A HUNTING EXPEDITION TO SODA SPRINGS.

BUTTE CREEK, August 4, 1873.
EDITOR DEMOCRATIC TIMES:
Much have the Soda Springs been lauded for their medicinal qualities.

A party from the classic town of Jacksonville took a notion to test the realities of the waters, etc., and so a pilgrimage was inaugurated.

Wholly was it made up of the lords of Oregon, composing six men, a dog, a big boy, a white mule, more boys, many horses and a wagon.

On the 21st day of July this party sounded its bugle long before the sun had any idea of getting up.

COUNTING A HUNDRED.

A Danbury man named Reubens recently saw a statement that counting one hundred when tempted to speak an angry word would save a man a great deal of trouble.

Reubens was prompted to call him a mudsnot, a new name just coming into general use, but he remembered his resolution, put down his rage and meekly observed:

"One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight—"

Then the mad neighbor, who had been eyeing this answer with a great deal of suspicion, broke in again:

"Why don't you answer my question, you rascal?"

"Nineteen, eighteen, nineteen, twenty, twenty-one—"

"You are a mean skunk," said the mad neighbor, backing toward the fence.

Reubens' face flushed at this charge, but he only said:

"Twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five, twenty-six—"

At this figure the neighbor got upon the fence in some haste, but suddenly thinking of his peas, he opened his mouth:

"You mean, low-lived rascal, for two cents I would knock your cracked head over a barn, and I would—"

"Twenty-seven, twenty-eight," interrupted Reubens, "twenty-nine, thirty, thirty-one, thirty-two, thirty-three—"

"Here the neighbor broke for the house, and entering it, violently slammed the door behind him; but Reubens did not dare let up on the enumeration, and so he stood out there alone in his own yard, and kept on counting, while his burning cheeks and flashing eyes eloquently affirmed his judgment.

"Why, Reubens, man, what is the matter with you?" she said. "Do come into the house."

But he didn't let up. She came out to him, and clung trembling to him, but he only looked into her eyes, and said:

"Ninety-three, ninety-four, ninety-five, ninety-six, ninety-seven, ninety-eight, ninety-nine, one hundred—go into the house, old woman, or I'll bust ye."

And she went.—Danbury News.

POISONS AND THEIR ANTIDOTES.

We give a list of the principal poisons with their antidotes, taken from Paine's Practice, which it will be well to keep for reference:

Oil of vitriol, aqua fortis, spirit of salt—Magnesia, chalk, soap and water. Emetic tartar—Oily drinks, solution of oak bark.

Salt of lemons or acid of sugar—Chalk, whiting, lime or magnesia water. Sometimes an emetic draught. Prussic acid—Pump on back, smelling salts to nose, artificial breathing, chloride of lime to nose.

Pearlash, soap lyas, smelling salts, nitre, hartshorn, sal volatile—Lemon juice, and vinegar and water.

Arsenic, fly powder or white arsenic, king's yellow or yellow arsenic—Emetics, lime-water, soap and water, sugar and water, oily drinks.

Mercury, corrosive sublimate, calomel—White of eggs, soap and water. Opium, laudanum—Emetic draught, vinegar and water, dashing cold water on chest and face, walking up and down for two or three hours.

Lead, white lead, sugar of lead, Goulard's extract—Epsom salts, castor oil and emetics.

Copper, blue stone, verdigris—Whites of eggs, sugar and water, castor oil, gruel.

Zinc—Lime-water, chalk and water, soap and water.

Iron—Magnesia, warm water. Henbane, hemlock, nightshade, foxglove—Emetic and castor oil, brandy and water, if necessary.

Poisonous food—Emetics and castor oil.

WOMEN'S LEGS.—Here is something from the Book of Beauty that is strictly local here or anywhere else. Women should read it:

"A handsome leg is a rarity, we had almost said an impossibility among American women. The reason of this is the place where they wear their garters. No French woman, no English woman of cultivation, now-a-days wears her garter below the knees. It is ruinous to the shape of the calf. More than this it has serious consequences of another kind. The principal vein of the leg, vena saphena brevis, runs just beneath the skin until it nearly reaches the knee, when it skins beneath the muscles. Now, if this is constricted at its largest point by a tight garter, the blood is checked in its return to the heart, the feet are easily chilled, and more liable to disease; the other veins of the legs are swollen into hard blue knots, become varicose, as it is called, and often break, forming obstinate ulcers. This is a picture which a physician sees nearly every day. With the garter fastened above the knee all the pain and deformity is avoided, but it is still better to wear no garter at all, and to suspend the stockings by tapes around the waist. In this case however a well-fitting stocking is needed."

USE OF A RECEIPT.—An Indian of the Choctaw tribe, Kiser by name, owed a lawyer some money. The lawyer had waited a long time for the tin. His patience at last gave out and he threatened the Indian with lawsuits, processes and executions. The poor Choctaw got scared, and finally brought the money to the creditor. He waited for the lawyer to give him a receipt. "What are you waiting for?" said the lawyer. "Receipt," said the Indian. "A receipt!" said the lawyer—"a receipt!" What do you know about a receipt? Can you understand the nature of a receipt? Tell me the use of one and I will give it to you." The Indian looked at him a moment and then said: "S'pose, may be, me die; me go to heben; me find de gate locked; me see Apostle Peter; he says, 'Kiser, what you want?' me say, 'Want to get in?' he say, 'You a good man?' me say, 'Yes?' he say, 'You pay Mr. A. that money?' What me do? I hab no receipt—hab to hunt all over h—ll to find you." He got his receipt.

COST OF ABUSING MILCH COWS.—Harris Lewis, the eminent (Herkimer county, New York) dairyman, said lately in an address to the Board of Agriculture, that he had known a cow which uniformly gave eighteen per cent. of cream to her milk, to decrease her yield to six per cent. in the short space of twelve hours, merely from the excitement caused from the bad treatment of a brutal milker. It was not guess work, because he used graduated glasses to test the matter. This shows pretty conclusively that it does not pay dairymen to allow their cows to be ill treated. And in ill treatment is to be included anything that will alarm or excite them—fast driving to and from pastures, worrying by dogs, yelling at them and threatening demonstrations by boys, etc. Civility and good nature pay, even when bestowed on cows.—Mass. Ploughman.

A SAD CASE.—The dispatches from San Francisco inform us that Robert Butler, formerly of Oregon, was recently sent to the Insane Asylum of California. He imagines that swarms of insects are holding anti-Chinese meetings in his stomach. Well, this is altogether the worst phase of the Chinese question has assumed. It is bad enough to have it on the brain, but it must be horrible to have it discussed in the stomach.

THE TOMATO.—The doctors are down on the tomato of late years, and seemingly can't think of anything too bad to say of it. Dickens had already depicted the disastrous consequences of "chops and tomato sauce," and not long ago Dr. Lewis published the astounding statement that tomatoes made the teeth fall out. Now, an Indian doctor declares that the eating of tomatoes is one of the most common causes of insanity, and evidence as to eating them will doubtless soon be used to fortify the plea of emotional insanity.
