GENERAL NOTES AND NEWS.

Commodore Vanderbilt is dead. It is estimated that 45,275 artisans and mechanics are out of employment in New York, and likely to suffer from cold and hunger.

The canvass of the vote of California gives Hayes a majority of something less than three thousand. There were seven thousand fraudulent ballots in San Francisco alone.

Not another dollar for the support of men who threaten to destroy republican institutions. If they must have money let them steal it the same way they stole their votes.

Virginia City, Nev., is being paved with waste quartz, which, being gradually crushed, release gold and silver valued at $9 to the ton; and one street is estimated to contain $133,000 in metal.

Wheat holds firm at $2.15 per cental in the San Francisco market. The demand for choice grades, caused by the European threats of war, must materially advance the prices of all inferior breadstuffs.

Wendell Phillips—the frank and bold—openly confesses that it is only the Southern issue that keeps the Republican party alive. And that issue Grant wanted to keep alive by the use of the bayonet.

It is understood that the military authorities have orders to transfer 3,000,000 pounds of ordnance and ordnance stores from Baton Rouge to New York, including 400 barrels of powder, guns, shot, shell, etc.

The Democratic Legislature of Louisiana has been notified by Thomas Adams, President of the Citizens' Committee, that their orders on the Treasurer of the committee for any amount of money he has will be promptly paid.

Matters now stand as follows in the Ashtabula railway accident; Number on the train, 128; number of employees on the train, 19; total, 147. Rescued—passengers, 63; employees, 9; total, 72. Died since—Passengers, 3; employees, 1; total, 4. Names known of the rescued, 73; lost, 70; unaccounted for, 5.

If the people had known, on the 7th of November, that the Radical managers were unwilling to accept the verdict of the ballot-box, but would make a mad effort to perpetuate their power by falsifying their returns, the Union, N. Y. Observer thinks that Hayes would not have carried four States in the Union.

The Inter-Ocean's Washington special says: The restaurateur of the House has been selling openly at a bar, claiming that its sales are prohibited by the joint rules which are not now in force. Speaker Randall to-day ordered the practice discontinued, thus sustaining the House. He reviews the decision that the rules are in force.

Mitchipple's Senate Committee is getting quite a number of Radicals from Oregon to testify in the Watts-Cronin case. Considering that this is simply a question of law, and the facts in the matter could be submitted on its merits, the summoning of so many useless witnesses can only be regarded as reckless extravagance. There are now about twelve or fifteen witnesses gone, of whom four are Democrats.

In the New York Daily Graphic of the 14th ult. appears a large picture of Gov. Grover, accompanying which is a biographical sketch of His Excellency. The photograph and sketch were obtained and forwarded to the Graphic by their art correspondent in Portland. The picture is a faithful representation of the "form and feature" of the Governor, and can be recognized at a glance. Just at this time the illustration and sketch will be examined by thousands with no small degree of interest.

The following are the estimated appropriations for Oregon, for the year 1877: Works at the mouth of the Columbia, $20,000; Willamette and Columbia, from Portland to the sea, $150,000; Upper Willamette, $85,000; Canal at Cascades, $300,000; for public surveys in Oregon, Washington, Nevada and Utah, $45,000 each; Surveyor General's office, Oregon, $9,700; Oregon Indian service, $40,000. Appropriations are also recommended of $25,000 for civilization and subsistence of Indians at Malheur Reservation.

The Times' Washington special says: Saylor, Chairman of the South Carolina Committee, says their report will show the entire Democratic State ticket and a majority of the members of the House of Representatives elected by from 200 to 1,100 majority; that radical negroes were the only intimidators, and instigated riots to arouse Northern prejudice. The Hayes Electors seem to be elected, though Saylor has some doubt of this. All decent Republicans in South Carolina admit that Hampton is elected and favor his inauguration.

ON THE OREGON BORDER.

GOOSE LAKE AND ITS SURROUNDINGS. LAKEVIEW, Nov. 30, 1876. The Oregon Legislature, at its last session, passed a bill submitting the location of the county seat of this county to the people at the November election. Linkville and Lakeview entered the lists to compete for the honor. After a bitter contest at the polls, Lakeview, which is situated in the southern part of the county, on the border of Goose Lake, was declared the people's choice by a large majority. Already a town is springing up like magic. The records are here. A good hotel is in running order, a well assorted dry goods and grocery store is open, and a first-class blacksmith shop is in full operation, while an ample hall, with a saloon attached, is now being erected. In a few days a graded school will be opened, in view of which families are preparing to move in from all the surrounding valleys to avail themselves of the facilities it will then provide their children for an education. The site of Lakeview has been bought from Mr. Bullard, its former owner, by J. A. Moore, of Goose Lake valley. Mr. Bullard is an old pioneer, having settled here immediately after General Crook whipped the Indians into subjection nine or ten years ago. His was the first house built in Goose Lake valley. His buckskin latch-string has always hung outside, indicating, to the lonely and the weary, at night-fall, or in the snows of Winter, a welcome beneath his hospitable roof. Many such have enjoyed with him his log heap fire, and partaken with a relish his slapsacks and venison, when outside nothing but a vast and inhospitable wilderness existed—a wilderness unbroken by other sounds than the howling winds, the yelping coyote, or the wailing of Indians. This is what this country was ten years ago. To-day this valley, from its southern border in Modoc county, California, to its northern boundary, is dotted with the homes of civilized man. Beautiful farms, many of them; others the home of stock men, all battling successfully with the rigors of our Winters—which, although long, are nothing like so cold as the Winters of New England—the established homes for their wives and children. Mr. Bullard generously donated twenty acres of land to the county for county purposes, besides lots for schools and churches.

