LETTER FROM PHILADELPHIA.

A Webfoot On His Travels-The Exposition.

Phiadelphia, May 13, 1876.

Thinking that I might interest some of your readers I will give you some, things as they appear to Webfoot.

Purchasing a round trip ticket to the Centennial while I was in Cin cinnati (I could not get one unti the first of May) good for sixty days from date and return by way of New York and Niagara Falls, for the small sum of $30, shows the advantage to the traveling public of competing lines of railroad. Starting from the Queen City at 9-30 o'clock a. m., we left the best average built city in the Union, solid business blocks and beautiful suburbs; St. Louis, the largest city of the west, is rusty in appearance, the old part of the City having very narrow streets and alleys, and San Francis-Prosecuting Attorney, Higby, (R.) 4,304; co, with Montgomery street and the Palace Hotel and rickety outskirts and Chinese quarters remind one of ruffled shirt and moccasins. Ohio contains some fine country and West Virginia some very ragged hills. Waking up about 4 o'clock in the morning I looked out of the car window and saw the Blue Ridge mountains in the distance and we were whirling through the Shenandoah valley, stopping only two or three times in a hundred miles. The charming landscapes lighted up by the rising sun, appeared from the window of the lightning express, like the shifting scenes of the kaleid scope. Washington City in the month of May with its numerous and and extensive parks, its broad ave nues and streets, strike the beholder with admiration. After leaving the rains and fogs of Webfoot last winter, I thought Oakland, Cal. was an incipient garden of Eden, 113; Conkling 99; Hartranft 58; but Washington City is like Eden would have been if the Head Gard ener instead of being turned out for his shortcomings had been furnished tow 114; Conkling 93; Hartranft 58; with millions toward adorning it. the tax-payers groan while the trav-Third ballot-Blaine 293; Bristow eler admires. resembles the Sacramento valley. Arrived at Philadelphia on the 9th of May, late in the night and behind time, because of the heavy trains of passengers. Whether this is the City of Brotherly Love or not there is one command the hotel and restaurant keepers obey with a vimto "take the stranger in!" At the new hotels erected near the centennial buildings you may get as good accommodations for $5 per diem as you could get for $1.50 in Portland Leading papers say this must stop or there will be an exposition of landlords through their columns.

By nine o'clock on the opening 320 day the crowd was immense. Outside of the gates every street car was crammed to its utmost capacity, many breaking down. But those arriving on the cars seemed to be 160 outnumbered by the continuous stream pouring up Belmont Avenue 800 on foot. At nine o'clock the gates were opened, but the crowd was at the Centennial National Bank where the necessary fifty cent greenback could be procured. Two twentylive cent pieces won't do, ne'ther will a dollar take in two. No tickets are issued and nothing admits at the gate but a fifty cent piece or a free pass. In trying to get a position where I could see all the opening SY. ceremonies I took a stand midway between the main Exposition building and Memorial Hall. On a platform in front of the former the Orchestra and five hundred singers were seated. In front of the latter sat the President and dignitaries The music created little sensation until a solo was sung by Whitney of Boston, when the multitude seemed to grow wild and nothing would do but a repetition, which was given. There was quite a contrast in the style of public speaking between Gen. Hawley and Gen. Grant. The
