"Only Waiting." BY GLEN ELLIOTT.

Only waiting for a husband With a pocket full of cash; Only waiting to be married In a satin robe and sash. For I know that youth is fading With the light of closing day, And the star of hope is passing "Through the twilight soft and gray." Only waiting for a loved one To accept me for his own; Only waiting-yes, I'm waiting And my heart is sad and long. How I long to hear his footstep-

Yet I fear he'll miss the way: Still I'm watching, wishing, waiting, "Only waiting to obey."

Only waiting for an echo Of a distant nightbird's song; Only waiting in the shadow, Oh! why don't he come along? Ah! how I mistook his meaning In his accents soft and low-If he wishes me to have him, Well, perhaps, I might say no.
