A RIDE FOR LIFE. [From the Portland Bulletin, Nov. 10.] Yesterday there occurred on the Oregon and California Railroad, between this city and Salem, one of the most thrilling railroad incidents we have ever heard of...

A FOOLISH WOMAN. When the down train came near one of the stations on the road, it was running at full speed, in order to make up time, as it was a few minutes behind. The road at this point runs through a cut some thirty feet more than a mile in length, and in entering it the road makes a curve, so that the engineer cannot see entirely through it.

THE RACE FOR LIFE. The woman, hearing the peculiar death-whistle of the locomotive, looked over her shoulder and saw the train rushing at her. She did not shriek, nor faint, nor give up all hope, but, like a true widow, her courage rose equal to the emergency, and, without a moment's hesitation, she commenced swinging her riding-whip from one shoulder to her head to the other, thereby urging him to exert his utmost speed.

NERVE AND PLUCK. There was, perhaps, thirty feet intervening between the cow catcher and the horse's heels, when, fortunately for the woman, she observed in plain view a little wider than usual, and, with a steady rein, she guided the fleeing horse from the track and endeavored to press him against the wall of the cut, in order that the train might pass without injury.

CARE OF HORSE'S LEGS.—Few men who handle horses give proper attention to the feet and legs. Much time is spent on a morning rubbing, brushing and smoothing the hair on the sides and hips, but at no time are the feet examined and properly cared for.

AN IMPORTANT STEP.—Cornelius Sullivan, a miner, left Eureka the other morning on foot, to come to Treasure City. Ten miles from Eureka a chunky bandit stepped out into the road with a pistol in his hand, and requested Con to "throw up his hands."

A RURAL youngster stepped into the postoffice at Albany one day last week, says the Democrat, and asked if there was anything for J.—H.—. The clerk answering in the negative, he looked blank, searched his head and said, "Well, gol dern it, ain't that nary nuther postoffice in this yer town?"

A beautiful blond went into a Troy cigar store to make some purchases. When shaking her head to announce that the goods did not please her, her auriferous tresses touched the patent cigar lighter and instantly took fire. She pulled the wool off and stamped out the fire, to the amusement of the bystanders.

SIMON'S WIFE'S MOTHER. A countryman was in New York on an August Sunday, and crossed the Brooklyn ferry in the morning, for the purpose of hearing Beecher. But lo! the Plymouth pulpit was occupied by a stranger, who delivered a tedious, common-place sermon from the text, "And behold Simon's wife's mother lay sick of a fever."

SELECTING SEED.—All improvements in seed have been the result of selection. The best seed selected for use has yielded an improved product, and the process again and again repeated has finally resulted in securing the plant, root, or grain desired.

BREACHES OF PROMISE IN JAPAN.—The curious hold superstition has on the mind of the Japanese is very well illustrated by the proceedings taken by a Japanese damsel when her lover proves false to his vows.

ABOUT THAT PETITION.—Among the residents of Jackson county who signed the famous petition to Surveyor General Odell, in reference to swamp lands at Klamath, we find the name of Jesse D. Carr, by Jesse Appllegate.

DIVORCES.—Six divorces were granted in the Linn Circuit Court, last week, and eight more are on the docket at Eugene for the present term.

TERRIFIC SPEED.—Bloomington (Ill.) sent her fire engines to the assistance of Chicago. In two hours and forty minutes after they left Bloomington they were throwing water in Chicago.

A LETTER from Senator Carpenter estimates that the lives lost by the forest and prairie fires in Wisconsin will number from 1,200 to 1,500.

A WISCONSIN musician sat down upon a keg of powder and began to smoke. They found one button.

THE SPHYNX. The following extract from Mark Twain's "Innocents Abroad," is certainly the finest piece of word-painting we have read for years. It is poetry without rhyme, and music without sound. It is an epigram and a sermon all at once, and we doubt if any living writer has equalled it for force and elegance of expression.

APPROACHING DECEMBER ECLIPSE OF THE SUN.—On the 12th of next December there is to be a total eclipse of the sun. It will be visible close by Arabia, first in the open sea. It will traverse the northern part of the Indian peninsula.

