WANTS IT CHANGED.—A gentleman in Scoggin's valley or Martin's valley, (some call it by the first name and some by the last) wants the name changed. He says: "You have sometimes mentioned our valley as Scoggin's and sometimes as Martin's valley. Now I propose to name it the Mill Glen, a say mill being in the northwest end of it." We have no objections to the proposed change if the people will adopt it. In fact Mill Glen would be a much prettier name than either Scoggin or Martin's valley. We would suppose that the innate modesty of both of the above named gentlemen after whom this delightful little valley has been named would lead them to seek some other cognomen than their own. We hope they will agree on some name commensurate with the natural beauty of their mountain vale, leave it to a vote of the inhabitants, and on its adoption we will gladly accept it. As it stands we will be compelled, in order to be understood, to give it a name that is known.

CELEBRATION PICNIC.—The Grangers' celebration picnic at Hillsboro Park on the 3d of July will be the jolliest and happiest and best thing of the year. James Imbrie, Jr. will be the orator of the day. A. S. Watt of the Grove will read the Declaration of Independence, and Rev. W. Jolly will preside as chaplain. There will be a gorgeous array of edibles, walking canes and stove-pipe hats. Anderson and Boyce will have soda and ice cream for a thousand. Come all ye who are thirsty and drink. The picnic will be a grand success, for there is no such word as fail in the Grangers' dictionary. Foot races, base ball, jumping matches, matrimonial matches, lucifer matches, fireworks breastworks and blue blazes! Come all ye denizens of Washington county and see screaming fun and oceans of it.

GONE EAST.—Mr. W. H. Humphreys, brother of T. D. Humphreys, who came out here last fall on a visit and for his health started overland by the way of the Dalles and Salt Lake road for his home in Iowa. His doctors said he had the consumption when he started for this country and advised him to travel as they could do nothing more for him. He goes back in better health than he has had for ten years and goes with the purpose of selling his property in Iowa and moving his family to this country the coming fall.

A TRADE ALL AROUND.—Two of three weeks ago A. Luelling, W. Baldra and H. C. Johnson got together and had a swap all around. Baldra traded his house and two acres of land to Luelling for three town lots in Simmon's addition and $600. And Baldra traded the three lots that he had just got in the trade with Luelling to H. C. Johnson for his farm of 40 acres near this place and $200. It is said that all of them started in with some spare cash and all came out of the trade flat broke.

Mr. S. of the Grove having returned from a visit to the East met Mr. H. and the latter said that he could scarcely express his emotions when the former replied, "That is my fix; let us talk in Chinook."

A granger came into one of our stores the other day and wanted to sell the merchant some chickens and the latter said that he did not want any. The granger started out but came back again and offered the chickens very low but the merchant wouldn't buy. The granger came a third time and offered to "take it out in the store" but the merchant couldn't see it. Again the granger returned and said, "You said you didn't want no chickens did you?"

As the cars came down Friday morning, just this side of Dilley a horse started on the track ahead of the train and ran wildly out on a trestle work bridge and fell between the ties unable to get up. The train put down breaks and stopped and some men got out and cut the ties and let the horse drop through on the ground a distance of ten feet. The horse was bleeding profusely at the nose and was badly bruised, but it was not known whether any bones were broken or not.

Last Friday one of Mrs. Naylor's youngest boys, six or seven years old, fell out of a cherry tree a distance of about ten feet on a wood pile bruising his face and head severely. Crops are very poor in this section of the country; there will not be more than half the fruit this season as last.

O. K.

Messic.—Squire Cave has delicious music at his blacksmith shop now. It is an almond eyed gentleman that tickled the cat-gut to titulate friend Cave's auricular appendages. We stood at his door the other day and watched him while he was reading the Dolph and Watkind's suit, and when that fiddle would scratch, his left ear would begin to crawl up to the top of his head and the corner of his mouth on the same side in sympathy would go up with it and every two minutes he would throw up his hand and pull his ear down and that would bring his mouth into the right shape again. Cave proposes to apply to the Court for an injunction on that fiddle, but Finney in such cases issues a mandamus, and when that fails, then a club.

THE TARD.—From present appearances the third of July will be fair and fine. A neighbor Chenette has got his hay cut and spoiled by the rain there is but little hope of a good crop. The people around here say that when he cuts his clover it always brings rain. The societies churches and politicians would do well to note this fact in the future and make their appointments soon after neighbor C. gets his last crop of hay spoiled.

DR. J. W. GIVENS, who went to Salem last fall to take a course of lectures at the Medical College, has graduated with honor and received the degree of M. D. from that institution. Mr. Givens delivered the address to the graduating class which is well spoken of in the papers. Mr. Givens is we are informed the youngest graduate ever sent forth from that college. Dr. Bailey should be proud of his student's success.

SQUIRE HUGHES came down on the train Wednesday morning in his shirt sleeves looking for some freight that the Company had put off at this place through mistake of the consignee. Sam found it locked up in the Hillsboro warehouse and thinks that Halsey & Co. are getting somewhat soft in Hillsboro to leave Forest Grove freight here.

ANOTHER DOCTOR.—Hillsboro has no other doctor as may be seen by Dr. J. W. Givens' card in this issue. Dr. Givens has just received the diploma of M. D. at the Medical College at Salem, but has been engaged in the practice of medicine for a year or two previous to taking lectures at the college. His office is at Dr. Bailey's drug store.

Dr. Jno. Vitz has sold his property in Hillsboro to Chas. Livingston for $200.

Cornelius News.

Ed. INDEPENDENT.—Prof. Bank who lives near Cornelius owns a splendid milk cow. He states that from one pan of milk he churned one pound of butter. And she is only three years old. Every farmer in the county should have a cow like this.

It seems that "Jonny Smoker" has ceased to correspond with the INDEPENDENT. Perhaps he is like your humble servant, can't find anything to say and keeps still.

Last Saturday night when some of the Cornelius Good Temps. were returning from their visit to the Lodge at the Grove they started to the railroad track where they had a hand-car to go home on. The night was dark and three of the young men got separated from the company and their stomachs being full of ice cream and strawberry juice, lost their way. The rest of the party got on the hand car and went home, while the bewildered trio ran around a circle and did not reach home until three or four o'clock. Take your lantern next time, boys.

Justice DeLetts has had to mend several gates in Cornelius lately. The moon nights a fortnight ago was what was the matter. The moon has a damaging effect on gates you know.

CARL IN TROUBLE.—Last week after marriage Mr. Wilcox and wife took a short wedding trip up to Scoggin's valley to see a brother. On their way back Mr. Wilcox hitched the team and he and wife wandered off from the road gathering flowers and chatting as newly married folks ought to do. But on retracing their steps to where the team was hitched, to their chagrin and dismay it had got loose and taken the road home. They had to walk five miles before they found the team, some one having caught and stopped it. Five miles is a good walk in the light of the honeymoon.
