Mr. Aiken, of Marion county, has raised four hundred pounds of flax to the acre this season.
There have been important seizures of whisky and other establishments of like character in Chicago.
Counterfeiting money is getting to be one of our most important industries. In Brooklyn recently ten million dollars in counterfeit greenbacks were burned.

Walker, the California Vinegar Bitters man, is suing in New York for a divorce from his wife. She seeks a large alimony. There are severe personalities in the case.
Professor Sox, of Albany, Oregon, has a Roman coin made in the days of Emperor Lucius, one thousand five hundred and sixty years ago, but a greenback will buy more bread.

The Chicago Tribune says that should both Democrats and Republicans nominate hard money men for the Presidency, the ragbaites in both parties will coalesce and nominate an inflationist.

Parties have been examining the mouth of Smith River with a view to improving it and making a harbor for light draft vessels, which would afford an outlet for a rich timber section in Del Norte county, California.

The old bell which called together the Virginia Convention of 1775, in Richmond, when Patrick Henry uttered his stirring sentence, "Give me liberty or give me death," is still in use in Martinsville, in that State.

The National Grange, at its late session held in Louisville, Kentucky, adopted this resolution: That the currency question is rapidly becoming a political question, and therefore should not be entertained by this grange.

A terrible hurricane took place Nov. 30th in the Philippine Islands; two hundred and fifty lives were lost and three thousand eight hundred dwellings destroyed; many cattle perished, and crops in all directions were ruined.

The oldest Methodist preacher in the United States, and perhaps in the world, Father Boehm, died on Tuesday at the house of his grand-daughter, near Richmond, Staten Island. He was one hundred years old on the 8th day of last June.

A dispatch dated St. Albans, Ver. mont, January 4th, says the Charlie Ross sensation is still the absorbing topic, and bets of $500 to $50 are offered that the boy is the real Charlie Ross. The authorities will hold the boy until the identification is established, and have offered to pay Mr. Ross' expenses to come and see him. A Philadelphia gentleman saw the boy and avowed he was sure it was Charlie Ross.

The grasshoppers of the Western States are disputing the ground so stubbornly with the settlers that Senator Harvey has introduced a bill providing for a committee of three Senators, with power to send for persons and papers, to investigate the "hopper" and his habits. The committee had better visit their country before spring, for the family will be too large to investigate by that time, besides the supply of party whitewash would be too small to tip their wings with.

A singular campaign document is about to be distributed through the country by the Radicals, in accordance with the suggestion lying on the surface of President Grant's message and his well-known anti-Catholic proclivities. It is nothing more or less than a sermon against popery preached by Parson Newman, before the President, at his chapel in Washington, a few weeks ago. Five hundred thousand pamphlet copies of this bull against the Pope, the Louisville Courier-Journal declares, have been ordered printed, and the people of the United States will be expected to pay the bill.

Weeds are probably about the most prolific things in the world. It is estimated that one plant of the red poppy bears fifty thousand seeds, one sow-thistle eighteen thousand, one corn-cockle twenty-five hundred and ninety, the charlock four thousand, a groundsel six thousand five hundred, and the black mustard twelve thousand.

There have been the last fiscal year, from January 1st to September 30th, 2,012 new granges organized; 279 alone in Texas, 218 in Virginia, and 9 in Oregon. The banner State is Indiana, with 2,036, Missouri being next.

Last year the State Grange of Nebraska appealed to the National Grange for assistance, on account of the destitution caused through the destruction of crops by the countless army of locusts. The appeal was well responded to, there being $26,466 66 contributed, Illinois leading with $3,740 37. Oregon is credited with $1,003 97, being the sixth highest.

ADORNMENT OF HOME.—Money which goes to buy a picture, statuette, or tasteful bracket for home adornment is wisely spent. If young people, just commencing life, after they have secured the few pieces of furniture that must be had, and made sure that they are what they ought to be, have some money left to get a picture, an engraving, or a cast, they ought to work to supply this want as seriously as the other, which seems more necessary, but in reality is not a bit more a necessity. The general character of a home will make a great difference to the children who grow up in it, and to all whose experience is associated with it, whether it be a beautiful and cheerful one, or only a homely and bare one, or a merely formal and conventional one. The relation of these things to education is all that gives dignity or poetry to the subject, or makes it allowable for a reasonable man to give much thought to it. But it has a real vital relation to life, and plays an important part in education, and deserves to be thought about a great deal more than it is. Seemingly trifles like this make life either happy or miserable.

ONE BRIGHT SPOT.—An ancient darkey called at the Central Station yesterday and informed the captain that a "feller had borrowed his watch and gone right to Canada," and he wanted to know what could be done about it.
"Nothing," said the captain.
"And he can't be fetched back?"
"No."
"Well, dere's one thing sartin," said the loser, as he went out, "dat watch won't run over fifteen minutes to wonce unless he hires a boy to shake it."—Detroit Free Press.

