A Mistake.

We learn that G. W. C. Templar, Danbar, has asserted that we "made up" that story about "A Worthy Chaplain on a bust," and that we "published the same out of malice for the Order of Good Templars."

In the first place that story was not "made up" by us or anybody else, but was sent us by a correspondent for publication. And it was true. We can give the name of the "Worthy Chaplain" if it is necessary. In the second place, as to publishing the story out of malice, we deny the charge. We are friendly to all temperance societies. For proof of this we point our readers to our course as a journalist. To our injury financially, we have even been aggressive in dealing with intemperance.

Instead of publishing the "Worthy Chaplain" "out of malice," we did it for the good of the Order, for the good of the "Worthy Chaplain," and for the information of our readers. And we hereby give fair warning to those who get drunk and thereby make public property of themselves, that we shall give them notice in our columns free of charge if we choose. Financially such a course is unwise, but it suits us.

We always expect to be misrepresented and misunderstood by a small class of conscientious and honest people who are always radical and always narrow; who can neither take a joke nor hear a fact that reflects on themselves, a member of their party, or on their creed. They will gnaw a file and it is no use to give them gingerbread. They are bound for the Kingdom and everybody else for the Devil. We have no disposition to pet them because we know it is useless.

AN INTERESTING COMMUNICATION.

Victoria and its Surroundings—Great Guns, Reception, Whisky and Flunkies.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 1, 1878. ED. INDEPENDENT:—Thinking that a few items from this part of Her Majesty's Dominions might be of interest to your readers I write you, but more as a friend than a correspondent.

I left Portland early Monday morning last and arrived at Olympia, W. T., Wednesday evening, stopping one day by the way. Leaving Olympia at 9 p. m. on the new line, U. S. Mail Steamer "Favorite," M. P. Moore Purser and mail contractor, stopping at all way ports to change mail, we arrived at Port Townsend, the last town before you reach Victoria, at 3 p. m. Thursday, where, owing to the high wind, we were compelled to lay to until 11 p. m., when we sailed, reaching this port at 3 o'clock Friday morning.

I have spent the last four days wandering around among the ruins of a once great and magnificent city (1867-8-9. I visited "Squamault," or the Naval Dock Yard, Friday. It is situated about three miles northwest of town on St. James bay and will be as enduring as time, as it is founded on the solid rock. The buildings are neat one-story structures built without style or regularity. There are about a dozen old guns lying around loose in this place. A Sergeant, my conductor, assured me that one or two of these old guns would throw a ball six miles with great accuracy. The others, he claimed, were extremely dangerous, and dwelt at length on a contrivance whereby the soldier could spike a dozen of them in an incredibly short space of time if pursued too closely by an enemy. I mildly informed him that that might be a very useful invention for his Government but on "Our Side" we would have no use for it as we never started in to fight with the intention of running.

A small man-of-war was in port but being a little timid after seeing such piles of shot and dangerous guns I did not venture on board. The harbor is small but admirably situated being protected on all sides by a high range of hills. I next visited the Government buildings situated "over the bridge," a small arm of the bay. The grounds embrace some five or six acres, the buildings some twelve or fifteen in number, all small one-story structures (one or two exceptions,) with very flat roofs and eaves projecting about four feet, for what purpose I do not know; if for ornament it is a failure, if to protect the brick walls, it is well, as the brick are of an inferior quality. The Governor's mansion looms up in the brush about a mile from town, and as I did not get nearer than a quarter of a mile I am unable to describe "these Headquarters."

The customs and manners of the people are much the same as with us. Goods, and merchandise of all kinds except tobaccos are about the same price as here. All monied transactions, except with Government, are made in U. S. coin. The Livery man gave me a ten dollar British bill this afternoon in change. I bought a cigar the first opportunity to see if it was not a fraud but found it all O. K. I notice quite a number of very nice residences but none that will compare with the more elegant in Portland. The merchants with one accord close their stores at 6 p. m. and open at 7 or 8 a. m. On Saturday they close at noon and open at 9 on Monday. A Hebrew friend up town says that this is the most pious town he ever saw: that a man is expected to go to church three times on Sunday and two or three times during the week. I judge however from his use of a very expressive adjective that he has failed to fulfill their expectations.

I visited the old Hudson Bay Co's headquarters to-day. It is a large brick building about 50x100 feet square and five stories high, where an immense amount of business has been transacted in by-gone days, but alas, its glory has departed. The Marine Hospital and Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum are situated across the bay on a rocky point. They are kept clean and the unfortunate inmates look as though they are well cared for.

