More Corruption.

The telegraph is again teeming with the reports of the investigation by Congress of what is called the Pacific Mail Steamship corruption. From the | 000,000 worth of precious metals last this steamship company was desirous the previous year. of securing some large subsidies from sum of $750,000 in the hands of Richard B. Irwin to be used in furthering their desires. Irwin says he used it all in lobbying for these subsidies, but the country, it is asserted that not one the Company entertains a different opinion, and has entered suit against him. From this quarrel seems to have sprung the entire investigation. Wm. 8. King, a former Postmaster of the House, and lately elected as Republican member of Congress from the Third Minnesota District, appears to have distributed the greater portion of the money. Other members of Congress are implicated. Irwin has been examined, but refuses to divulge names, and he has been imprisoned for contempt of Congress. He acknowledges to having paid as high as $300,000 to one member. This is a second Credit Mobilier transaction, and promises to be quite interesting.

Consolidated Virginia late excited so much wonder, are nothand California shares sell at upwards of $700 each, and there seems to be a great raise in every stock sold. Fortunes have been made in a few days, some realizing hundreds of thousands and some a million, while the firm of Flood & O'Brien has realized tens of millions, and is now reputed to be worth $100,000,000. Whether the discovery of this bonanza is only a myth, started by Sharon to get even on the Nevada Senatorial canvass, in which he is reported to have spent nearly a million trying to succeed Stewart, or is a reality, seems to be a leading question. A tremendous crash may be looked for any day, and perhaps an opposite result.

The South in Politics.

A writer at Chatanooga, Ga., under recent date, gives the following regarding the relations the South sustains in political matters, and speaks truly as to the necessity of the Radical party keeping that question before the people. He says: "The condition of politics is such that the Republican party cannot hope to remain in power unless they keep the Southern question, in all its bearings, before the country as the most prominent and vital question. They live on that, and are not disposed to let go at this late day. The Southern field is, and is to blame on the "d-d Democrats." be, a sort of political gunning ground, not only for the parties that now exist, but for such as may hereafter exist. The Poland question may be taken out of Russian politics, the Irish question may be taken out of English politics, but the Southern question will never be taken out of American politics so long as the two most separate and distinct races on the earth inhabit the same territory."

This movement has been caused by numerous letters from their old homes to Germans in this country, representing that trades and manufactures are active there, money plenty, wages high, and men scarce. The enormous sums obtained from France have stimulated all kinds of business in Germany, so that public works are going ahead, speculation is better wages and higher prices.
