OFFICIAL PAPER FOR JACKSON COUNTY

ANOTHER VICTORY!!

[Salute No. 2.]

THE DEMOCRACY TRIUMPHANT IN NEW MEXICO!

NEW MEXICO REDEEMED!

"Sound the Hewgag!—Beat the Tom-Tom!"

New Mexico has wheeled into line beside Kentucky! We have lost California and Montana, but have captured New Mexico to work in double harness with Kentucky. New Mexico has no representative in the Senate and none in the House, while California has. Nevertheless, under the present circumstances, we don't propose to undervalue even a victory like that in New Mexico. The tremendous thrashing of the "New Departure" obtained for the Democracy in California disposes us to accept, with gratitude, even the smallest kind of triumphs as a species of compensation. Bullly for New Mexico! Hoo-ra-y!!

LOST, STRAYED OR STOLEN.

Last June a year ago Wm. M. Turner was elected School Superintendent of this county. The office is an important one, and the officer who receives the suffrages of the people should have regard enough for the people who elected him to attend to the business. The business of the office requires the constant attention of the Superintendent. Applications for teachers' certificates are being constantly made. Applications for the appraisement of school lands are also being made constantly, and the Superintendent is not authorized to delegate his power to any person else. Now, Mr. William M. Turner has been away from his office about a month, engaged in surveying east of the mountains, and the business of his office has been totally neglected. He expects to be away at least a month longer, and of course all business of the office must be neglected. If he cannot attend to his official duties, let him be manly enough to resign, instead of defrauding the people of the duties they have a right to expect him to perform. He cannot take a private contract to survey one hundred or one hundred and fifty miles east of the Cascades, and at the same time attend to his official duties. The attempt is a swindle on tax-payers who pay him to perform his official functions, which he totally neglects to fulfill. We say again, let him resign. Nobody knows where he is now. He is beyond the reach of any person who has business with the School Superintendent, and so far as the people are concerned he is lost, strayed or stolen. We offer a ten-cent shipplaster as a reward for his recovery.

WAS ONE HIMSELF.—It is suggested by a friend of our elbow that the reason His Excellency, Gov. Grover, paid so much respect to the demands of the Jackson county bolters, in regard to the appointment of County Judge, is that he knows how it is himself. Old Democrats will remember when Gov. Grover led a band of bolters from the Democratic State Convention, held at Eugene City on the 16th day of November, 1859, which was presided over by the late Hon. Delazon Smith. Indeed, Gov., "you know how it is yourself."

A DISCOVERY.—Our neighbor has made the discovery that the Democratic party is dead. It's no use for anybody to tell us that the Republicans have been saying the same thing for ten years past. This is an original discovery of our neighbor's, we assert. He is entitled to all the credit of it. Now what's he going to do with the corpse? It's been so lively heretofore that it won't stay buried. What is our sage cotemporary going to do with it?

BOTH ALIKE.—Judge Duncan can never make up his mind, owing to his vacillating disposition, and Bush used to say the same thing of Gov. Grover. He used to say that the latter was a "sexual mistake." Soils our Judge. He has the form of a man and the disposition of a woman.

IN THE HALTER.—The Plaindealer announces the marriage of Sheriff Van Buren, of Douglas county, to Miss Alice Wright.

"One more unfortunate." Lonely and troubled. Rashly importunate. Went—and got doubled."

JACKSON COUNTY.

The following we take from the S. F. Bulletin of Sept. 15th. It is from the pen of Mr. Hugh Small, a gentleman of culture, who has recently visited this section of country:

JACKSONVILLE, Aug. 31, 1871. The great canyon at the head of the Umpqua Valley south is a marvelous work of nature. It is at least ten miles long, and the mountains on each side, all the way, average some hundreds of feet high, heavily timbered on the highest point. The road is very narrow in some places, the inclines are steep and precipitous, but good horses and a competent driver gives an assurance of safety. I passed through this canyon by moonlight; it presented an aspect of wild, natural boldness and grandeur that was solemn and impressive.