A grand reception was given the Premier Friday evening last and all the dignitaries of the Province were there, to the number of a hundred and fifteen. Speeches and toasts were made, and a vast deal of whisky was drunk, all in honor of the aforesaid gentleman.

Parliament opened to-day with a great furor, display of militia, firing salutes, etc., etc.; and yet the British philosophers laugh at American Fourth of July spread-eagle patriotism! A vast amount of self-glorification will be indulged in judging from the remarks made at the reception spoken of above.

The fare on the Sound is extremely low now—one dollar for all way ports and five dollars from here to Olympia. Yours respectfully, W. H. S.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At a regular meeting of Wapato Grange, No. 90, held on Feb. 27, the following resolutions were passed and a copy of the same ordered printed in the INDEPENDENT.

Whereas Brother C. C. Cowles has been called through the relentless hand of death by the great Master of all assemblies to leave our council here, as we believe, to enter that rest that remains for the people of God; therefore Resolved, That while we miss him in our councils and deeply sympathize with his bereaved wife and family in their loss of a loving husband and father, we commend them to His care who doth all things well and who has said, there is not a sparrow falls to the ground without his notice, but we sorrow not as those who have no hope for we believe that in this dispensation of Providence our loss is Bro. Cowles' gain. W. G. SCOGGIN, Chairman Com.

Good for the Cornelius Boys.

CORNELIUS, March 3, 1878. MR. EDITOR:—I am inwardly moved to say something through your paper concerning the revival meetings held at Cornelius the past two weeks by Rev. J. W. Miller. All classes, old and young, in the church and out of it, have been benefited by it. Although I am not a church member yet I am a lover of good, and feel just like saying a few words of commendation in behalf of the young people. Their orderly conduct is worthy of all praise. On the first evening of the meeting Elder Miller remarked that he was much pleased with the excellent good order. The next day at the people met for worship at 2 o'clock the boys were having an interesting game of ball on the playground by the school building where the services were held; but as soon as worship commenced, the boys being placed upon their dignity and self-respect the evening before, withdrew from the play-ground. At the close of evening service he made some pleasing allusions to the game of ball and commended the young men for the respect that they had that day showed toward the worship of God by ceasing their innocent sport. Kind words did what reproof never could have done, and the best of order was observed at all the meetings. Intelligence and good order will influence people in the selection of a home among us and hereby add to our numbers and business. May the young men and lads of Cornelius ever retain their good name. B. T. PHILLIPS.

A Hard Bed to Fill.

The junior editor of the Gallatin is noted for his modesty. When school-boys, he and the writer were inseparable companions, probably because we both stood in such holy awe of "the girls." A pair of mischievous black eyes would stampede us quicker than "a big dog." One day "Bob" was sent to neighbor Shaw's to inquire about some straw for filling beds, and of course the writer went with him. Mr. Shaw was the father of six hateful girls, who had rather laugh at a fellow than not, and when we arrived they were all seated at dinner. I dodged behind the corner, while Bob edged carefully in at the door, and with a scared look stammered:

"Mr. Straw, can you let me have enough Shaw to fill my bed?" "Well, R——," said the old gentleman glancing around the circle of astonished faces, "I suppose so. Here are six besides the old woman; but I'd rather you would leave her; if the girls will be sufficient. Take them all and God bless you."

Perfect shrieks of laughter went up from those mean things, and "R——" took to his heels, followed by the writer and cries from the old man to come back and be'd "throw in the old woman too."—Exchange.

MARRIED.

By Rev. G. W. Rook. Feb. 24, 1878, at the residence of S. A. Holcomb Esq., Mr. Wayne W. Holcomb of West Union and Miss Christina W. A. Hanson, of Bethany, all of Washington county.

BORN.

To the wife of T. Tongue, March 3d, a daughter.

DIED.

Nicholas Kneel at Forest Grove, Oregon, March 8, 1878, aged 28 yrs. 6mo. and 8 dys. Mr. Kneel came from the East some 6 months ago hoping to improve his health impaired by consumption. His death was marked by strong triumphs of christian faith, praising God with his dying breath. He leaves a wife, one child and two step children and many friends to mourn his loss. The occasion was improved by a funeral discourse in the Congregational church by Rev. J. W. Miller assisted by Rev. H. Lyman. J. W. M.
