About Supporting a Local Newspaper.

ED. INDEPENDENT:—In this day and age of the world it is the duty of every man to lend a helping hand in the support of his county newspaper. What business man does not? Who can subscribe and pay for a county newspaper and not get the worth of his money in a single issue? If a friend was to write you a letter in some isolated district in the county and give you one-fourth the news that your local paper does, you would not only say "it is a pleasure to read a letter from John" but you would be anxious to receive another and you would value each letter the value of the subscription price of your county paper.

Now the local editor can be looked on as a friend. He writes to us all each week; tries to make his letters interesting. He does not devote himself to the place from which he writes but tries to chronicle every item of interest that transpires in the county, and much interesting and valuable knowledge of incidents from all parts of the State and indeed of the United States.

To be sure an editor cannot please everybody, for every man does not see nor think alike. He can only narrate facts, and impart impartial news on different topics and though to some they may seem superfluous to others they are plainly expressed views. If your friend writes you a long letter and chronicles his views upon all subjects of import many of them will not coincide with yours.

Then again the editor has more with which to contend than most any other business men. He is cursed more and praised least. If he writes an article that coincides with your views, you will say "it is his duty to do that," but if the article does not suit you, you will speak hard of him for it. It ought to be the other way—look over his faults and praise him when he deserves it. What is the value of a country paper? No one can value it too highly. It is the duty of every man in a county to subscribe for his home paper, and to pay for it, subscribe for it first, and then for some metropolitan paper. The man that does not take and read newspapers is behind the times. The intelligent man will subscribe for, read, and value highly, newspapers. And among them the first on our list should be our county paper. We ought to peruse carefully the advertisements, for in them we often find something worth twice the price of the paper. We ought to try and help our paper along. Let us send all local news that may transpire in our precinct to the editor.

The Editor of our county paper offers to send it to any one in the county, and wait a year for the pay. Who could ask a more liberal offer? Now, dear friends, let us all subscribe, induce our neighbor to subscribe, and keep the ball rolling.

Prosperity and long life to the Independent and its Editor is the earnest wish of

Yours truly,

A GRANGER.
Columbia Academy, Nov. 8, 1874.

We note as an item of news that will be interesting to all of our readers, that the man who found a typographical error in a local paper recently was discovered out in the rural districts the other day trying to get a perpendicular view of the rainbow. We say this to get even on a number of mistakes and crooked sentences which appeared in our last issue. But we will now inform our readers that in editing this paper we do not expect to distinguish ourselves for fine writing. Our readers have enough of that in books. What they need is the county news, and this is what we intend to furnish them in return for their cash.

MONOPOLIST. Bill Watkins in his card in last week's Oregonian calls Dolph a monopolist. Be soft on the monopolist question now dear Billy seeing that the Watkins family have such a good thing on here curtains and old Bourbon.

TELEGRAPHIC!

Eastern States.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—A Washington special says the President in conversation to-day admitted his chagrin at the result of the elections, and there is as good authority for the statement by one of his immediate associates, that he will at the proper time indicate his preference for E. B. Washburne as his successor. In his Message to Congress next month he will, according to the same authority, take such ground against the Credit Mobilier fraud corruptionists of the Republican party, as to direct attention to Washburne as one of the pure and incorruptible men of the party, on whose record no tarnish is to be found.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—The Committee of Seventy yesterday telegraphed to the President, protesting against the occupation of the State by Federal troops and requesting their withdrawal. In view of the fact that a large number of negroes voted with the Conservatives at the late election, and peace and harmony are restored.

Foreign States.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The International Congress of Catholics will soon convene in London for the purpose of reaffirming temporal and spiritual power and infallibility of the Pope. The order for the Congress comes from the Vatican.

SANTANDER, Nov. 4.—The Carlists commenced the bombardment of Irun this morning.

The Carlists are still bombarding Irun, but without much effect. It is reported that Russia will soon formally recognize the Republican Government of Spain.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Carlists here deny the truth of the assertion of the Spanish Government that the siege of Irun has been raised, and profess to have information that the besiegers are cannonading the town to-night, and that Don Carlos visited the outposts yesterday. A Republican battalion has landed at Fontarabia and a decisive action is expected to-night.