JACKSON COUNTY AND ITS RESOURCES. The head of the canyon leads from Douglas into Jackson county, over the Rogue River Mountains, a rather tedious, rough and somewhat ascending and descending; but the reward is ample in beholding the fertile valleys below, that manifest signs of rich productive soil and abundant crops. The Rogue River is of inestimable value to Jackson county. It runs through the entire county, and from it proceeds numerous smaller streams, widely distributed, and into it flow numerous tributaries, and out of the mountain ranges are constantly running a vast number of springs of delightful water.

Along Little Butte Creek, Big Butte Creek, Antelope Creek, Stewart's Creek, and many others of a similar character, are valleys of great beauty and richness, producing crops of wheat, oats and barley, equal in quantity and quality to any in Oregon. This famous river has its rise in the Cascade Range, and runs into the Pacific Ocean, distributing in its course fertility, richness and beauty. The country is distinguished for its especially adapted for grazing, but its numerous valleys, large and small, are equally suitable for agricultural purposes.

The reason why its agricultural resources have not been more fully developed, is simply for want of a market beyond the local wants. The nearest port for hauling wheat for shipment is Crescent City, 120 miles distant. The price of wheat would not pay the inland freight alone, and therefore shipping wheat has been abandoned long since. Shipping for some time has been confined to wool and bacon, which have been the staples for many years, and the latter last season in particular. The climate of Jackson county is highly favorable to the production of GRAIN PRODUCTS. I have seen and examined a number of large fields of corn as neat and abundant as I ever saw in any of the Eastern States, and very little behind the yield of many of the Western States. Between corn, wheat and acorns, the raising of hogs in Jackson county will continue to be great and profitable. Chicago and the West may point in their respective farms and hogs into the San Francisco market, but when the Oregon and California railway reaches this country, the farmers and merchants will continue to compete successfully with them. The farmers of Oregon say that all they want is a clear stage, fair play and a convenient market, and they will hold their own with any on wheat and flour, hogs, ham and bacon, cattle, sheep and wool.

FRUITS. I have visited several vineyards in the neighborhood of Jacksonville, and I have found them in a very favorable condition, laden with every variety of grapes. Some of these vineyards are from ten to fifty acres in extent, and are being cultivated extensively. One of the small vineyards produced 700 gallons of wine last year. The soil, climate and foothills of Jackson county are admirably adapted for grapes. There is now no doubt in the minds of intelligent men here but that this country will be as distinguished for vines and grapes, peaches and figs, almonds and apples, pears and plums, cherries and currants, as it is for the production of herds and flocks, wool and hogs.

JACKSONVILLE Is a town of considerable importance. It has a population of 800. The whole aspect of the place indicates business, life and trade. There are a number of large stores, fine houses, neat cottages and good public buildings, such as the County Court House, churches, private schools, and above all, a first-class public school, and a fine academy just being finished. There are the usual number of professional gentlemen; a fair percentage of them are distinguished in their line. The town enjoyed great prosperity during the early discovery from 1852, onwards. Now it is depending almost wholly upon the rich and prosperous agricultural and grazing districts of the county.

GOLD MINING. The limited fall of rain during the winter, and the dry summers of the last three years, have rendered gold mining unprofitable, and will continue so until a sufficient supply of water from some quarter can be obtained. Placer, hydraulic and quartz mining were very productive from 1852 till 1866, in the neighborhood of Jacksonville and the surrounding districts. During that time more than $15,000,000 were taken out of these mines. Some of these mines are still wrought to advantage during the winter months, but the great majority of them are useless at present, for want of water. There is an abundance of water in the river and lakes of the county, but the expense in cutting a ditch to secure a supply would be considerable. There is plenty of capital in Jacksonville to accomplish this desirable object. All that is wanted is an experienced, competent and energetic leader to head such a movement, to call out the individual and united co-operation of the wealthy and intelligent men of the town and county to organize a company for this purpose.

THE PRICE OF BLOOD.—According to Justice Gillette, a man's life is worth just $3,000. This is an Indian way of viewing the thing. Why didn't the Justice order Wells to turn over three or four cause horses to Dennis' Adm'r, and say no more about it? If a man's life can be paid for at all, why would not cause horses do as well as greenbacks? It would be much easier on Wells, and Gillette's sympathies were all with him.

