SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 11, 1871.

HIS WIFE'S MOTHER.

He stood on his head on the wild sea shore, And danced on his hands a jig ; In all his emotions, as never before, A madly hilarious grig.

And why? In that vessel that left the bay His mother-in-law had sailed To a tropical country some distance away, Where tigers and serpents prevailed.

He know she had gone to recruit her health, And doctor her rasping cough, But wagered himself in a profusion of wealth That something would carry her off.

Oh. now he might look for a quiet life, And even be happy yet, Though owning no end of neuralgical wife, And up to his collar in debt ;

For she of the specs and curled false front, And the black alpaca robe, Must pick out a sailor to suffer the brunt Of her next daily trial of Job.

He watched while the vessel cut the sea, And humpishly upped and downed, And thought if already she squalmish could be He'd consider the edifice crowned !

He'd berae the eld lady through thick and thin, Till she'd lectured him out of breath ; And now, as he gazed at the ship she was in, He howled for her vielent death-

Till over the azure horizon's edge The bark had retired from view, When he leaped to the crest of a chalky ledge, And praneed like a kangaroo.

And many a jubilant peal he sent O'er the waves which had made him free, Then cut a last caper ecstatic, and went, Turning somersaults, homeward to tea.
