

Massachusetts Democracy.

The Massachusetts Democrats met at Worcester on the 13th and put forward the following ticket: Governor, Wm. Gaston; Lieut. Governor, Wm. R. Plunkett; Secretary of State, Weston Howland; Treasurer and Receiver, G. n. David N. Skelling; Administrator, John E. Fitzgerald; Attorney-General, Charles P. Thompson. The platform reaffirms and announces the national Democratic platform of 1876; congratulates the Democrats and the whole country that these principles were endorsed in a national canvass by the suffrages of a decided majority of the American people. Although Massachusetts has long been the hot-bed of Radicalism, with the splendid ticket in the field the Democracy means to press its opponents to the wall, and we will not be seriously surprised if success attends its efforts.

Gen. Howard's Report.

The following from General Howard, dated the 16th inst., has just been received at headquarters:

Our advance has followed the enemy, by several forced marches, keeping close on their heels for three days. Sturgis is in command, accompanied by Sanford and Bendire, and Assistant Surgeon Fitzgerald. Fleischer, Aid-de-camp, with twenty-five scouts, has also been sent with Sturgis. Sturgis' last report was headed Muscule Shell valley, Sept. 15, 1877, is in substance as follows: We kept close on the heels of the enemy yesterday, making thirty-eight miles, killing five Indians that we took, probably wounding many more than they carry along, compelling them to drop over 300 of their ponies, making 600 in three days. He reports his own horse much jaded, nearly exhausted, but says: "I'm going ahead this morning and propose to push them until they drop their whole herd or we drop, and I think they will abandon nearly their last horse to-day." Sturgis' hand has done well. I think the remnant of the Nez Perces will be absorbed by hostile Sioux; then my own campaign must end. Command in good health and much cheered by this success. The force moves via Baker's battle-field to Muscule Shell, receiving supplies from Fort Custer.

The Old-Fashioned Carpet-Bagger.

The Charlotte, N. C., Observer discourses as follows: Ah! it will be a great day for the old-fashioned carpet-bagger, and for the South as well, when they leave the crowded territory of New England and come down here and enter into possession of our idle lands and embark in many branches of business in which they are so much needed. Our people can tell the difference between tramps and settlers as soon as they show their heads, and the latter will be received with open arms as soon as he arrives, and no questions asked as to politics or religion. The old-fashioned carpet-bagger is a treasure. Coming here from no matter what locality, he will find that the South regards him as such.

A Forger on the Rampage.

The Salem Statesman luxuriates in figures now-a-days, and it is really amusing to note what chaos it plunges itself in its effete attempts to fasten corruption on the present State officials. Poor thing! Its figures are too fancy and won't fit. It is only too transparent that it labors so agonizingly for the sole purpose of making capital against the Democracy and to pave the way for the irrepressible Mitchell in his greed for a second term. Odell would be infinitely more successful in expounding what he knows about addition, division and silence in the Surveyor-General's office during his interim.

Hayes' Order in Oregon.

The Republican State Committee held a meeting at Portland on the 17th, at which the resignations of Geo. A. Steel as Chairman, and John Kelly as member from Lane, were received and accepted. The first is Postal Agent and the latter Collector of Customs, and this action was taken in obedience to Hayes' order requiring Federal office-holders to stand aloof from active participation in politics. The Mitchell ring loses nothing, however, as the phalanx is made solid again by the appointment of David Goodsell, of Multnomah, in the place of Steel, and C. W. Washburn, of Lane, instead of Kelly.

"Give us a Rest."

Thus exclaims the Oregon City Enterprise, which, in conjunction with its confreres, thoroughly dislikes the idea of the people harping on the Presidential steal. Of course it is very disagreeable; but then, like Banquo's ghost, it will not down.

A Good Nomination.

The New Jersey Democracy have placed in nomination for Governor none other than Gen. George B. McClellan, one of the ablest and purest men of the time. Of course he will be triumphantly elected.

Conkling to be Heard From.

The Utica correspondent of the New York Sun writes to that journal as follows: "There is music in the air," said a prominent citizen of this city to your correspondent this morning. "Roscoe Conkling will be heard from when Congress meets. Why, sir, do you know that he abhors the fraudulent abuse of his Fraudulency Hayes that no one who holds office under the Government may belong to a political organization—organizations of the very party who cast their votes for His Fraudulency in the last Presidential election. Can you point to me, sir, to a single person who belongs to a Democratic association and who holds office under the Government who has been obliged to resign his political affiliations? Not one; and yet I know scores of Democrats who hold positions under the Government who still retain their affiliations with the clubs and associations of their political party. Why, sir, the Czar of Russia would not dare issue such an arbitrary ukase. This is a free country—a republic—and we are freemen; and Hayes has no more right to issue such mandatory commands than has George Francis Train or the Hon. Eli Perkins. Yes, sir, Conkling will be heard from at the proper time, when Congress meets."

Bulgarian Atrocities.

The Turkish government, every few days, sends to the world a bulletin announcing fearful atrocities by the Russians and Bulgarians. So far as these cases have been investigated, they appear, where substantiated, to have been principally committed by Bulgarians. Our readers will, no doubt, remember the fearful atrocities of last year committed by the Turks upon them. As unfolded in the speeches of Gladstone and in the details furnished by our own consul, Schuyler, they were of a character to shock, as they did shock, the civilized world. The immediate result was an indignant protest from the great powers of Europe, which was so far heeded that the atrocities ceased. But the chief actors were promoted and honored by the Turkish Government. Now the Turks are getting their own actions returned upon themselves. Naturally they don't like it, but what else could they expect? It is certainly human nature for the Bulgarian to take revenge when it comes to hand. Inhuman outrages of either party admit of no justification, but the provocation the Bulgarian has had cannot but be remembered when we are called upon to record with approbation his deeds of vengeance. As far as the Russians are concerned, the Cossack is hardly a match yet for the Bashi Bazouk in the outrage business.

