THE BEST COW IN PERIL.

Old farmer B. is a stingy man. He keeps all he gets and gets all he can ; By all his friends he is said to be As tight as the bark on a young birch tree ; He goes to church, and he rents a pew, But the dimes that he gives to the Lord are few. If he gets to heaven with the good and great, He will be let in through the smallest gate.

Now, Farmer B., besides drags the plows, Keeps a number of very fine calves and cows ; He makes no butter, but sends by express, The milk to the city's thirstiness.

"What do the city folks know about milk ? They are better judges of cloth and silk ; Not a man who buys, I'll vow can tell If I water it not, or water it well ; If they do not know, then where's the sin ! I will put the sparkling water in.' Thus talked, to himself, old Farmer B. ; How mean he is old and young can see.

One night it was dark, oh ! fearfully dark ; The watch dog never came out to bark ; Old Farmer B. in his bed did snore ; When rap, rap, rap, nearly shattered his door ; And a voice cried out with a hasty breath, "Your best cow, neighbor, is choking to death."

Clipping off the end of a rousing snore, Farmer B. bounded out on the bedroom floor ; And the midnight voice was heard no more ; He pulled on his pants, he knew not how, For his thoughts were all on the choking cow ; He flow to the yard like a frightened dear, For his stingy soul was filled with fear. Looking around by his lantern's light, He found that the cows were there, all right.

"I will give a dime," cried Farmer B., "To know who played this trick on me ; May the hand be stiff and the knuckle sore, That knocked to-night on my farmhouse door."

With a scowl on his face and a shaking head, Farmer B. again sought his nice warm bed ; No good thoughts came-they were all o'erpowered, The little good nature he had was soured.

When he went to water his milk next day, The midnight voice seemed again to say, As he pumped away with a panting breath, "Your best cow, neighbor, is choking to death." The meaning of this he soon found out, For a stone was driven in the old pump's spout !

Old farmer B., when he drives to town, Now meets his Aeighbors with savage frown ; They smile, and ask as they kindly bow, "How getteth along the best cow now?"

a breath of air and a beat of the heart between this world and the next. And in in us, that we are powerless, and He allpowerful, and the last pulsation here is but a prelude of endless hereafter, we feel that in the midst of the calamity about to befall us, that earth has no compensating good to the serverity of our loss. But there is no grief without some beneficent provisions to soften its intensities. When the good and lovely die, memory of their good deeds, like the moonbeams on the stormy sea, light up our darkened hearts, and lends to the surroundings a beauty so sad, so sweet, that we would not, if we
