THE ART OF MAKING MONEY.

One great cause of the poverty of the present day, is the failure of many people to appreciate small things.

They say if they cannot save large sums they will not save anything. They do not realize how a daily addition, be it ever so small, will make a large pile. If the young men and women of to-day will only begin, and begin now, to save a little from their earnings, and invest it in some savings bank, and weekly or monthly add to their mite, they will wear a happy smile of content and independence when they reach middle life.

Not only will the pile increase, but the ability and desire to increase it will soon grow. Let the clerk and tradesman, the artisan and laborer, make now a beginning. Store up some of your force and vigor for future contingency. Let parents teach their children to begin to save. Begin at the fountain's head to control the stream of extravagance, and the work will be easy to choose between poverty and riches. Let our youths go in the way of extravagance for fifteen years to come and we shall have a nation of beggars, with a moneyed aristocracy. Let a generation of such as save small sums be reared, and we shall be free from want. Do not be ambitious for extravagant fortunes, but seek that which is the duty of every man--independence and comfortable homes. Wealth in sufficient abundance is within the reach of all. It can be only by had by one process--Saving!

A Youth Who Couldn't Drink Wine.

There was a noble youth who, on being urged to take wine at the table of a famous statesman in Washington, had the moral courage to refuse. He was a poor young man, just beginning the struggle of life. He brought letters to the great statesman, who kindly invited him home to dinner.

"Not take a glass of wine?" said the great statesman, in wonderment and surprise.

"Not one simple glass of wine?" echoed the statesman's beautiful and fascinating wife, as she arose, glass in hand, and, with a grace that would have charmed an anchorite, endeavored to press it upon him.

"No," said the heroic youth, resolutely, gently repelling the proffered glass.

What a picture of moral grandeur was that! A poor, friendless youth refusing wine at the table of a wealthy and famous statesman, even though proffered by the fair hands of a beautiful lady.

"No," said the noble young man, and his voice trembled a little and his cheek flushed. "I never drink wine, but--(here he straightened himself up and his words grew firm)--if you've got a little good old rye whiskey I don't mind trying a snifter!"

The Length of Days.

The days of summer grow longer as we go northward, and the days of winter shorter. A Hamburg the longest day has seventeen hours, and the shortest seven. At Stockholm the longest has eighteen and a half hours, and the shortest five and a half. At St. Petersburg the longest has nineteen and the shortest five hours. At Finland the longest has twenty-hours and a half, and the shortest two and a half. At Wandorbus, in Norway, the day lasts from the twenty-first of May to the second of July, the sun not getting below the horizon for the whole time, but skimming along very close to it in the north. At Spitzbergen the longest day lasts three months and a half.

A Fighting Widow.

Telfair county, Georgia, boasts of a lady--widow of a Confederate soldier--who is very social in a small row. A pedagogue living on her land threatened to wallop her recently and pretty soon thereafter attempted to carry out his threat. He was the worst fooled man in the Union. The widow knocked him down and walked all over him; then she set him up on his feet and jerked him out of his socks; then she snatched him bald-headed, and finally snatched the ceremony by paddling him with a board until he had the hysterics.

How Long a Man Can Starve.

A man will die for want of air in five minutes, for want of sleep in ten days, for want of water in a week, for want of food at varying intervals, depending on constitution, habits of life and the circumstances of the occasion. Instances have been given where persons have been said to live many weeks without eating a particle of food; but opportunities have offered a fair investigation of the case, it has invariably been found that a weak and wicked fraud has been at the bottom of it.

AFTER LIVINGSTONE AGAIN.

This time the search for the distinguished explorer of all the hitherto unexplored regions of Africa and the everlasting loser of himself will be prosecuted by Major Purdy, with a command of 5,000 Egyptian troops, under orders of the Khedive, who has become very much interested himself in discovering the puzzle of ages--the source of the Nile. Major Sparrow Purdy is the son of Samuel Purdy, formerly Lieutenant Governor of California, and served in the United States Army during the civil war with fair distinction. He resigned to accept military service in the Khedive Egyptian army a few years ago, and has steadily enjoyed promotion up to his present responsible command. Stanley has the eternal honor of finding Dr. Livingstone, but that was a year ago, and Major Purdy will doubtless find him a lost man again whenever he overtakes him. We hope the good Doctor will have found the source of the Nile while he is losing himself this time, and that they both shall continue found and not be the subject of search forevermore. Then, too, Purdy can write a book as another great American finder of the great lost Scotch Missionary who always turns up with precious intelligence of valuable discoveries.

The Diamond Swindle Exposed.

The Arizona diamond swindle has been exposed. An exploring party made a thorough exploration of the region of country and the particular butte where the diamonds and rubies were said to have been obtained; and they report that they found incontestable evidence that the ground had been "salted"--that is to say, the diamonds, rubies and other stones had been placed in the ground by some of the conspirators, and were afterwards pretendedly discovered and dug out. Sharpers made some $750,000 out of a set of prominent San Francisco and New York citizens, who bit at their "sell."

A Fair Hit.

A crusty old fellow who thinks women are expensive as well as pretty, has discovered that from the middle of 1862 to the last of June, 1872, the United States paid Paris the sum of $260,000,000; that this amount was forwarded in gold, on account of jewelry, laces, silks, gloves, crapes, merinos, hats, human air, and miscellaneous toilet articles. One of the "dears" suggests that he now apply his talents to the ascertaining how much the United States paid Havana during the same period for cigars alone. A pretty "fair" hit.

A Strong Current of Air.

The current of air created by the flames in the Boston fire was so great that fragments of paper were carried sixteen miles away. Leaves of checkbooks and ledgers were found at Quincy, Hanover and East Wymouth. Cinders fell in Abington, Hanover and Pembroke. A charred $50 note was picked up at East Abington. The glare of the conflagration was seen by night at Concord, N. H., and the light was distinctly visible nineteen miles at sea, and was also noticed off the Isle of Shoals.

New Process of Coloring Apples.

A Californian has discovered a new process for coloring apples. The fruit is picked and laid upon the ground in long flat piles, under the half-shade of the trees. It is desirable to give them as much sunlight as they will bear without sunburning. In two or three weeks the apples on top will be richly colored. Such varieties as the Baldwins, Smith's cider, and the Spitzenberg are greatly improved in appearance by the process.

Dark Doings.

The proceedings of the South Carolina Legislature may be properly designated dark doings. The Senate is composed of thirty-three members, of whom sixteen are negroes, and the House of Representatives of 124, of whom 80 are negroes. The whole Legislature is composed of 96 negroes and sixty-one whites. Color predominates there.

Another Rich Nugget.

A 538-ounce gold nugget was lately found in Australia. It was in the wall of an old trench that was cut about nine years ago, when a large number of men were at work in the locality. The successive rain-falls had, with the continuous washing and crumbling away of the soil, brought this handsome little fortune into daylight.
