Following the Multitude. The Crowd Visiting Montgomery Queen's Great Circus and Caravan of Wild Beasts.

Manager Queen has rather determined that the Centennial shall not be enjoyed exclusively by the people of our Eastern States, and as California's representative showman, he intends bringing to the people's very doors a little world on wheels.

Mr. Queen may be set down as a modest gentleman, and one who would not for the entire production of Constock lode, over exaggerate the attractions of his great shows, but as his respondent and comment on his marvelous traveling world's fair is but, too briefly described, in the pages of the Queen's Advance Herald.

It is a matter of considerable astonishment and comment how such an establishment as Mr. Queen's can be made up, and for the secret we have made personal application to the head of this great institution, and we will give it in the enterprising proprietor's own language.

"When I embarked in the show business, I was satisfied that there was only one way to become successful. First, give the people better than was ever offered for their money; second, give them the rarest and most expensive attractions; third, buy the best outfit to be had; fourth, advertise extensively what you have actually got; fifth never disappoint the public and always pay the printer; this rule closely observed will insure not only the success in my business, but all others."

He then further states that he has expended more money refitting his show for the summer of 1876, than the original cost of the entire establishment and with a merry twinkle in his eye, he smiling remarked, as he viewed the vast surging crowds of people who were struggling to witness the great parade as it passed along Kearny street, "it always paid to get the best" and so we thought, as night after night, we looked upon the immense audiences that thronged the mighty pavilions to see the best show in the world, that it always paid to get the best.

The procession with its glittering equipage, the ornate carriages of gold, the sparkling emerald Tableau cars, the embroidered and silver-spangled silk and satin banners, artistically decorated with wild beast cages, gaily mounted armored cavaliers, brightly trapped India Elephants, the showy showered and plumed Dromedaries and Camels, the entrancing music, all contributed to establish confidence, and give evidence of the pure, chaste, classical, elegant and lightened equestrian and calisthenic exhibitions of the great Queen's show in which renowned emirs of England, France, Italy, Spain, Prussia, Austria, Russian South America and our own United States assembled, each with a friendly determination to carry off the honors in the tented arena. We would here observe that as the many new and difficult feats were in turn successfully accomplished, we felt at a loss, for where all is so good, it is not only difficult but impossible to say which is the best. The success of Queen's show in San Francisco is immense, they have been visited by over a hundred thousand delighted persons.

Mrs. C. Adams has returned from her trip to Illinois and Michigan after a stay of three months.

YOUNG MEN

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. DR. SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the aid of a remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage; remember that if you persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case is it so easy to cure as when you are in the first stage; remember that if you persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief.