A VERY simple walking cane, with a candle enclosed, which might be convenient for use in dark passages, or even for reading in railroad cars, has been introduced by a German firm. The top portion consists of a hollow cylinder sewed on, and containing a spring to press upward, as fast as consumed, a candle placed in it. It is closed by a screw-cap, which forms a convenient top.

SOME of the scientists are "going back of Darwin," as the phrase is, and maintain that all animals, including man, came from vegetables. One is inclined to believe that theory possible when he reflects what "small potatoes" some folks are.

ABJURED HIS COUNTRY.—Sam Lee, the Chinaman who is in jail at Eureka, says the Eureka, Nevada, Sentinel, awaiting the action of the grand jury upon a charge of house-breaking, is hugely disgusted with his countrymen, who seem to have deserted him in the dark hours of his misfortunes. He repeatedly sent for his Celestial friends, but none of them responded to his call, and a few days ago, while brooding over the ingratitude of his Celestial brethren, in a moment of desperation he seized a butcher-knife and severed his cue close to the scalp, and, as he handed the dismembered braid to Sheriff Gilmore, exclaimed: "Damn Chinaman! Me all same now Melican man!"

CONFESSION OF DAN SMITH.
In accordance with the ruling of the Court, says the Portland Journal, Dan Smith, under oath, was placed in the witness stand. U. S. Attorney Mallory moved to have the examination postponed till Tuesday. The Court ordered the examination to proceed.

Dan Smith was examined by Mr. James D. Fay.—Was born in Maryland, am 30 years old, and am a stage driver; was at the time of the robbery driving on the route; had been drinking for months before; a party came and asked me if I knew of a mail sack with money in it; replied I could tell every Tuesday; the sack was stolen at Canyonville while I was drinking in a saloon; think there were seven passengers in the stage; heard of the robbery next night, when Montgomery was in Green's saloon, and said he thought there was from $10,000 to $15,000 in it; sobered up and asked Montgomery to let me have the sack, and I would send it to Sacramento, and nobody would know of it; he asked me if I knew whether Cardwell could be depended on; he wanted me to see if I could have the sack taken to the stable where Cardwell was and have it cut open; I said I would, and that night spoke to Cardwell about it; he said he would like to get in it, and to be sure and fetch it next night; that night Jack Montgomery was playing poker at Canyonville, and quit, and took the sack in a buggy; Jack and Cardwell and myself took the sack; Cardwell and Jack told me there was not so much gold dust as they thought; I saw the four cans and a roll of greenbacks outside of the sack in the stable that night; I said, "Hurry up, let's hide the sack;" Cardwell said, "Never mind. I can get away with that;" I went to Roseburg and came back next day; we agreed that if either told we would kill him; in about a month we divided; my share was $1,261.20, and I had the dust coined in the Philadelphia Mint under the name of Wm. B. Gilbert; as to my alias of "Dan Smith," it came from getting into a fight in Iowa; I had a prior arrangement with Montgomery, at his suggestion, about stealing the sack; one of the passengers in the stage at the time, named Merchant, a butcher in San Francisco, was with me in the saloon on the night while the sack was stolen.

Cross-examined.—Was acquainted with Jack Montgomery since 1874; didn't talk with him about robbing the stage two weeks before; he told me about another robbery of a stage with another party; if you [to Mr. Mallory] want me to tell who the party was, I will. [The question was not asked.]

ACTUALLY TALKED TO DEATH.—We should never go to hear Mr. Hussey, the noted English elocutionist, and this is why. A London paper vouches for the truth of it: On Saturday afternoon, November 13th, at Torquay, there was a large and fashionable assemblage to hear the readings by Mr. Hussey, an elocutionist, and occupying one of the front seats was a fine, portly gentleman of the name of Salisbury. While one of the first selections—"The death of Paul Dombey"—was being read, Mr. Hussey noticed that Mr. Salisbury was gazing at him fixedly in a somewhat peculiar attitude, sitting bolt upright. Toward the close of the second part of the concluding words of Tennyson's "May Queen" were being spoken, when at the reference to death, Mr. Hussey glanced toward Mr. Salisbury, and observed him in the same posture, his arms folded across his breast, and his gaze still intent. The reader stopped, and the persons around Mr. Salisbury, seeing his deathlike hue, instinctively retreated. Two doctors quickly arrived, and on examining the motionless gentleman, pronounced that although he sat upright like a living man, he had been dead nearly two hours.

ABJURED HIS COUNTRY.—Sam Lee, the Chinaman who is in jail at Eureka, says the Eureka, Nevada, Sentinel, awaiting the action of the grand jury upon a charge of house-breaking, is hugely disgusted with his countrymen, who seem to have deserted him in the dark hours of his misfortunes.