A CARD FROM DR. DAVIS.

EDITOR TIMES: Please allow me to trouble you with this card. In justice to myself and Dr. Danforth, who assisted me in treating Dr. Greenman in his last sickness, allow me to say that we frequently told Dr. Greenman's many friends that we considered him convalescent, and that unless something unforeseen occurred he would get well; and as he died of unforeseen perforation of the intestine, an explanation is necessary, which cannot be better done than "Wood's Practice of Medicine" does it on page 341, vol. I, fifth edition, which is as follows:

"There is occasionally a fatal termination of this disease (Enteric or Typhoid Fever) of a peculiar character which it is necessary to notice. The patient is suddenly seized, without any premonitions of danger, perhaps in the midst of convalescence, with violent pains in the abdomen, which is occasionally tender to the touch. Sometimes there is no pain, but only tenderness. The knees are drawn up, and the face assumes an anxious, and even a ghastly expression; rigors, an exceedingly frequent and contracted pulse. Obstinate vomiting, and constipation are frequent symptoms. A collapse of the circulation of the surface precedes death, which usually takes place in a day or two, though life is sometimes prolonged for a week. The cause of these symptoms is a perforation of the intestine and the escape of its liquid contents, producing inflammation of the peritoneum. It is more frequently the mild than the aggravated cases of the disease that are liable to this accident. It occurs at variable periods in the complaint, having been noticed as early as the twelfth day and as late as the fortieth."

This description of Dr. Wood so fully answers Dr. Greenman's agonizing symptoms for the last two days of his life that all of his nurses and watches will immediately recognize them as applicable to his case. L. T. DAVIS. Jacksonville, Sept. 21th, 1871.

OREGON, it seems, is not to have everything her own way. She has more than her share of water, and we would be glad to draw a small portion of it. But there are drawbacks to the prosperity of the people there as elsewhere. Oregon has a glorious future before her, no doubt; but the thousands of horse-seeking people constantly moving in that direction will do well not to expect too much of the country to which they are going, as it is not a land flowing with milk and honey by any means. G. W. Riggs, just returned from Goose Lake, informs the Dalles Republican that there are five hundred settlers in the valley, and the crickets have nearly destroyed the crops. Messrs. Davis, Woods and Clark, who went from Polk county to Pit river last Spring, with stock, could find no location in that part to suit them, and Mr. Davis located on Link river. Messrs. Woods and Clark, when last heard from, were in Goose Lake country, talking of going to Eastern Oregon.—Sacramento Reporter.

As an offset to the above, we will state that Mr. Abram Tenbrook, one of the pioneer settlers of Rogue River Valley, but now residing in Goose Lake Valley, planted wheat on his farm in the latter valley as late as the 5th of June, and harvested the same three weeks ago, the crop yielding between fifty and sixty bushels to the acre. It is not true that the crickets have nearly destroyed the crops. It is true that they did some damage, but Mr. Riggs greatly exaggerates it. How Messrs. Woods and Clark could go from Goose Lake to "Eastern Oregon," is a mystery to any person who knows anything of the geography of the country, seeing that Goose Lake is in that division of Oregon.

Nevertheless, the old Poison is laid upon the shelf, and we would recommend in confidence to those who have tried and received but temporary relief from the use of the many Quinine Mixtures, to

It is nature's own remedy, being composed of vegetable matter, and skillfully prepared. It seeks the root of the disease, and with its magic influence performs a cure.

The Wonder of Wonders—The Great Ague King.

I wonder if wonders are ever to cease. At present all wonders are on the increase; of the latest I now will give you a hint. Look at the Ague King of Cowan & Flint.

No Quinine, no Mercury, nor Arsenic we find. Were ever compounded or with it combined? This wonder, the doctors were usually sure. Could never be done and make a good cure.

We confess it astounds us, and wonderfully too. To see what the Ague King daily does do. If you're Fever, or Ague, or any such thing, Go promptly and purchase the great Ague King.

I'd shaken so long, till every kind friend Comelyingly told me to fix my mind; Oh! life was so sweet, I wished not to die. Therefore the Ague King I hastened to try.