CLEANLINESS.—A neat, clean, fresh-aired, sweet, cheerful, well-arranged house exercises a moral influence over its inmates, and makes the members of a family peaceful and considerate of each other's feelings and happiness.

ANALYSIS OF A LITTLE MAN BY A GREAT ONE.

Following is an extract from the very elaborate, powerful and remarkable speech of Senator Davis of Kentucky, delivered at Louisville recently: I would desire to give a true analysis of President Grant, "naught to extenuate, nor to set down aught in malice."

While holding a military position subordinate to President Johnson as Commander-in-Chief, he entered into the foul conspiracy to have him removed by impeachment, and used his influence with the Court to procure its judgment of conviction. He is the only President of the United States who has ever accepted the scandal of allowing himself to be subsidized, and he gave the offices and trusts of the people to his subscribers and their friends a quid pro quo.

He was a pauper when he entered the public service during the war, and his wealth now amounts to hundreds of thousands. The means by which he has accumulated it has prepared the public to believe the charge made against him of belonging to a ring for gigantic plunder, connected with the acquisition of Dominica, to be true. He has appointed his subscribers and their friends to office to honor all his predecessors together, with a general unfitness of his appointees. He has been more absent from Washington City, and has given far less attention to the duties of his office, than any former President, thus resulting in part from his greater ignorance of them.

During the vacations of Congress, he is rollicking about at the watering places, large cities and other points, in quest of fast and smart horses, boon companions and sensual life; and there is no prudent man, well acquainted with him, who would confide to him any important private business. He has no proper comprehension of the great principles of our Government; no appreciation of its true dignity and value; no knowledge of or taste for the details of its administration; no fitness for his office, or interest in it, except for the adulation and subsidies and revelry, and opportunities to enrich himself, his relations, and flatterers which it brings him.

SAVINGS BY JOSH BILLINGS.—"I am rather favorably impressed with gin and milk, as an extract, and think a minister of the gospel might contend with sum on it on the sili, successfully; but when he cums tew reckomend it tew his people, I have mi doubts about it, unless he knows his people better than I do."

"There are people who don't do anything but watch their symptoms. I have seen dogs akekt just as sensible; I have seen a rat terrier watch the symptoms of a knot hole in a board fence, and sum sum rat to cum out, but no rat didn't cum out."

"It is our duty tew pray for them who revile and persecute us, but I don't know as we are obliged tew let them know it. It is hard tew quit law while we are winning. It is just so in morals; men seldom undertake tew get religion as long as they can get anything else."

"The highest rate of interest that we pay is on borrowed trouble—things that are always going tew happen, never do happen."

"Face all things—even adversity iz polite tew a man's face."

"If I had a boy whose hair wouldn't part in the middle, I should bedew that hair with a parent's tear, and then give up that boy."

DEVICES OF AUTUMN LEAVES.—An exquisite transparency may be made by arranging pressed ferns, grasses and Autumn leaves on a pane of window glass, overlapping another pane of the same size over it, and binding the edge with ribbon, having the group imprisoned between. Use gum tragacanth in putting on the binding. It is well to secure a strip of paper under the ribbon. The binding should be gummed all around the edge of the first pane, and dried before the leaves, ferns, etc., are arranged; then it can be neatly folded over the second pane without difficulty. To form the loop for hanging the transparency, paste a binding of galloon along the edge, leaving a two-inch loop free in the centre, afterward to be pulled through a little slit in the final binding. Leaves so arranged will preserve their beauty the entire winter.

BRANDY PRODUCTS OF THE UNITED STATES.—An official statement prepared at the Internal Revenue Office at Washington, shows that the total amount of brandy manufactured in the United States from fruit distillation during the last fiscal year was 2,199,733 gallons. Of this amount California manufactured 136,685 gallons; Kentucky, 239,233 gallons; New Jersey, 411,596 gallons; New York, 128,662 gallons; North Carolina, 374,690 gallons; Virginia, 297,317 gallons.