The Man that Fraud Made.

This is the man that Fraud made. This is the Schurz that clings to the man that Fraud made. This is the man that bought the Schurz that clings to the man that Fraud made. This is the Noyes that started the Gould that bought the Schurz that clings to the man that Fraud made. This is the Count that followed the Noyes that started the Gould that bought the Schurz that clings to the man that Fraud made. This is the Key that crossed the Count that followed the Noyes that started the Gould that bought the Schurz that clings to the man that Fraud made. This is the Matthews, shaven and shorn, that fathered the Policy, all forlorn, that forged the Key that closed the Count that followed the Noyes that started the Gould that bought the Schurz that clings to the man that Fraud made. This is the Country, cheated and torn, that spurns Stanley Matthews, shaven and shorn, that fathered the Policy, all forlorn, that forged the Key that closed the Count that followed the Noyes that started the Gould that bought the Schurz that clings to the man that Fraud made.

Death of Senator Bogy.

Senator L. V. Bogy of Missouri died at his residence on the 20th inst. Mr. Bogy was elected to the Senate in 1872. He was a man of considerable ability and of the greatest integrity, and an uncompromising and steadfast Democrat. He took an active part in the debate on the electoral question, and made a very able speech in the Senate in behalf of the course pursued by Gov. Grover. Before his election to the Senate he was on the bench in his State, says the Standard, and in every position of trust he discharged his duties faithfully and honestly. The death of Senator Bogy will be seriously felt by his State, where he was much esteemed and beloved. The Governor will appoint his successor, and, as the Legislature of Missouri does not meet until 1878, unless convened in special session, the appointee will hold the office for nearly the rest of the term for which Mr. Bogy was elected.

GENERAL NOTES AND NEWS.

Gen. Sherman is at Portland, on his way home from Montana. There are fifty-seven chartered lodges A. F. & A. M. in Oregon, with a membership of 2,384. The Coos Bay News learns that Mr. Jennings has struck six dollar diggings on the south fork of Sixes river. A number of aspiring and newsy writers, principally ladies, are visiting Oregon for the purpose of writing up the State. Philadelphia, Sept. 21.—Wool firm and in good demand. California fine and medium, 29 to 35 cents; coarse, 22 to 26 cents. Hellringer, who murdered Lewis Jones in Douglas county, has been held to answer on a charge of murder in the first degree. The present campaign against the Indians has been officially designated by Gen. Howard as "The Expedition against hostile Nez Perce Indians." Mr. Tilden is receiving a great deal of notice abroad as the fortunate gentleman who narrowly escaped becoming the President of the United States. Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 21.—The Third United States Infantry has gone to-day to join the other troops at Pittsburg, preparatory to proceeding to Montana. Congress assembles on the 15th prox., and Mr. Hayes has been busily engaged in finding out whether Evarts is getting along well with the Presidential message. An exchange says that it is almost as easy for the Indians to get away with Howard's horses as it was for Howard to get away with the funds of the freedman's bureau. In a private letter of very recent date received at Washington, S. S. Cox writes from Long Branch that his chances for the Speakership of the next House of Representatives are excellent. John Savage of Marion county has a colt, two years old in June last, sired by Mr. Meyer's Percheron horse, "White Prince," which was placed on the scales Saturday, weighing 1,532 pounds. The East-bound passenger train on the Union Pacific Railroad was stopped and robbed on the 18th, at Big Spring, Nebraska, by masked men. The robbers got $75,000 out of the express safe, besides what they took from the passengers. The government that endeavors to suppress Sitting Bull with the army, and, having been badly beaten in two battles, next proposes to make terms with him by quasi peace player, cannot be astonished if its conduct demoralizes every Indian in the country. Who gets the benefit of the rations issued to the Indians? According to the government record of the number of rations issued for the noble red men the Washington Star is of the opinion that there are to-day some twenty-five thousand more Indians than when America was discovered. The Times says Gen. Joe Johnston is credited with the statement that both sides were greatly demoralized after the first Bull Run battle, and that he now believes it would have been better for the South if the North had won that battle, for in that event the war would have probably ended there. Wells and Anderson are to be tried for perjury and forgery in Louisiana, and they want to know whether R. B. Hayes, whom they made President, is going to permit them to be punished for that deed. The St. Louis Times thinks that they will probably discover that Hayes, having made sure of the stolen goods, does not care who may swing for the crime. Perhaps no other three men on the face of the earth ever uttered, in the same length of time, so much insufferable gush and thrice-sodden bosh as Hayes, Devens and Key uttered during their tour through the West and New England. The school boy who would write such speeches should deserve to be taken by the heels and worn out against the ground. On the Yaquina railroad the grading has been completed to a point one mile beyond the village of Philomath, and the road bed has been located several miles beyond that point. The managers have been corresponding with some Eastern firms and have a very fair prospect of getting the iron and rolling stock for the first ten miles early in the spring. Every one connected with the road means business.

The European War.

Matters for the past few days are in statu quo, both sides claiming advantage in the slight engagements that have taken place. It is stated the Russian and Roumanian losses before Plevna exceed 25,000 killed and wounded. Fire in the Patent Office. A great fire prevailed in the patent office at Washington on the 24th, which caused several hundred thousand dollars' worth of damages, which can never be wholly repaired. Spontaneous combustion is supposed to have originated it.
