Special dispatch to the STANDARD from Salem announces the sad intelligence that Jennie Bilyeu committed suicide this morning at the residence of Joseph Thompson, Esq., the means selected being poison.

This young girl had placed faith in a young man whose heart was black while his face was fair, and failing her at the last moment impelled her to hide herself in death, trusting upon the ever-willing love of her Savior for forgiveness.

We pity the unfortunate girl from the bottom of our hearts, but we pity still more the cur of a man who deceives her and who, if he has a conscience, will be pricked to desperation and driven despairingly from among his kind and a wanderer, with the mark of Cain searing his very brain, and yet too great a coward to end his miserable existence in the way she has selected.

Discusses it. In this fever of political excitement it is not strange that men do strange things.

Yesterday we observed a party consisting of four men in front of this office at a wagon, and after discussing the merits of one of their horses in a loud voice one of them went down into the straw in the wagon and came up with a suspicious looking black bottle, when he grinned and passed it to No. 2 who took a mild snort, then No. 3 measured off 3 fingers on the bottle and took his physic like a man, but No. 4 shook his head and wouldn't take any in his.

The other fellows looked happily disappointed and put their "lightning" up. We don't go much on snobs but if we were to pass our opinion on the strength of that sign, our guess would be that No. 4 didn't feel well at the time, or had a reverential respect for this printing establishment.

Correction. In last week's issue an item appeared stating that "Dr. Bailey and Vite" had performed a surgical operation on a child's lip.

We wrote it Dr. Bailey and Vite, but the s. was omitted by the compositor. We are now informed that Dr. Vite was the principal in the case assisted by Dr. Bailey.

After a minutes reflection most any one should have seen by the construction of the sentence that the omission of the letter s. was a mistake. We had not been informed who was the principal or assistant in the case when the item was written.

We had a sort of general idea that one of the names ought if possible to precede the other, because it is a little difficult to put two words abreast in the same line. Big pardon, gentlemen.

For Tillamook. We learn from a correspondent that Walt Smith and Sam Raffety started on horse-back for Tillamook last Saturday from Quick's Canyon on a hunting and prospecting tour.

They go by way of Dougherty's river and intend spending a couple of months in hunting, fishing, prospecting etc. by the "sounding sea."

That Music. Some persons do not understand the statement in last week's paper that the brass band played on their occasion.

We will state for their satisfaction that Messrs. Watt and Bailey furnished that music and executed the same in a style that the brass band should always emulate.

Takes a Rest. H. B. Luce editor of this sheet has gone to visit his friends and relatives in Lane county, and will do the State Fair before returning.

He leaves ye foreman to assume the local dignity of this concern and we are dignified of course. If any one has any grievances, or subscriptions to settle, let him call on us and we will guarantee him satisfaction and a receipt also. Don't smother us, gentle subscriber with the "lure."

Arrested in Jail. Last Saturday a man giving his name as Elias Hughes was arrested in Butte precinct on complaint of Mrs. Belle Withcomb, charged with the larceny of a gold locket.

An examination was held before Justice Carpenter, and the prisoner fined $60, in default of which he was brought to this place and incarcerated in the county jail.

We have also examined the Clerk's and Treasurer's offices and find that they are in good condition.

S. J. Stott, Foreman. The Grand Jury reported no further business and were discharged.

Cornelius Items: Oct. 9th, 1876.

Cornelius at present wears a liveliest aspect. Gran is constantly arriving from the country. Considerable shipping is being done through the warehouse at this place, but the bulk I believe, is being stored. A good many farmers are holding their grain in anticipation of a higher price.

Our merchants all seem to have their share of the trade and are selling lots of goods. Kelso has invested in a new clerk and is going to take a spin to the State Fair. Al. Ennis will follow suit in company with several others of our citizens.

Several persons from this vicinity started last week for Goldendale, Klickitat county, W. T. to make new homes.

W. H. Parker, who has been industriously engaged in the granger business this summer, has concluded to make a change in avocation and will teach at Centerville this winter.

John Spencer returned from the Friendly Islands the other day. He says his "patent self-acting perpetual motion washing machine," and "magic grease extractor," didn't take worth a cent among the natives.

Serenading parties are the latest "rackets" in Cornelius. The place has some good lady vocalists who are really entertaining, but the bass of some of the boys elicits only base comments from the persecuted listener.

Mr. Hoopengartner is conducting a successful term of school at the Cornelius Academy.

A good shoe-maker will find Cornelius a good location for his business.

HERO. What is the matter with our correspondents "Grimes," "Grimes Jr.," "K. Y. Z.," "Kasper Linton," "Dandy Jim," "S. W.," of Beaverton, and others who used to furnish us with such interesting and spicy items. Let us hear from you, gentlemen, if you please.

The State Fair. Several of our citizens have gone to the annual gathering at the State Fair. A. Y. Boyce will try the huckster business up there, while D. L. Leathers of the candidate for an average restaurant on the grounds. A. Luelling, Wm. Jackson, R. Cave and others have gone also.

Says the Vancouver Independent: Gas manufactured from salmon heads, is a process lately patented by the Engineer of the steamer John L. Stephens. The head and entrails of an average salmon it is said will produce sufficient gas to supply two lights for eight hours.

Sick. We learn that two of Mr. Stepler, little daughters are lying ill of Typhoid fever. Two of the boys in the above named family have just recovered from its prostrating effects. Considerable sickness is reported throughout the county—in most cases typhoid fever being the prevailing malady.

Fair Warning. We will publish the next man that leaves this county owing us subscription if we are satisfied that he does it with the purpose of defrauding us out of the money. We will also publish him wherever he goes.

Thanks for Favors. We are under obligations to W. D. Pittenger for his excellent report of the proceedings in the Circuit court last week. Thanks to many subscribers for cash received.

Wanted Apples. Some good apples will be taken at this office on subscription. Leave them at our cabin near Sheriff Morgan's residence.

Forgot You. Will the gentleman who subscribed for R. C. Westfall please let us know which of the boys he is?

Circuit Court adjourned for the term last Friday.
