OREGON NEWS.

Yaquina Bay is furnishing fresh oysters to the Willametteans.

Green B. Smith, of Benton county, has just threshed 5,000 bushels of oats from sixty acres of land.

Three men dug out $1,260 in five days work, on Myrtle creek, Curry county, about a fortnight ago.

There are now twenty-six Farmers' Granges in Oregon. The State Grange will probably be organized in about four weeks.

It appears from the telegraphic dispatches that Mayor Felling wrote to New York declining aid for the Portland sufferers.

A ledge of pure chalk has been found in the vicinity of Lake creek, Clatsop plains. It is said to equal any in the Portland market.

H. Price, of Salem, boasts of a horse that was never frightened but once in twenty years. He had ought to be fed on oats oftener than that.

Rumors of rich discoveries of gold and quartz on the headwaters of the Owyhee, having reached Baker City, a large prospecting party has gone to see what there is in them.

The Willamette Woolen Manufacturing Company of Salem are now manufacturing blankets which sell for $30 per pair. They are, in size, 7x9 feet, and weigh fifteen pounds and are around in silk.

Mrs. M. B. Virgil has written a letter to the Forest Grove Independent, in which she applies for a situation as school teacher, wood chopper or any other lucrative business by which she can earn her daily bread.

Our advices from several parts of the State, are to the effect that farmers are making unusual preparations for an exhibit of their products at the State Fair, next month. They have raised this year the best crops of grain ever produced in the State...

The State Board of Equalization meets at Salem, in accordance with law, on the 9th day of September. The duties of the Board comprise the equalization of assessment between the various counties, and an examination as to the proper discharge of the official obligations resting upon the various Assessors throughout the State.
