CHURNING MILK VS. CREAM.-A question which is often asked is with regard to making butter by churning the milk instead of the cream alone. My own experience has taught me that the milk first drawn from the cow has no butter-at least one-third of the milking; therefore, churning this milk is only time and labor lost. My plan for the Legislature and offices of the has been to take from the cow such a different departments of the State portion of the first milk as is necessary Government. One S.