LAND IN GOOSE LAKE VALLEY. In Goose Lake valley there are no public or vacant Government lands. All not donated to the Central Military Wagon Road Company or located by the State under the Agricultural College Act of Congress, are located and settled upon. Unfortunately for settlers the odd sections in a breadth of six miles running west and crossing the Cascade range, into Western Oregon, all belong to the Central Military Wagon Road Company, which are held from sale. The Agricultural College lands are in the market on the following terms: $2.50 per acre, 20 per cent of the purchase money down at the time of purchase, the balance in yearly installments of 20 per cent at 10 per cent interest till paid. The swamp and overflowed lands, have all been located by speculators under the State law providing for the sale thereof. The whole of the described territory, which extends 125 or 130 miles north to the Cascade range, on the west 150 miles, will be tributary to Lakeview. Some of your surplus population, without houses, and having good trades, with industrious and economic habits, can soon build comfortable homes and find plenty to do here at remunerative prices.

WARNER CANYON AND VALLEY. Warner Canyon, the outlet to the east to old Fort Warner and Stein Mountain, an extensive grazing country, is heavily timbered and very accessible with teams. It takes its name from Lieutenant Warner, who lost his life there at the hands of treacherous redskins some years ago, I think, in a Government Surveying Expedition. Warner's valley, east of us, is an extensive grazing country, with bunchgrass and sage in great abundance, fine meadows on the streams and surrounding Lake Warner. For some reason, which, I am unable to explain, the snow does not fall to any great depth there, hence, it is thus adopted as the pasturage for immense herds of cattle, which are driven in large numbers during the Winter months to Reno or Minnucuccu, bound for the San Francisco market.

CHEWAUCAN, SUMMER LAKE AND SILVER LAKE VALLEYS. North of us are the Chewaucan, Summer Lake and Silver Lake valleys. Like in Warner valley, the snow rarely falls to any great depth. The altitude of Chewaucan and Summer Lake is considerably lower than that of Goose Lake valley, giving them shorter Winters than we have here. Most of the residents, I might say all, are stock-raisers. Having shorter Winters and less snow, they have been more successful with their herds than those in Goose Lake valley, who are engaged in that business. Hepburn & Innis, Scotch gentlemen, are extensively engaged in sheep raising in Chewaucan. Their flock consists of about 7,000 head of ewes. They began sheep-raising there about two years ago. Considering their inexperience in a new country they have been quite successful, and will make sheep-raising in this wild country a success. They are possessed of indomitable energy and capital to back it. Summer Lake valley compares favorably with Chewaucan in climate, the pursuits of its residents, etc. It is a magnificent grazing region, with an extensive country north, extending into Wasco county, known as the desert, so little water existing there that no stock can live on it during Summer. But little snow falls on it during Winter, when the range is excellently adapted for grazing; and many drive their stock upon it during that season. The altitude of Silver Lake valley is so great that no garden vegetables will grow there, and its settlers come to Goose Lake for their flour, giving them 120 miles only to go to the mill. I should have mentioned that nearly all the vegetables, including tomatoes and melons, grow of the finest size and quality in Chewaucan and Summer Lake valleys. Drew's valley, on the west, is like Silver Lake, frost prevailing every night in the year. It is said to be the most beautiful and picturesque in its scenery of all these valleys. It is also devoted to grazing.

AN ABUNDANCE OF WILD FRUITS. In all these valleys, I believe, not even excepting Silver Lake and Drew's, wild fruits, such as plums, apricots, gooseberries and currants, in several varieties each, some of excellent quality, abound in the greatest quantities. I never saw such quantities to the tree or bush as I have seen here. Nearly all of this country I have described is suitable for homes. From the Southern rim of Goose Lake valley to Silver Lake on the north, to Stein mountain on the east and the Cascade range on the west, including Sprague river valley, Langell valley and Lost river, are all suitable for farms.
