DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

A Democratic State Convention for the State of Oregon is hereby called by the Democratic State Central Committee, convened at Portland on the 24th day of June, 1875, to meet at the city of Salem, Oregon, on Thursday, July 29th, 1875, at 11 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Representative in Congress, be to voted for at the special election to be held October 24th. 1875.

The appointment of members of said Convention among the counties is based upon the Democratic vote cast for the late Hon. Geo. A. LaDow for Congress in 1874, allowing one vote to each county and one to each one hundred votes, or fraction over fifty votes so cast. The several counties of the State will be entitled to delegates is said Convention as follows:

The Committee having no means of knowing the number of votes cast in that part of Jackson county recently created into Lake, it is expected the two counties will so arrange the representation as to make it just between them and each have its proper

It is suggested by the Committee that the several countles hold their Primary Conventions on Saturday, July 17th, at 1 o'clock P. ports thereof published, contenting think will be self-supporting. themselves with a simple call for primaries and conventions.

There is no doubt but what with a good candidate we can carry the State by a large majority. There are many strong and efficient men in the Democratic ranks who will accept a nomination, and we have implicit faith in the Convention, which meets next Thursday, nominating a candidate whom all Democrats and the people at large can support with a will.

Like the Albany Democrat, we believe that no particular section has a particular demand on the Convention for a candidate from it, as the entire people are interested in this office, as well as any other State office. Because a candidate comes from Southern or Eastern Oregon, the Willamette Valley or any other section, is no reason why he should receive the nomination, and we know the Democratic Convention will make no nomination on such grounds. What the Democracy want is a candidate who is capable, and who will attend to the wants of the entire State. Sectional prejudices should not animate any one, and we have every assurance that they will not. We have a substantial victory in our grasp, and by no blunder should we lose it.

Immigration Statistics.

From returns made to the Bureau of Statistics it appears that there arrived at the port of New York during the month of June, 1875, 13,989 immigrants, of whom 7,651 were males, and 6,348 females. During the month of June, 1874, there arrived at the same port 20,602 immigrants, of whom 11,547 were males, and 9,055 females. and his country's rulers. His address For the three months ending June 30, 1875, 45,566 immigrants arrived in New York, of whom 25,635 were males, and 19,931 females. For the corresponding period of 1874 the number of arrivals was 68,955, showing a decrease of 13,389 in 1875. Of the total number arrived during the month of June, 1875, 3,264 came from Germany, 3,192 from Ireland, 2,246 from England, and the remainder from other countries.

It was generally supposed that the visit to Oregon of the prominent railway men mentioned last week had reference solely to the Oregon and California Railroad. This, however, proves to have been a mistake, says the Guard, and it seems now that the hope of railroad connection with the East will be realized. For some time past the directors of the Oregon Central Pacific Railroad (Winnemucca) have been in correspondence with capitalists in the East looking to arrangements for the construction of that road. The result of this correspondence is, the Oregonian says, that these capitalists have made an offer in writing to build and equip the road complete from Portland to Winnemucca within three years, upon conditions as

The California election takes place in September, and the campaign now going on is an exciting and withal an important one. Three tickets are in the field-the Democratic, Republican and Independent. The Democrats are sanguine of success, and propose to make the canvass interesting. Besides Central Committee, we learn, have secured the services of ex-Governor Walker, of Virginia, Senator Thurman, Sunset Cox, Congressman Clymer and Kendall, of Pennsylvania, all able and forcible speakers. The Patrons of Husbandry.

The Order of the "Patrons of Husbandry" is intended, as we are informed, to advance the interest of its outside of politics and religion; and, lest these questions should creep in to disturb the harmony and usefulness of the association, a constitutional provision expressly prohibits the introduction of either. The headquarters of the institution has been heretofore in Washington, District of Columbia, but the following dispatch shows a

The Executive Committee of the National Grange held another session, and, after considerable discussion, agreed to remove the headquarters of the National Grange from Washington to Louisville, Ky.; also, resolved to hold the next meeting there on the third Wednesday in November.

It would naturally impress the uninitiated with the idea that it is difficult to sustain any social or business society in the great political centre of the United States without in some way dealing with politics, says the Bulletin, and the move mentioned in the dispatch was certainly the result of a wise conclusion on the part of the committee. The institution is doing much to advance the interests of agriculturists and the people at large; but if its objects be understood as simply to control some political party, its power must wane from that hour, and its usefulness be destroyed. The organizers and leading minds will certainly carefully guard against allowing the introduction of any bone of contention in the institution, and this last move looks like a determination to avoid even temptation to do so.

Rogue River.

In the Portland Sunday Welcome, Bishop Blanchet has a valuable contribution to the early history and literature of Oregon, under caption of "Proper the revolution that he had seen and Names-Their Proper Spelling, Meaning and Use." It is sufficiently interesting to be copied entire, but our limit only allows to extract a gem or two to-day, the principal being in re- found in a first-class variety store.

I will terminate my remarks by saying a word about the "Rogue River," and "Rogue River Valley" of Jackson county, called by the French Canadians "La Riviere aux Coquins, La Vallee des Coquins," in order to correct a very egregious blunder to be found on page 16 of the "Oregon Business Directory" for 1873, where it is asserted that "its name is supposed to be derived from Rouge (a French adjective meaning red) the For Boring Wells, Prospecting for Coal, Etc. name applied to it by the early voyagers, and to have been Anglicised by the first American settlers into that of Rogue," says the Directory. No, by no means; that is not the origin of the name. Here it is: a long list of local canvassers, the State | The Rogue River, Rogue River Valley, in French is "La Riviere aux Coquins, La Vallee des Coquins," were so called because of the wickedness of the Indians of that part of the country, who, when the caravan of trappers of the Hudson Bay Company was on its way to California, and returning back, never ceased to attack it, stealing mules and English, as also the valley of that name.
