good, but advised me to get to New York City for examination. They finally took me to a medical college, and a whole lot of physicians made what they called a diagnosis. There were several students looking on. One professor had a little ivory hammer, and with this he pounded my chest and held his ear close to listen. After a while the professor looked at me solemnly and declared: "One of your lungs is about gone and the other is affected. There may be a slim chance for life if you quit working in that knife factory. I went back home, but didn't improve. One day I saw an advertisement of free samples of Acker's English Remedy for Consumption, being given away by our home agents, Walker & Eaton. I got one of these bottles, and it relieved me. They bought more of the regular size, and my improvement was continuous, although slow. My doctors were astonished and so was I. After dark I had to get up because I was afraid it might be blood, and I wanted to know for sure. I had no fear now, for at last I am a solid man again. Although one lung is gone, I feel as good as a dollar, and answers as well as two lungs, so far as I see. I want everyone to know the facts and that is why I tell them." (Signed) A. H. SIMPSON.
